CITY'S BILLION FOR LIBERTY LOAN ALL BUT ASSURED

Last Night's Total Put at $750,000,000, with Two and a Half Days to Work.

OTHER CITIES SPEEDING UP

Big Subscribers Expected to Rush Orders at the Last to Make Sure of Allotments.

DIVIDENDS PAID IN BONDS

Figures Outside of New York Show Many Delayed Subscriptions Turned In.

The Liberty Loan Committee for the New York Federal Reserve District announced last night that the subscriptions received up to Monday evening amounted to $700,000,000. Unofficial estimates of applications received yesterday, some indication of which was had from the announcement of individual subscriptions, bring the total up to at least $750,000,000. This is $150,000,000 in excess of the Treasury Department's allotment for the district, but lacks $250,000,000 of $1,000,000,000, the goal that New York bankers set for themselves when the two-billion-dollar loan was first announced.

Since the publication of subscription totals a few days ago the movement to buy bonds has been greatly accelerated, and it has reached the point where a hundred million dollars may be expected daily. Two and a half days remain before the closing of the books, and at that rate, the full $1,000,000,000 will be on hand at noon Friday. With the other districts making a more aggressive drive in the last two days of the campaign, bankers are sanguine that the loan will be fully subscribed. The moment the bonds are all taken, there will be a rush still further to increase the subscriptions in order that the large subscribers may be assured of receiving the initial amount applied for.

Directors of the United States Steel Corporation held a special meeting yesterday afternoon, following which E. H. Gary, Chairman of the board, announced that it had been decided to make a further subscription of $25,000,000, which brought the total up to $50,000,000. "And we may make a still further subscription," he said, "if it should seem necessary in order to dispose of the total amount of bonds to be placed by the Government within the period ending next Friday."

$25,000,000 Distributed.

This additional subscription of $25,000,000 is not included in the above totals for the New York District for the reason that this second subscription of the Steel Corporation is to be distributed among the other eleven Federal Reserve Districts, the corporation having plants, &c., in various parts of the country.

The Mutual Life Insurance Company yesterday increased its subscriptions from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000, and the Equitable Life Assurance Society announced that it had subscribed for $3,000,000 additional, bringing its total up to $5,000,000. The Prudential Life Insurance Company has brought its subscription up to $5,000,000.

James Stillman, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the National City Bank, has subscribed for $1,000,000, Mrs. E. H. Harriman has applied for a second $1,000,000, and William Rockefeller for $2,500,000.

The First National Bank, which has to date collected subscriptions to the amount of $85,000,000, ($25,000,000 for itself,) declared yesterday its regular quarterly 5 per cent. dividend, the same to be payable in Liberty bonds. The First Security Company, which, like the bank, is capitalized at $10,000,000, also declared a 5 per cent. dividend, payable in bonds. The disbursement to the stockholders will amount to a full $1,000,000.

The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Coal Company distributed yesterday a special dividend of $25 a share. Accompanying the dividend check was a notice reading, "Do your bit and use this little bit of a check to buy Liberty Loan bonds."

Denies the Rich Are Shirking.

A New York newspaper having published a Washington dispatch purporting to quote Treasury officials to the effect that poor people were subscribing to the bonds, while the responses from those well able to buy them had not been up to expectations, the Liberty Loan Committee issued the following statement:

"The members of the Liberty Loan Committee do not believe that any responsible official of the Treasury Department has made such a statement nor has held any such opinion. So far as the New York Federal Reserve District is concerned, such a statement is false whoever makes it.

"Our records show that in this city and district the subscriptions from citizens of large means have been extraordinarily generous and prompt. To date in New York [illegible] from other than bank-

Marshal Joffre's Hopes Rise with Liberty Loan

Marshal Joffre, who as one of the Commissioners from the Republic of France captured the hearts of the American people, demonstrated yesterday that the tie formed by his recent visit had not been weakened by his return to his own country. That he is keenly interested in every activity of this country he proves by the following cable message he sent from Paris yesterday to the Liberty Loan Committee in New York City:

"The success of the Liberty Loan will be a new pledge of final victory which will crown the common efforts of the soldiers of the United States and their comrades of the allied armies."

Better Outlook in Russia Shown by Washington Reports

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Continued improvement in the Russian situation, and especially as concerns the army, is reflected in reports reaching Washington today. These indicate that the Provisional Government is now displaying a more hearty interest in Russia's support of the Entente cause, and, while the disorganization of the nation is too extended to permit of decisive operations against Germany, the army is strong enough to prevent a further invasion of Russian territory by the forces of the Central Empires.

The army itself is said to be in favor of continuing the war and of prosecuting it with vigor. The workmen, however, are still obstructing the Government and the army, and, according to reports, appear to be more concerned about their own interests than those of their Government and nation.

BERLIN DISLIKES NOTE TO RUSSIA

OURS A "WAR OF CAPITAL"

Cologne Paper Says Americans Are Being Fooled — Wants Hyphenates to Teach Us.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 12.—The Lokal-Anzeiger, commenting on President Wilson's message to Russia, compares him with Don Quixote of La Mancha, who, looking neither to the left nor right, fantastically seeks only one aim, which is neither here nor there.

"He is determined his name shall go down in history as unselfish among the great apostles of democracy. Wherever democratic principles are not law, Wilson—like the knight of the rueful countenance, who mistook windmills for hosts of the enemy and spurred his Rosinante against them until the sails of the windmills bore him skyward—draws his sword against imaginary enemies.

"His letter to the Russian Government is full of fantastic pictures. All of a sudden he realizes that the world is being accompanied with a [illegible] intrigue of the autocratic power of Germany which must not be borne because it endangers the peace and liberty of the world. He maintains that the Imperial German Government is seeking guarantees that the war will end with the restitution of the status quo, whereas he must have knowledge of the speech by the German Chancellor which makes it quite clear that the war cannot end with the restitution of the status quo. While he fabulates about German plans of world conquest he at the same time overestimates German modesty. But of course the status quo in his eyes means nothing but the permanency of German tyranny in and outside of Germany.

"As every fanatic who preaches confused theories of the millennium, Wilson states that his attitude in this war is so clearly defined that nobody can be excused for not understanding it."

The Lokal-Anzeiger thinks "this apostle of democracy is the most powerful autocrat in the world, far more so than the German Kaiser whom he wishes to depose," but the paper also intimates a sinister purpose on President Wilson's part, inasmuch as at Christmas, it says, he told all the world that it was impossible to ascertain the party who caused the world war, and in June declares it has his unshakable conviction that Germany caused it.

"Can it be possible," it concludes, "that the man who at Christmas solemnly proclaimed from the other side of the ocean that permanent peace might be achieved, and that for its preservation he was ready to create an international authority on condition that there be no victors and no vanquished, now in June insists on the defeat of the Central Powers? He is certainly consciously telling untruths, which Don Quixote never did."

Puts Blame on Our Capitalists.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, June 12.—The official Kölnische Zeitung is asserting that an enthusiastic war spirit does not really exist in America. It says:

"Americans love sensational reports, to boast about their armaments, troops, ships, &c."

All news reaching Germany is doubly censored and sifted, and it is therefore necessary to listen between the lines. The paper quotes a report from the Washington representative of The London Times of May 27, commenting that his tone is much more subdued. The paper further points out that "naturally the capitalists have laid all their trumps on England's victory and are endeavoring to whip up the war spirit in America, and that their power must not be underestimated, as they rule the press and have a tremendous influence in Washington and also have the President on their side. Nevertheless, there is large opposition, and as soon as the people learn that they have been deceived and that it is a war of capital their disappointment will be great and the American people do not intend to be tools of the capitalists."

The paper continues that Americans feared a German attack in South America, and they wished to prevent this by taking part in Germany's defeat. It adds:

"At the same time they wished to have the army and navy ready in order to be armed at the forthcoming discussion about Canada, Mexico, and the South Seas. But this does not mean war to the knife with Germany and never did. To America this war is similar to a colonial war, to be undertaken energetically, with a certain amount of national loss. It is to our interests to promote this process of self-determination in America that even England cannot conceal.

"If we show that we cannot be bluffed and take all reports concerning America coolly, the Americans' respect for us will go up. Besides this, we must, as far as communications will allow, continue with the political enlightenment of America. An American who is convinced that Germany is fighting a defensive war and does not think of interfering with South America's freedom or with the political questions of America is lost to the Allies. Our best allies will be now, as formerly, the German-Americans whose duty has been to explain to the grossly ignorant in America the true German position.

"The fact that the German-Americans do not represent any particular party in political life makes their position stronger. They represent all classes and professions, and all political parties and societies are intermingled with the German-Americans so that they will act as a sounding-board to German enlightenment in a way which does not exist in any other enemy country, and will often bring moments of prudence and reserve to the Americans' emotions. This has often proved an obstacle to Mr. Wilson

Stockholders Asked to Give $5,803,028 Disbursement to $100,000,000 Fund.

MORE CONCERNS TO FOLLOW

H. P. Davison Tells What Will Be Done with the Huge Relief Fund.

PLAN FOR ANY EMERGENCY

Red Cross to Act as Foster-Parent of American Soldiers and to Assist Our Allies.

The United States Steel Corporation yesterday started the movement, forecast in THE TIMES last week, of declaring extra dividends out of current large earnings for the benefit of the Red Cross Fund of $100,000,000. The Directors declared an extra disbursement of 1 per cent. on the common stock, amounting to $5,803,028, which will be paid to the owners of the stock late next month with the suggestion that the checks be turned over to the Red Cross. After the meeting Chairman Elbert H. Gary issued this statement:

"The Board of Directors at a special meeting today declared an extra dividend of 1 per cent. on the common stock payable July 28. This dividend was declared in response to the request of many stockholders to declare an extra dividend to enable them to contribute to the large fund which it is sought to obtain for Red Cross army purposes, under the auspices of the American National Red Cross.

"The dividend checks will be sent to stockholders with a statement of the circumstances which influenced the action of the board and the disposition of the dividend will be left entirely with the stockholders in accordance with their interests and patriotic instincts."

The thought of making extraordinary distributions from the proceeds of present prosperity in the industries for the benefit of Red Cross funds has long been in the minds of financiers. With the Steel Corporation, the greatest of all business combinations, taking the lead, it was expected in the financial district yesterday that many other companies would quickly follow. The shareholders are not bound, of course, to turn in their dividends to the Red Cross, but it is expected that the response will be generous. The Steel Corporation made it clear that the distribution of 1 per cent. would not affect stockholders' participation in earnings for their own account, as announcement was made that the quarterly dividend to be declared at the usual time in July would be the same as was declared for the current quarter.

If all the special Steel dividend is made available for the $100,000,000 fund, more than 5 per cent. of this great sum will have been raised in a single subscription before the active campaign starts.

New York's Share, $40,000,000.

New York's share of the Red Cross fund is $40,000,000, and twenty-nine of the thirty team Captains who will collect it discussed ways and means yesterday at a luncheon at the Bankers' Club. A letter was read from Henry P. Davison of J. P. Morgan & Co., the General Chairman of the War Council of the Red Cross, outlining the uses to which the $100,000,000 was to be put. It was addressed to Seward Prosser, Chairman of the War Finance Committee of the organization, and read by F. D. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad.

"The question is frequently asked," wrote Mr. Davison, "just what is the Red Cross going to undertake and what argument can be used in soliciting contributions for the $100,000,000 Red Cross War Fund—a very natural question. My answer is as follows:

"Given the greatest war the world has known, now entering the last month of its third year on the one hand, the American Red Cross on the other, what is the Red Cross going to do?

"The first thing it is going to do is to effect the most efficient organization possible. The President has appointed a War Council, which council has assumed the responsibility of effecting this organization. It is developing plans which involve the selection of the best talent in the United States in medicine, in sanitation, in transportation, in construction, in welfare work, in purchasing, in commercial business, in accounting, and in such other lines as may be required in an undertaking of this magnitude. Ordinarily it would be difficult to employ trained talent of the character required. Men would not be available, but it has already been demonstrated beyond any concern on the part of the council that the best talent is available and most of it volunteer, so that, in whatever direction it may be necessary to move, the work will be carried on intelligently, efficiently, and economically.

"The desire of the War Council is for immediate action to be as efficiently and economically executed as possible. By reason of the co-operative spirit of the public it is believed that the overhead charges in the administration of this work will be comparatively low. Only a small percentage of each dollar contributed will be required to carry the relief to its destination.

Organize Base Hospitals.

"Next we shall continue organizing base hospitals with personnel and full equipment in order that they may be turned over to the army upon a day's notice for transport to France. At the same time we will proceed to organize such units to be stationed at the mobilization camps of our soldiers and our

Promises to Cut Down Cost of Living in Britain

LONDON, June 12. — Addressing the newly appointed commissioners on labor unrest at his official residence today, Premier Lloyd George announced that the Government had already started a searching investigation on the subject of profit-making and hoped soon to make proposals substantially reducing the cost of some of the necessaries of life.

Referring to the urgency of measures for remedying labor unrest, the Premier said the Government was anxious not only that the commissioners investigate the causes of unrest, but that they make their own recommendations as to the best way of dealing with the question. He hoped that they would be able to make their report by the first week in July.

BRITISH ADVANCE AGAIN IN BELGIUM

DISORDER IN ENEMY LINES

Haig, Praising Messines Victors, Says Nothing Can Save Germans from Defeat.

LONDON, June 12.—Information from unofficial sources at the British front that the crushing victory at Messines last Thursday, had demoralized the Germans, is borne out by General Haig's report tonight, in which he says the troops pushed forward today on a front of about two miles east and northeast of Messines, occupying the village of Gaspard, one mile northwest of Warneton. The Germans evidently feel back with little resistance as they did yesterday southeast of Messines, where they abandoned seven field guns.

"Although the Germans continue to splash shells about the positions won last week east of Messines Ridge," says The Associated Press correspondent at the front, "they have attempted no further counterattack. On the other hand, the British, having thoroughly consolidated the new line running due north and south, well east of Oostaverne, are further securing their new ground by pushing patrols well forward. Thus far they have met with comparatively little resistance from the enemy, who appears to be undecided whether to make a further stand or to fall completely back to his Warneton line. The British are pressing toward this town.

"Most of the artillery firing comes from long-range guns. Seven field guns were captured late yesterday. Information reaching the British indicates temporary disorganization of the German forces, or at least nervousness regarding their position between the converging Ypres-Comines Canal and the River Lys."

The British also made progress today astride the Souchez River (southwest of Lens) and captured seventeen prisoners and three machine guns.

The text of tonight's communication says:

Our troops gained further ground today east and northeast of Messines on a front of nearly two miles and occupied the hamlet of Gaspard.

We also advanced our line slightly early this morning astride the Souchez River, and captured seventeen prisoners and three machine guns.

The enemy's artillery has shown considerable activity during the day northeast of Gouzeaucourt and north of the Scarpe, and in the neighborhood of Lens and Ypres.

Our airplanes were active yesterday. Although weather conditions were not favorable much useful work was accomplished. One of our machines is missing.

The early statement reads:

We successfully raided the enemy's trenches last night north of Neuve Chapelle and took thirteen prisoners. Hostile raiding parties were repulsed south of Neuve-Chapelle, east of Armentières and north of Ypres. A number of the enemy were killed and we captured a few prisoners.

A dispatch from the Associated Press correspondent at the front says:

"General Haig has issued a special order of the day congratulating General Plumer and the entire Second Army which he commands, and saying that the complete success of their attack last Thursday is 'an earnest of the eventual final victory of the Allied cause.' General Haig emphasizes the fact that the position assaulted was 'one of very great natural strength, on the defenses of which the enemy had labored incessantly for nearly three years,' and says that the British casualties for a battle of such magnitude were gratifyingly light.

"The full effect of the victory cannot be estimated yet, but that they will be very great is certain. After detailing the advantage which the Germans had in possessing the ridge, which gave them foreknowledge of and time to prepare for the British attack, General Haig declares that the capture of Messines shows 'nothing can save the enemy from complete defeat, and, brave and tenacious as the German troops are, it is only a question how much longer they can endure the repetition of such blows.'

"The total number of prisoners taken by the Canadians in their record-breaking raid last week was 168, including four officers."

English Cavalry "Decimated."

BERLIN, June 12, (via London.)—English cavalry yesterday advanced against the German lines east of Messines on the Belgian front, but only remnants returned, says the German War Office statement today.

During the month of May the Germans lost seventy-nine airplanes while the Entente Allies lost 262 machines, says the official statement issued today by the German Army Headquarters Staff. The statement says that 114 Entente airplanes fell behind the German lines and 140 British and French machines were forced down within the Entente positions.

The text of the official statement reads:

Army Group of Crown Prince Rupprecht. In Flanders the artillery activity near Ypres and south of the Douve increased during the evening. During the afternoon British cavalry advanced against our lines east of Messines. Only remnants returned. South of Messines the attacking infantry was repulsed by a counter-attack.

The firing activity was lively in Artois, especially in the Lens salient and south of the Scarpe Valley. Near

RUMOR MONGERS CAUGHT IN NET OF GOVERNMENT

ENEMY ALIENS RESPONSIBLE

Washington Authorities Determined to Put an End to Widespread Propaganda.

ANTI-DRAFT CONVICTIONS

Verdicts in Case of Two Anarchists the First of Their Kind in America.

The Government has started a round-up of the persons who for several weeks past—in fact, almost from the day that President Wilson signed the declaration of war against Germany—have been circulating rumors through the country that the Navy had met with a great disaster, and that the Navy Department was keeping the facts from the people. Already twelve men suspected of knowing about the origin of these rumors have been located by Federal agents and a demand made upon them to give the Government all the information they possess.

Rumors that American warships had been in battle with the German fleet and that several of the American vessels had been lost, with their crews, that a mutiny had taken place on board a battleship of the Atlantic Fleet, while that ship was on the way to a French port, and that the superdreadnought Pennsylvania, flagship of the fleet, had been destroyed, have been circulated in New York, Baltimore, Boston, and other cities.

One of the men who is now being investigated by the Secret Service wrote a letter in which he stated that he had information that there had been a mutiny on board one of the Atlantic fleet battleships, and that in quelling it many bluejackets were wounded and several killed. The Government was able to locate the man who wrote the letter, and he was taken before the proper authorities yesterday. Whether or not he disclosed the source of his rumor the Government [illegible] to say last night.

Another scheme followed by the enemy aliens, believed to be responsible for this propaganda, the purpose of which is to stir up discontent in the naval service, and to cause the people generally to distrust the Government, is to tell these stories to boys in their teens, especially school boys and newsboys, who carry the news to all parts of the city or town in which it is desired to have the report circulated.

For weeks these reports have been coming to the attention of the Federal authorities, and in each instance the report has been promptly branded as false by Secretary Daniels, but even his vigorous denials failed to stop the rumor-mongers, and the result was the issuance last Saturday of the official statement in which Secretary Daniels said that "the country is being poisoned by rumors of battle and disaster that are absolutely without the slightest foundation in truth" and that reports from officers in command of naval stations, inquiries from newspapers and individuals, letters and telegrams from all parts of the country had led him "to the conclusion that there is an organized conspiracy on foot to alarm and distress the people of the United States."

Another matter which has caused much trouble of late is the willingness of a few liquor dealers to supply soldiers and sailors in uniform with liquor in direct violation of the law recently passed by Congress. On one subway train, early yesterday morning, a citizen reported seeing five sailors and one soldier stupefied with drink.

Similar reports have come from other sources, and saloon keepers who are detected selling intoxicating drink to men in uniform will face prompt arrest and trial in the Federal courts.

Reports of violations of the Military Liquor laws are also coming from various parts of New Jersey. Director of Public Safety Bernard McFeely and Chief of Police Patrick Hayes announced yesterday that evidence had been obtained against six saloonkeepers. One night recently so great was the demand for drink by soldiers that they stood in line to get to bars in River Street. Five of the saloons are in River Street, and the sixth just around the corner. When soldiers and sailors applied at the other places in Hoboken they were refused. The violation was open, but the Hoboken police did not take any steps to close the places because the military authorities threatened, when they took charge of the German plots in Hoboken, to deal summarily with any liquor dealers in the neighborhood who sold to soldiers. The police say they expected the provost guard would act, but it did not.

Director McFeely said he was going to demand that the Federal authorities prosecute under Section 12 of the Army act, which makes it a misdemeanor to sell liquor to men in uniform. The punishment is a thousand dollars fine and a year in prison.

ANARCHISTS CONVICTED OF OBSTRUCTING DRAFT

Verdicts in Kramer and Becker Cases Are First of Their Kind.

Louis Kramer and Morris Becker, who style themselves "citizens of the world," and both of whom are members of the same anarchist group as Emma Goldman and Alexander Berkman, were convicted in the Federal Court last night of having entered into a conspiracy to dissuade men from registering under the selective draft law. The two anarchists, one of whom, it was testified, had said that in his opinion the country would be better off if President Wilson were dead, heard the verdict of

ANGLO-FRENCH TROOPS LAND

PREMIER HEEDS JONNART

Told Powers' Purpose Is to Re-establish Greek Unity and Protect Allied Army.

EX-KING TO LEAVE COUNTRY

Will Start for Italy, En Route to Switzerland, with the Crown Prince on British Warship.

ATHENS, June 12.—The fall of Constantine I., King of the Hellenes, has come. In response to the demand of the protecting powers—France, Great Britain and Russia—he abdicated today in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander.

This climax in the affairs of Greece was brought about through the agency of the French Senator, M. Jonnart, who has held posts in several French Cabinets and who arrived at Athens only a day or two ago on a special mission as the representative of France, Great Britain and Russia. M. Jonnart had previously visited Saloniki and other points, and he lost no time in getting into conference with the Greek Premier, Alexander Zaimis.

The demands of the powers respecting the abdication of King Constantine also specifically eliminated Crown Prince George as his successor, the Crown Prince being included among those Greeks in official life who were considered strongly pro-German. Both the former King and Prince George, it was announced today by Premier Zaimis, intend to leave the country immediately. It is reported that they will embark on a British warship and proceed to Switzerland by way of Italy.

It is presumed that Prince Alexander will take his kingly duties with full acceptation of the ideas which the protecting powers desire to be put into effect in the Government of Greece during the present war. He is twenty-four years of age and has been free from anti-Entente proclivities.

Appeal to Premier Heeded.

Affairs in Greece, which several times since the outbreak of the war had seemed on the verge of a settlement, recently have taken on such an aspect of uncertainty that it became necessary for the powers to act with decision. M. Jonnart was selected to proceed to Athens for the purpose of laying before the Premier the aims which France, Great Britain, and Russia had with respect to establishing unity or feeling among the Greeks and greater security for the Entente forces engaged in operations in the East. While he informed the Premier that troops had been placed at his disposal, he appealed to that official to use his influence toward a peaceful settlement. The troops, according to M. Jonnart's instructions, were not to land until the King had given his answer.

M. Jonnart called upon Premier Zaimis on Monday morning and demanded in the name of the protecting powers the abdication of King Constantine and the nomination of his successor to the exclusion of the Diaboque. (Crown Prince.)

M. Zaimis recognized the disinterestedness of the powers, whose sole object was to reconstitute the unity of Greece under the Constitution, but he pointed out to M. Jonnart that a decision could only be taken by the King after a meeting of the Crown Council, composed of former Premiers. It was not until 9:30 o'clock this morning that the Premier communicated in a letter to the Commissioner of the allied powers the King's decision to accede to their demands.

Adherents Wanted to Defend King.

Prior to the announcement of the King's decision many Greeks, loyal to the crown, gathered for the protection of the sovereign. On Monday night 2,000 reservists formed a cordon around the palace in his defense, if that should be necessary, and a delegation headed by Naval Commander Mavromichaelis was received by Constantine and pledged the devotion of the army and the people to his cause. The King's only reply was an appeal that they should remain calm.

All efforts of agitators to start a manifestation failed, and the army officers announced their intention to obey the order of the Government to take no part in any demonstrations and to maintain peace.

Agitators were still attempting to operate in the streets of Athens tonight, but there were no disorders, and everything leads to the belief that there will be none.

Text of Letter From the Premier of Greece Announcing Constantine's Decision to Abdicate

ATHENS, June 12.—King Constantine's decision to accede to the demands of the Protecting Powers, and abdicate in favor of his second son, was made known to M. Jonnart, Commissioner of France, Great Britain, and Russia, by Premier Zaimis this morning in the following letter:

The Minister and High Commissioner of France, Great Britain, and Russia: Having demanded by your note of yesterday the abdication of his Majesty, King Constantine, and the nomination of his successor, the undersigned, Premier and Foreign Minister, has the honor to inform your Excellency that his Majesty the King, ever solicitous for the interests of Greece, has decided to leave the country with the Prince Royal, and nominates Prince Alexander as his successor.

LOYAL RUSSIANS FIRE ON PACIFISTS

Three Mutinous Regiments Surrounded and Forced to Surrender Promptly.

GENERAL SAVES LEADERS

Jumps Into Auto Taking Them to Jail When Enraged Loyal Soldiers Fire at Them.

PETROGRAD, June 11, (via London, June 12.)—The forces in the army at the front which are loyal to the Provisional Government have had their first test of strength with disloyal pacifists, and have won a notable victory. Two days ago Lieut. Gen. Stcherbatcheff, commander on the Rumanian front, gave an order to disband one infantry, one trailleur and one Siberian trailleur regiment, all of which were considered useless for fighting purposes.

Three regiments of another division were ordered to take up a new position, but refused to do so, and thereupon received an order to disband. The soldiers openly mutinied. The men of one of the regiments arrested the commander and seven officers, tore their badges from their uniforms and beat two officers, leaving one insensible on the road. A Regimental Committee resolved that the regiment should not move. Thereupon a loyal committee of soldiers of the whole army, after deliberating with the army staff, pronounced for stern measures against the mutineers, the ringleader of whom was named Philipoff.

A resolute General was chosen, having under his command two divisions of loyal cavalry, two battalions of infantry, one light battery, armored motor cars and airplanes, and he undertook the task of suppressing the revolt. When the loyalist General had occupied positions against the mutineers he sent an ultimatum to them, demanding the surrender of their leader, that they take up positions as ordered, and that they undertake to serve faithfully in the future.

The mutinous soldiers seeing that they were surrounded, attempted to negotiate, but at the last moment Philipoff incited them to new resistance. The loyalist General immediately ordered his guns into action, whereupon the rebels unconditionally accepted the ultimatum and surrendered Philipoff and others, who were transported to prison in an automobile. The loyalist reserve troops became enraged and fired on the automobile, but their commander, in order to save the prisoners' lives, jumped into the machine, whereupon the firing ceased.

There is great rejoicing in Government circles tonight over the first success in the inevitable struggle against the forces of anarchy.

The Government has ordered the immediate re-examination of all men who have hitherto been exempted from military service.

THESSALY'S GRAIN SAVED

Failure to Act Now Would Have Given Constantine Supplies to Defy a Blockade.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, June 13.—The announcement of the methods selected by the Allies to deal with King Constantine was not unexpected. Intimation of the action to be taken was given in the House of Commons, and in well-informed quarters it is believed that the situation will be rapidly developed.

THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent is informed on the highest authority that the entrance of the United States into the war had a direct and important influence in bringing about the present solution of the Greek difficulty. American influence is characterized by the authority in question as a fresh breeze of democracy sweeping out the corners where the autocracies which disregard the claims of their peoples have been sheltering.

Plans for dealing with the situation which King Constantine provoked first began to assume definite shape at the British, French, and Italian conference held in Savoy, when Premier Lloyd George and Paul Painlevé, the French War Minister, found themselves in entire agreement, and the Italian representative was seen to be nearly of the same mind. The execution of the details of the plan was placed in the hands of the French, of course in full collaboration with their allies, and Senator Jonnart was selected to take on the work with whatever support might be necessary from General Sarrail and the Admiral commanding the allied fleets in Greek waters.

Importance of Thessaly.

"Is it not time to depose King Constantine?" was the question asked in The Daily Chronicle yesterday morning. Lord Robert Cecil had stated in the House of Commons that the Allies were taking steps to prevent Constantine from obtaining control of the Thessalian harvest. Thessaly is the most important grain-growing region of Greece, and its harvest will very soon be reaped. If the grain had passed into Constantine's hands he would have had the wherewithal to defy an allied blockade for a long time to come.

The King always attached extreme importance to keeping the district within the royalist boundaries, and, although it is reputed to include a large proportion of Venizelists among its population, it was left to the King when the Allies agreed on the line between the territory trated that province without difficulty as far as the region of Elassona.

A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Athens says:

"M. Jonnart in a conference with Premier Zaimis announced that military forces had been placed at his disposition to establish control of the Isthmus of Corinth and to maintain order in Athens. These forces were landed Monday without incident."

ROYALISTS LOST LAST PROP.

Had Told Greeks the United States Would Intervene for King.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—While the State Department is without official confirmation of the Athens report that Constantine, the King of Greece, has abdicated in favor of his second son, Prince Alexander, and will soon leave the country, accompanied by Crown Prince George, the announcement carried in press dispatches came as no surprise to official and diplomatic Washington.

It has been alleged and pretty substantially proved that the Greek King has been in close touch with Berlin by wireless from his headquarters in Greece, and that German submarines have been using Greek islands as a base of submarine operations against Entente shipping with the approval if not the secret connivance of the King.

It is known that a message reached the State Department yesterday which indicated that something was going to happen involving the Greek royal family and that a member of the family probably would become Regent of Greece. If the King has abdicated in favor of his son, it is interpreted here as a last attempt to save the throne to the Constantine dynasty.

As the protectors of Greek independence the Governments of Great Britain, France, and Russia claim treaty rights to interfere in the internal affairs of Greece if the independence of the kingdom and the liberties of the people are threatened. This right of the Entente is declared to be somewhat similar to the right of the United States under the Platt amendment to intervene in Cuba for the protection of Cuban independence and the preservation of public order.

The entry of the United States Government in the war against Germany placed King Constantine in an isolated and not enviable plight among his own people. The Royalist party of Greece had been feeding the people with stories that the United States would intervene in Greece in support of the Constantine Government. Since the entry of this country into the war it has been out of the question for the Greek Government to take any course that would strengthen the position of the Greek King as long as his sympathies and actions were favorable to the Teutonic allies.

CAUSES THAT LED TO CRISIS.

Ex-King an Implacable Opponent of Entente's Policy.

Rumors that King Constantine would abdicate have been periodical. There was a meeting of the allied Ministers to Switzerland in the middle of April—at St. Jean de Maurienne—when, it is said, full powers were given France as a negotiator to present this alternative to the King: either he must abdicate in favor of his second son, Alexander, or the Entente Powers would recognize the Venizelos Provisional Government as pertaining to the whole of Greece instead of, as some of them had already done, as a war Government identified only with Saloniki. Immediately all the Governments of the Allies were sounded on this proposition—the United States on April 23. Since then it had been semi-officially stated that France would conduct negotiations at Athens tending to clear up the difficult situation.

A significant dispatch was sent out of Greece to London on May 2. It read:

"The King is steadily losing followers. Fifty-seven officers recently left Athens in one day for Saloniki, and the stream is continuing. Since the Provisional Government declared that the population on any territory seceding hereafter to the National Government will not be mobilized the last plank was knocked from under the King's feet, and it is at least most doubtful if any of the rank and file will be found to stand between him and his fate."

Neither of King Constantine's elder sons is married. Price George, the Duke of Sparta, and hitherto heir to the throne, was born July 19, 1890. He accompanied his father on his campaigns in the two Balkan wars of 1912-13, and since the Summer of 1915, together with his uncle George, has been engaged in propaganda work in order set the policy of his father right before the Chancelleries of the Entente. Last Winter he was reported to have been in Berlin and Vienna on important missions.

Just prior to the outbreak of the war it was announced that a marriage had been arranged between Prince George and Princess Elizabeth of Rumania. The Princess is the eldest daughter of the present King Ferdinand of Rumania and the grandniece of the late King Carol. Another claimant for her hand—she is now 25—was the Czarovitch of Russia. The Kaiser, it was reported, was prepared to press the claim of his Greek nephew.

Alexander a Venizelist.

His younger brother, Prince Alexander, the new King, is nearly three years his junior, having been born Aug. 1, 1893. He is known to have an unrestrained admiration for Venizelos and is believed to be intensely pro-Entente. A year ago it was reported that he had thrown up his commission as Captain in the first regiment of artillery in order to join Venizelos's volunteers, but was either restrained or was advised by the veteran statesman to remain where he was.

"The difficult situation" between King Constantine and the Allies has developed from three distinct causes: The alleged pro-German attitude of the King, the fact that three of the Entente Powers are guarantors of Greek constitutional liberty, the fact that the Greek-Serbian treaty of March, 1913, which he violated, pledged the support of either power if the other were attacked by Bulgaria.

The King either personally or through his spokesmen has explained his case as follows:

"When the war began the guarantors of Greek integrity insisted that we should remain neutral, although we were then ready to fulfill our destiny in the East. When Bulgaria attacked Serbia we could not carry out the treaty of 1913 for two reasons: Serbia was not only attacked by Bulgaria, but by Austria and Germany, and to attempt to aid Serbia then would have meant for Greece the fate of Belgium."

As to the King's alleged personal pro-Germanism, that arises from the fact that his wife is the sister of the German Kaiser. For several years, soon after the marriage, there were strained relations between the families at Belin and Athens, and they continued until the present war brought the Hellenic couple directly under the influence of the Kaiser's agents at Athens.

The marriage of Princess Sophie of Prussia to the then Duke of Sparta in October, 1889, was one of the last diplomatic feats of Bismarck. The Kaiser himself attended the wedding and was seen to be on most intimate terms with his brother-in-law. He even purchased an estate on Corfu to be near him. The break came two years later, when Sophie joined the Orthodox Church of Greece. The Kaiser is said to have been so furious over his sister's apostasy that his grandmother, Queen Victoria, felt compelled to intervene and ask him to treat Sophie with more consideration, as she doubtless had acted "from the inspiration of pure and lofty ideals."

Grievances of the Entente.

The Entente, it is understood, do not hold King Constantine particularly to task for repudiating the Greek-Serbian treaty — that is a matter between Greece and her ally—but they charge that he has constantly acted against the liberties of the Greek people in a manner to call for their intervention. The constitutional liberties of the Greek people were guaranteed to England, France, and Russia in 1863.

Aside from the fact that all through the negotiations it has been proved that responsible Ministers and officers of King Constantine have aided the Central Powers—establishing submarine bases, transporting forts and men to Bulgaria, declining to remove the menace of the Greek army from the rear of the allied force at Saloniki, or to end the pro-German propaganda at Athens, and, finally, attacking French marines in Athens who were there to maintain the peace—the principal charges against him as a monarch whose acts are more or less sanctionable by England, France, and Russia, are as follows:

In contempt of the guarantors and the Constitution the King is alleged to have dismissed the Liberal Government and dissolved the Chamber in February, 1915, under the pretext that both Government and Chamber, which were pro-interventionist, did not represent the country.

After the succeeding May election, which returned a still greater Liberal majority, he did not convoke the Chamber in order to keep in office a Cabinet formed to do his bidding. This Chamber was dismissed also.

Forced at length to obey the Liberal majority, he ordered a mobilization of troops when Bulgaria entered the war in September, and then a new election, at which the troops under the colors, the majority of who were Liberal, could not vote. Then again he dismissed the Government and dissolved the Chamber in response to the cries against his unconstitutional acts, and held still another election under the auspices of his loyal troops. At this election the Liberal Party declined to vote. Since then King Constantine had governed according to his own will.

The ultimatums lodged by the Entente against the King for these acts and acts growing out of them have been numerous; numerous, too, have been his acceptances and evasions.

Growing Power of Venizelos.

Meanwhile the power of Venizelos and the Provisional Government grew and attracted volunteers; more than 60,000 had assembled on the little strip of territory across Northern Greece, and practically all the Greek islands were under him. His policy, which has attempted to differentiate between the King as the hero of the Balkan wars and the King who was "unconsciously acting in an unconstitutional manner, has been outlined by Alexander Diomedes, the representative of Venizelos in London.

Two guiding principles, he said, had ruled M. Venizelos: fidelity to the Serbian alliance and co-operation with the Entente. Fidelity to Serbia was necessary for Greece in order to secure a balance of power in the Balkans; and by a balance of power he understood not a division of the Balkans into two opposing camps, but a system which would automatically prevent any one of the Balkan States from obtaining in the Balkans such a military hegemony as Germany was attempting to obtain in Europe. Such a balance of power was the aim of the Greco-Serbian alliance.

The second principle, that of co-operation with the Entente, was founded not only on geographical reasons, but the traditional friendship of the Hellenic nation with England and France, the community of social and political interests, and the genuine harmony of Greek ideas with the English and Latin mentalities, all of which combined to dispose Greece to common action with the Western powers.

While the Entente, the King, and Venizelos, with the Kaiser more than an interested spectator, have been trying to settle the status of Greece the people outside of the zone occupied by the Entente have suffered severely. There have been blockades by the Allies and embargoes by the King—the former in retaliation for the aid given Teutonic submarines; the latter to prevent Greeks from trading with the Allies.

On May 4, during a period free from rumors of the King's inevitable abdication, Alexander Zaimis succeeded in forming a new Ministry. Zaimis had several times before tided the King over a crisis. It was a question, on account of the meeting of the allied Ministers at St. Jean de Maurienne the previous month, whether he would still aid the King or would advise the latter to yield, not only to the demands of the Allies, but to the voice of the people, which the thousands joining Venizelos were making louder and more threatening.

The Deposed King's Career.

Prior to the war King Constantine, not only in Greece, but throughout the world, had borne a very different reputation. Born on Aug. 3, 1868, Constantine was educated largely by private tutors from Leipsic, which was said to have stamped upon him a permanent German influence. His military education was furthered by attendance at manoeuvres in Germany.

One interesting chapter of his life is the way in which he became the people's idol. After having been dismissed as commander of the Greek Army in 1909 because of popular clamor, Constantine, then Crown Prince, decided to accept a command in the Russian Army, but the opposition to him at home lost its rancor and he was restored to his former dignities. He finally became a national hero in the Balkan war of 1912; when he led an army of 10,000 Greeks to the capture of Saloniki, causing 30,000 Turks to lay down their arms. His popularity was such, as a result of this feat, that Greeks in America raised several thousand dollars with which to purchase a gift sword inscribed "To Constantine, the Liberator."

When Constantine came to the throne it was said he aimed to restore the former grandeur of the ancient Hellenic Empire, and that he was a believer in the old national prophecy that under the reign of a Constantine and a Sophia the Eastern empire would be called into life again and the cross restored on St. Sophia at Constantinople in place of the crescent.

By the peace treaties signed after the Balkan wars, Greece added a considerable stretch of Turkish territory to her domain, and in December, 1913, the long-desired annexation of the island of Crete was carried out, King Constantine hoisting the Hellenic flag over the fort.

VON BISSING URGED RETAINING BELGIUM

NEEDED FOR THE NEXT WAR

Late Governor Would Have Barred Discussion of Belgians' Fate in Peace Conference.

COPENHAGEN, May 23, (Correspondence of The Associated Press.)—The memorandum of the late Gov. Gen. von Bissing of Belgium, in which he advocated the annexation of the little kingdom as the sole possible policy for Germany, is published in full in Greater Germany, a review issued by Deputy Bacmeister of the Prussian Diet, a National Liberal and annexationist. The unashamed nakedness with which the memorandum calls for the dethronement of the Belgian royal house, the exploitation of Belgian resources and preparation for a new war to follow the present struggle, shows that the document was never intended for public view.

Von Bissing recognizes that Germany can have little hope of making friends of Belgians after this war, warns against "illusions of possible reconciliation," and calmly counts up the value of booty from Belgium and the advantages of pocketing the country from a military, naval, and economic point of view. He points out that the offensive prosecution of the present war was possible only through the invasion of Belgium, and speaks regretfully of the fact that the German right wing had to squeeze laboriously past the Dutch province of Limburg.

The memorandum says that the strategic aim of the present war is to gain room for the concentration and advance of German armies in a new war against England and France, and that, without the possession of Belgium, it is doubtful if the new war could be prosecuted on an offensive basis. Discussing the subject of the policy of the "iron hand," von Bissing laments the mistakes of a vacillating policy of conciliation, as attempted in Alsace-Lorraine and German Poland, and says they must never be repeated in Belgium. He warns against the idea that the establishment of a Flemish State would be adequate to secure German interests, these absolutely requiring the absorption of all present Belgium.

According to von Bissing, the absorption of Belgium must not be discussed at any peace conference. "Let only the right of conquest speak," are his words. In the Bissing Belgium there would be no room for King Albert and his dynasty, and the memorandum quotes approvingly the advice of Machiavelli that, under such circumstances, a King or regent should be put out of the way, if necessary by death.

Under the von Bissing scheme Belgian industry is not to be killed entirely but is to be subjected to such conditions as will permit Germany to use it as a lever for fixing prices in the world market in German interests. In the same way Belgium's coal supply is to give Germany an economic monopoly on the Continent.

Von Bissing foresees the necessity for a continuance of his style of dictatorship for many years, and says that "reforms introduced must be based on military might."

500 Belgians Starve to Death.

HAVRE, June 12.—The death by starvation within three months of 500 Belgians interned in Germany is reported in a semi-official statement given out here today.

"According to information received by the Belgian Minister of War," the statement says, "Belgian civilians interned in a German camp near Lübeck refused to work. Out of 2,000 interned, 500 died of starvation in three months. The condition of the survivors is described as pitiful."

FIGHTING AMID STORMS AT 7,000-FT. ALTITUDE

Italian Advance Threatens Austrian Centre in Trentino and Road to Trent.

ROME, June 12.—The action begun by the Italians on the Trentino high plateau of the Alpine front is proceeding at an altitude of 7,000 feet amid stormy atmospheric conditions. The fighting is along the same front where the Italians stopped the Austrian invasion a year ago. Now the Italian advance is threatening the centre of the Austrian positions leading from the Trentino high plateau to the Sugana Valley, which ends near Trent.

The present action in the Trentino is the best proof, Italian military officials point out, that the Austrian counteroffensive on the Carso front neither inflicted the heavy losses claimed nor affected the morale of the Italian Army. After holding all the chief positions taken in the Carso advance, the Italian command instigated a new offensive on the Trentino front despite their knowledge that a great concentration of Austro-Hungarian troops had been made there from the Russian front.

Adverse atmospheric conditions interfered with military operations in this region yesterday. The statement issued by the Italian War Department reads:

On the Asiago plateau yesterday the artillery activity was hampered by adverse atmospheric conditions.

On the Julian front the artillery of the enemy was particularly active against our positions on the Vodice and the heights northeast of Gorizia, but his fire was energetically returned.

VIENNA, June 11, (via London, June 12.)—The repulse of all Italian attacks in their new offensive in the Trentino is reported in an official statement issued by the War Office today. The text of the statement follows:

Italian Front—The attack, which has been expected for some time, of the Sixth Italian Army on the Sette Comuni plateau and in the Sugana Valley has begun. After careful artillery preparation lasting for several days the enemy yesterday threw his infantry into the fight on the front between Asiago and the Brenta River. Northwest of Asiago the Italians were successful, after great sacrifices, in penetrating our trenches, but in the evening the enemy was completely ejected.

Fighting was especially obstinate near Monte Zebio and in the region of Monte Forno, where the assault was shattered by the bravery of the Styrian troops. In the Sugana Valley all enemy attacks collapsed.

Isonzo Front—Nothing special to report.

Montenegrin Cabinet Changes.

PARIS, June 12.—The Montenegrin Cabinet has undergone another change, General Milo Matanovitch having resigned. King Nicholas has appointed in his stead Eugene Popovitch as Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs; Milo Voutivitch, Minister of Finance and Public Works; Veljko Millchevitch, Minister of Justice and Public Instruction, and Niko Haidoukovitch, Minister of Interior and War. All have served in other cabinets in different positions.

TANKER PETROLITE SUNK BY A U-BOAT

ATTACKED TWICE BEFORE

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The American steamer Petrolite has been sunk by a German submarine. Consular reports which brought news of the disaster today said one boat with eighteen men, the third mate, and the chief engineer, had been landed, and two boats with an unstated number of men were missing. The time and place of the attack were not given in the dispatches.

David Warden, General Manager of the steamship department of the Standard Oil Company of 26 Broadway, said yesterday afternoon that he had not received any word of the sinking of the Petrolite. The steamer left New York on April 30 for Savona and Leghorn, Italy, and passed Gibraltar on Monday on her voyage back to New York. The vessel was armed and carried a gun crew of eleven men, in addition to her own crew of thirty-eight, of whom thirteen were Americans.

Their names are F. Feachter, first mate, Templeton, Mass.; B. Frederickaen, second mate, Norwegian, naturalized; Olaf Matson, third mate, Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. C. Clark, sailor, California; J. Torrence, chief engineer, 83 Noble Street, Lynwood, N. Y.; G. G. Potter, first assistant engineer, Dartmouth, Mass.; W. Hantel, second assistant engineer, New Orleans; P. E. Costell, third assistant engineer, 232 Fifty-sixth Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Alexander Vellaler, oiler, Greek, naturalized; Lewis Shayne, messboy, 1,675 Park Place, Brooklyn, N. Y.; J. M. Sterin, wireless operator, Arverne, N. Y.; Jack Hoar, firemen's messboy, 16 Field Street, Boston, and Charles Galtz, baker, New Orleans.

The vessel was in command of Captain Thomas H. McKellum, who has a wife in England.

In December, 1915, the Petrolite was attacked by an Austrian submarine while on a voyage from Alexandria, Egypt, to New York. The incident for a time threatened to cause a break in the diplomatic relations between this country and Austria. The tanker was in ballast at the time and under command of Captain Thompson, who stopped his ship after the submarine had fired a shot across her bows. A boat was sent from the submarine, in charge of an Austrian officer, who demanded that Captain Thompson give him a supply of food for his crew. The Captain pointed out that he had only sufficient supplies to carry him to Petrolite to Algiers, but finally consented to give up the food after one of his crew had been taken to the submarine as a hostage until the provisions were produced.

The excuse made later by the Austrian Government to the State Department was that the commander of the submarine mistook the oil tanker for a British cruiser.

The Petrolite again was stopped by a submarine in October, 1916, off the Norwegian Coast, and released after being searched.

The Petrolite was a three-masted single-screw steamship of 3,710 tons. She was built in Germany in 1891 as the Excelsior and transferred to American registry with other vessels belonging to the Standard Oil Company early in the war. She carried oil in bulk. She was 330 feet 2 inches in length, had a beam of 45 feet 7 inches, and a 29 feet 5 inches depth of hold.

ROBBER CHIEF'S WIFE MAKES PEACE FOR BAND

Her Pleading Reconciles Citizens with Marauders Who Long Had Preyed on Them.

PETROGRAD, June 12.—Bandits of Kakhaetia, in the Caucasus, who, under a local Rob Roy, Achmet Juti, for ten years have terrorized the dwellers in the valleys, murdering, plundering, and kidnaping women, have just effected a reconciliation with their victims under romantic circumstances.

After the revolution the Kakhaetians organized self-defense societies, and a short time ago called a mass meeting at Gudjlani railway station, from which a raid against the robbers was proposed. During the meeting envoys of Achmet appeared armed to the teeth, and announced that although they had no conscientious objections against continuing the feud, they were equally willing to conclude peace.

The obdurate Kakhaetians replied that bandits already captured by them must be handed over to the authorities for punishment. The meeting promised to end in a general disagreement, when more bandits appeared, escorting Achmet's wife, a beautiful young woman of Christian origin, whom Achmet, after kidnapping in 1913, converted into a devoted partner.

Following the example of the Sabine women the bandit's wife fell on her knees, shed tears and so touched the hearts of the incensed citizens that peace was concluded on the spot. A resolution was adopted declaring that the infamies committed by the bandits were due to the demoralizing influence of the autocracy. A committee was dispatched to the Minister of Justice with a petition asking for the quashing of pending prosecutions.

SEAMEN'S UNIONS AT ODDS.

Ferment in Britain Over Boycott of Labor Delegates to Russia.

LONDON, June 12.—Ramsay MacDonald and Frederick W. Jowett, the Socialist Labor delegates to Russia, have departed from the port whence they expected to sail for Petrograd, having temporarily abandoned the attempt to leave the country.

The holding up of the men by the Seamen's and Firemen's Union is causing a good deal of ferment and occupies a considerable space in the papers. There is a sharp conflict of opinion, and MacDonald and Jowett have received strong support from the Glasgow Trades Council, which has telegraphed to the Premier, the Shipping Controller, the Foreign Minister, and the Labor Party protesting, and saying among other things:

"The action of the Seamen's Union may cause labor unrest." Meetings were held throughout Glasgow last evening at which the attitude of the council was indorsed.

Several of the morning papers confirm the report that MacDonald and Jowett have signed a guarantee that they they would insist upon restitution to Allied merchant seamen for murder and destruction committed by German submarines. The paper says, however, that the Labor delegates' opponents declare that their case has come too late. President Wilson of the Seamen's Union is also quoted as saying:

"The view of the union has been modified owing to the seamen's distrust as to the fulfillment of the guarantee. They further demand an apology for insults offered at the league's conference, where a hearing was refused to them and denunciations of the submarines were scoffed at."

Fromelles, Neuve Chappelle, and Arleux. British reconnoitring detachments were repulsed.

Army Group of the German Crown Prince: The French yesterday made five counterattacks against the trenches occupied by us west of Cerny on June 10. All failed with heavy losses either under our fire or in hand-to-hand fighting. Only north of Vauquois and on the Winterberg did the artillery duel attain greater intensity, and this was limited in duration. In eastern Champagne, French reconnoitring thrusts near Tahure and Vauquois failed.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht.—There is nothing to report.

In the largely increased aerial activity during the month of May the Flying Corps has achieved great success in the execution of its manifold duties. Among those who especially distinguished themselves, in addition to the battle airmen and the infantry airmen, were those indispensable artillery airmen, who, admirably supplemented by observation officers in captive balloons, directed our fire and observation services.

In the west, the east, and the Balkans we lost 79 airplanes and 9 captive balloons. Of the enemy airplanes shot down 114 were behind our lines, while 148 were seen to fall beyond enemy positions.

The official communication issued by the War Office this evening says:

Gun Duels On the French Front.

PARIS, June 12.—Artillery fighting continued throughout the day on the whole French front, of particular violence at the eastern end of the Chemin des Dames and in Western Champagne. Trench raids were carried out at various points, the War Office reports.

The artillery fighting was rather violent in the region of the Californie Plateau and southeast of Corbeny.

In Champagne the bombardment of our positions at Mont Blond and Mont Carnillet was spirited at about midnight. We repulsed with ease German reconnoitring parties at several points and took prisoners.

The official statement issued tonight reads:

There was moderate activity by the artillery of both sides over the greater part of the front.

In the course of raids on German trenches near the Butte de Mesnil and in the region of Haute Chevauchée we effected considerable destruction and brought back ten prisoners.

A German airplane was brought down in Lorraine by our special guns. Both aviators were made prisoners.

ENEMY LETTERS SHOW HAVOC OF HAIG'S GUNS

Germans in Trenches Tell of Terrible Effect of Bombardment—Admit Large Casualties.

By PHILIP GIBBS.

Copyright, 1917, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, June 12.—The following extracts from letters written by German soldiers in the Messines and Wytschaete trenches before the British offensive broke show the terror and havoc caused by the guns:

"We are now in this hell. One might believe that God would not allow it, to go on any longer like this. I think we shall be relieved one of these days, as there are not many left."

"The English completely smashed in the whole trench and all the dugout. I was almost buried in the dugout yesterday. It was of concrete, and the English put a few 38 centimeter shells on it, when it collapsed like a concertina. A whole crowd of men were buried and burned. I cannot describe what it is like here. Soon there will be no hope for us. We have a frightful lot of casualties. The drumfire continues day and night, fourteen days of it already; so we can't compete with the English."

"We are five days in the trench, five days in the support, five days in the trench again, then we go back for ten days. Our division's losses are over 100 men each day. The enemy bombards the trench with aerial observation. An aviator flies quite low, and nobody dares show himself. Our position looks as though 10,000 mad shells had ravaged it. On the other hand, the English side is quite smooth. Our artillery does not fire at all. If ours fire one shot the English return 100. Our artillery has no ammunition, just enough to repel an attack. I think if the end does not come soon he will beat us."

"I am in the trenches. In where it is very hot. The drumfire day and night is almost unbearable. I cannot understand at all where the English get their ammunition from."

"We have been lying in an advanced position for twenty days, and I can tell you it is a regular hell here, and one does not know what to do. There will soon be no way of escape for us. The English smash up everything with artillery, and are fearfully lossless."

"We have artillery fire here such as you cannot imagine. Yesterday twenty-one men were killed and seven wounded with one shot. Our artillery does not speak."

"Today, June 1, is now the thirteenth day on which our trenches and the ground behind has been exposed to heavy fire. All trenches are smashed in, and no more shelter is to hand, as the battery emplacements are destroyed and even the six-meter deep galleries are not safe from the guns of heavy calibre. Thus we are forced into the open without a safe passage through the hail of iron. Each day we must thank God we are alive."

This is only the beginning of the agony of the German soldiers. The British gun power, great as it is now, is increasing in strength. Holding Messines ridge, the British have observation over the ground to which the Germans have been forced.

Although the British are suffering a daily toll of casualties and the flower of the race is losing so much of its youth, the enemy's losses count tighter and higher into the frightful arithmetic of death and mutilation enormously beyond the British total.

There is hardly a man in the army who does not pity, in spite of all the hate of war, these young Germans, who are forced against their will—for they are all sick of the strife—to endure this prolonged slaughter, which will not spare them unless the scales fall from the eyes of their people or unless the German Army itself revolts from the unnecessary sacrifice and takes vengeance of those who ordered it. That may happen; although it is unlikely. And so those frightful British hammer-strokes will be repeated, and other fields will be strewn with dead, and the trench of death will be rising, as it now rises, in great stretches of upheaved earth in which German hopes and German boys lie buried together.

Belgians Repel Small Attack.

HAVRE, June 12, (via Paris.)—The Belgian War Office issued the following statement tonight:

Last night a partial attack on one of our advanced trenches south of Dixmude was completely repulsed. Today the usual artillery actions occurred, especially in the sector of Steenstraete and Het Sas.

ADVISERS OF CHINA AT ODDS

Morrison Urges President to Retain Parliament, Ariga to Dissolve It.

PEKING, Monday, June 11, (Delayed.)—Conflicting opinions as to President Li Yuan-Hung's proper course of action in the present political crisis were given today by Dr. George Morrison, a British subject and general adviser to the President, and by Professor Nagao Ariga, Japanese adviser to the President, who were called on by the Executive for advice. President Li Yuan has taken no definite action in response to General Chang-Hsun, who recently arrived at Tien Tsin with a body of troops and demanded that the President dissolve Parliament.

In giving his opinion to the President Dr. Morrison said:

"I urge in the strongest possible manner the retention of Parliament, even if the President, by a legal quibble, could justify the dismissal of Parliament. The world would never believe you had done so from a legal motive, but rather through fear of Chang-Hsun. The world would laugh at republicanism upheld by Chang-Hsun. You must retain Parliament."

Professor Ariga said:

"Parliament is illegally constituted. You called it into being. You have the right to dismiss it legally."

The President is endeavoring to procure the countersignature of Li Ching-Hsi to the mandate for the dissolution of Parliament which he has drawn up. Whether Li Ching-Hsi will agree is doubtful. The situation is at a deadlock.

Li Ching-Hsi was nominated as Premier last month, but refused to accept. Dr. Wu Ting-fang, acting Premier, has declined to countersign the President's decree.

The Kuo Min Tang (Democratic Party), which heretofore has been supporting the President, is now deserting him owing to his failure to take strong action.

and his English friends. We may count on it that our compatriots will once again be at their post."

This article, coming at a time of the spreading of many false rumors in America and from an official paper, may be significant.

ITALIANS LAUD WILSON.

Say American Good Sense Has Gone to Heart of Foe's Treachery.

ROME, June 12.—A semi-official communication given out here today says, in commenting on President Wilson's note to Russia, that the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France; of Trent, Trieste, Istria, and Dalmatia to Italy; of Transylvania to Rumania, and of Bosnia and Herzegovina to Serbia would not have the character of annexation, but rather of restitution of territory.

"President Wilson's message to Russia is a lucid, sympathetic, and energetic document," says the communication. "American good sense has gone directly to the heart of the enemy's treachery. The aims for which the United States entered the war, as stated by President Wilson, agree perfectly with those of the Allies. President Wilson explains, confirms, and supports them.

"The interpretation which President Wilson gives to the principle of no annexation corresponds in spirit with the thesis maintained by the Allies. The return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, of Trent, Trieste, Istria, and Dalmatia to Italy; of Transylvania to Rumania, and of Bosnia and Herzegovina to Serbia do not have the character of annexation, but of restitution of territory.

"An equally excellent effect is produced by President Wilson's distinction between the national principle and the colonial principle, which means condemnation of Turkey and recognition of the right of civilized countries to colonize to insure liberty for Africa and Asia.

"Finally, the phrase stating that the day has come to conquer or submit is considered an admonishment to Russia which, it is hoped, will understand its terrible meaning."

RIDICULE WILSON'S MESSAGE.

German Papers Say Peace President Demands More War.

AMSTERDAM, June 12, (via London.)—Commenting on President Wilson's note to Russia, the Berliner Tageblatt, according to a Wolff Bureau dispatch to the Dutch papers, says:

"The Entente countries naturally are filled with satisfaction and gratitude to President Wilson for having made himself the mouthpiece of the enemy alliance against democracy. President Wilson has practiced self-denial to such an extent that he could not have given the message a more appropriate superscription than 'Wilson Versus Wilson,' but perhaps he rates the judgment of the representatives of the Russian people insultingly low when he believes that they will not grasp the meaning of this tight-rope performance by Franco-British order, with the object of detaching the Russians from their standpoint.

"If the Russian faculty to distinguish the real from the unreal isn't dead, then President Wilson will experience the truth of the saying that 'fine words butter no parsnips.'"

The Vossische Zeitung, under the caption "War Message of a Peace President," says: "The turgid phrases are so foreign to the German nature that the German mind cannot understand how one can honestly enthuse over the fraternization of men and yet simultaneously seek to prolong a most horrible war. But perhaps even this could be passed over if one could look beyond the purpose of President Wilson's communication to the Russian Government. Does Wilson write to Russia to hasten the advent of peace? No—to prevent peace.

"From the chaos of the Russian revolution there has arisen a lasting and growing feeling, namely, a strong will for peace. England clings to stolen territories. France dare not admit to a deceived people that Alsace and the rest of the left bank of the Rhine must remain German.

"Many Russian revolutionaries may have gazed longingly toward the American strand, where the great peace apostle, Wilson, dwells. Will he come to their aid? No; he stabbed them in the back. This peace preacher sends a message proclaiming war to the bitter end and warning against extending the hand of peace across the frontier."

Vorwärts says: "This newly converted apostle has preached war to a nation which is tired of butchery and longs for human kindness. Wilson wants men to go on butchering each other for years and then finally fraternize. How many will be left for that celebration?"

Germania says: "To bring the Russians finally to reason, the Entente has now sent the Democratic Wilson into the field. Now in the last instance they aim to frustrate the International Socialist Conferences, especially the discussions on war aims. May they be bitterly disappointed!"

New Spanish Cabinet Sworn In.

MADRID, June 12.—The Ministers of the new Cabinet headed by Eduardo Dato took the oath of office today. Premier Dato said that the members of the new Ministry had explained to King Alfonso their intention to devote chief attention to the great internal questions and to observe strict neutrality as to the Government's policy on foreign affairs. He added that the Government would give special attention to national defense and economic questions.

AMERICA'S ENTRY AIDED GREEK COUP

under his Government and that of the Venizelists last year. This was done, presumably, because the alternative then would have been war with King Constantine's still numerous army—a war which the allied army at Saloniki, busied with the Bulgars and threatened by the Germans, had every motive for avoiding, and to which at the time the Venizelists were quite incapable of contributing any.

The new action by the Powers with regard to Constantine was made necessary by the fact that the King did not act straightforwardly and honorably, and the Allies were, therefore, justified in going back on the arrangements previously agreed upon. The King repeatedly broke his pledges. Throughout the whole period his conduct has been crooked and hostile. He has been willing to wound, though half afraid to strike. Yet he did strike at times, when opportunity offered for such a blow as the murder of the allied marines and seamen on Dec. 1 and the more recent comitadji outrages against General Sarrail's army, which were organized from the Greek General Staff, with the complicity of the Greek royal family.

In these circumstances, the question had long been, not whether King Constantine deserved drastic treatment at the Allies' hands, but whether it was expedient for the Allies to treat him drastically. The question of the Thessalian harvest forced a decision, irrespective of military and diplomatic considerations, which had had a certain influence in restraining earlier allied action.

The Daily Chronicle says editorially:

"From the point of view of the allied operations on the Serbian front a good deal may be said for the hastening eventuality, [i. e., the deposition of Constantine.] The Allies have been much urged to hasten it by the Venizelists from a somewhat different point of view. Their object, apart from getting even with the King, is that Greece, under their leadership, should at this eleventh hour of the war make a sort of deathbed repentance and start earning some of that merit on the side of the Allies, which, under the King's leadership, she has for two and one-half years earned assiduously on the other and, as it now appears, the losing side.

"The British championship of nationality will preserve absolutely intact at the end of the war the Greece of 1912, with Crete added; but the territory annexed by the treaty of Bucharest is on a different footing. Greece's default in 1915 to the Serbian treaty stops her from claiming any sanctity for the Bucharest arrangement. It was purely an arrangement of military conquest and could not purport to be made on the basis of nationality. That being so, there is more than one respect in which it may conceivably be reopened. Italy's action at Janina must bring home painfully to Greek opinion the risks which the country ran through following King Constantine's policy."

CITY'S BILLION FOR LIBERTY LOAN

ing institutions, in other words, subscriptions in a great part from wealthy individuals and from corporations, are estimated to aggregate no less a sum than $400,000,000.

Of this class the indications are that $200,000,000 will be in single subscriptions of $1,000,000 or over.

In this district every part of the community is doing its utmost, the poor, the persons of moderate means, and the rich. At a time when all classes of the community have come to the support of the nation in a way probably unprecedented in our history, it seems to us particularly unfortunate that any reflection should be cast on any special group of subscribers.

The statement was signed by Benjamin Strong, Chairman; James S. Alexander, George F. Baker, Allen B. Forbes, Gates W. McGarrah, J. P. Morgan, Seward Prosser, Charles H. Sabin, Jacob H. Schiff, Frank A. Vanderlip, Albert H. Wiggin, and William Woodward.

Ambassador Gerard's Bit.

Ambassador James W. Gerard subscribed yesterday for $200,000 of the bonds, asking that $100,000 be registered in his name and the remainder in the name of his wife.

"I do not consider I am doing anything patriotic in subscribing to the Liberty Loan," he said. "I consider it a sound financial investment, and believe that in a short time the bonds will sell at a premium. It would, however, be unpatriotic for us all to allow the loan to fail.

"The Germans always told me that in case of war between Germany and America we would undoubtedly furnish money, but could do nothing more. We must not disappoint them on the money question. And with the Liberty Loan and universal service we are giving the Central Powers a double wallop in the first round of the war."

As showing the wide distribution that is being given to the Liberty Loan, the committee made public the figures for the Corn Exchange Bank, which has subscribed for $10,000,000. It appears that this total represents 19,103 separate subscriptions, of which 12,744 were for $50 bonds and 2,367 for $100 bonds. The Corn Exchange Bank has thirty-seven branches, and it was one of the first institutions to circularize its depositors and friends.

The Consolidated Stock Exchange, through its members, is urging citizens to subscribe to the loan. J. Frank Howell, President of the Exchange, said yesterday:

"The enemy figures on our loan being a failure. Are we going to confirm his hopes? We must not underestimate the strength of the central powers; we must not overestimate our own. We do not want to go down into history as slackers in a common duty. That duty is the perpetuation of Civilization and Democracy."

Germany Awaits the Returns.

William S. Kies, Vice President of the National City Bank, and member of the Liberty Loan Publicity Committee, issued the following statement:

"The Victory Loan in England was subscribed to by over 8,000,000 individuals. The Liberty Loan in the United States ought to receive at least this number of subscriptions, and yet reports indicate but a small fraction of this number up to date.

"Information from reliable sources indicates that there have been circulated through Germany reports that the great majority of the American people are in opposition to the war; that President Wilson has not the support of the people of the country, and that America may be disregarded as an important factor in the war.

"A failure to oversubscribe the Liberty Loan will be hailed in Germany as corroborating evidence of the indifference of the United States to the war. Our allies, on the other hand, realize the great financial resources of the United States; they understand that at the present moment the only way we can help the cause aoing is by giving financial aid. If this aid is withheld or reluctantly given, as evidenced by a failure of the Liberty Loan, no greater disheartening blow could be struck the cause to which we are committed.

"If the loan is to be made a success, and it must be made a success, every citizen should constitute himself a solicitor for the loan for the rest of this week. Every man who has subscribed should, if possible, increase his subscription. We must all do just a little more than we planned to do, and try to get our friends to do the same. If a spirit of real service on the part of every citizen can be created to dominate the last week of the campaign, there will be no question as to its complete success."

Red fire, brass bands, oratory, and other noises will mark the practical end of the Liberty Loan campaign. The celebration will take place tonight in Union Square, and the U. S. S. Recruit will be the centre of activity. Seven bands will participate in the festivities, a ton of red fire will be burned, and an especially made liberty bell will be distributed by the thousand, and speakers will address the audiences from the deck of the ship. The books do not close as bond buyers until Friday noon, and it is felt that an old-fashioned rally may help to remind delinquents of their duty.

Bands to Play Free.

Captain Pierce of the battleship Recruit has turned over the vessel to the Liberty Loan Bond Committee and has promised that she will be in a fit state to do honor to the occasion. Her dress clothes will adorn her figure from truck to bilge keel and searchlights will play on her decks and rigging. A clock draped with a flag will display figures on the bond subscription.

The municipal bands have volunteered their services, having been urged to this work of patriotism without compensation by the appeal of D. Edward Portner, President of Local 310 of New York. This is said to be the first occasion in which bands have volunteered to play without pay and thus set aside a rule of the federation. The musical organizations which will be present are the East Side, Uptown, Downtown, West Side Municipal Bands, the City Band of New York, Inc., Franko's Military Band and Usher's Military Band. There will be 147 pieces. Sheriff Al Smith will preside at the meeting.

The Federal Reserve Bank has issued a circular describing the $10 Liberty Loan participation certificates. More than $5?0,000 of these certificates have already been sold in this city. They are on sale at banks, cigar stores and practically all hotels. Five of the certificates entitle the holder to a $50 bond.

The demand for Liberty Loan buttons continues unabated and it is impossible for the local committee to comply with all the requests. About 600,000 buttons have been given out in this district, and 150,000 more are coming from Washington.

The children of Public School 186 at Amsterdam Avenue and 145th Street, have subscribed for $10,700 of Liberty bonds.

Dr. Newell Dwight Hillis, pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, and Lawrence Chamberlain, returned yesterday from their Western and Pacific Coast speaking tour in the interests of the Liberty Loan. They addressed meetings held under the auspices of the American Bankers' Association and the National Association of Manufacturers.

From one to five meetings were held in each of the following cities: Dayton and Cincinnati, Ohio; Louisville, Ky.; Memphis, Tenn.; Little Rock, Ark.; New Orleans, Houston, and El Paso, Texas; Los Angeles and San Francisco, Cal.; Portland, Ore.; Seattle and Spokane, Wash.; Butte, Mont.; Salt Lake City and Ogden, Utah; Denver and Pueblo, Col.; Kansas City, Mo.; Omaha, Neb., and Des Moines, Iowa.

The average audience numbered about 2,500 people. The largest meeting was in Des Moines, last Sunday night, when 6,000 men and women heard Dr. Hillis and Mr. Chamberlain at the Coliseum. All the churches in Des Moines abandoned their evening services to enable their congregations to attend the meeting, and all the church choir singers were requisitioned to aid the audience in the singing of patriotic songs.

Good Work by Boy Scouts.

The first day's work of the 238,000 Boy Scouts of America in their nation-wide Liberty Loan bond selling campaign has resulted in the receipt of subscriptions amounting to $1,227,000, according to an announcement made last night by James E. West, Chief Scout Executive. It was reported that Secretary McAdoo had been held up by two scouts in Louisville, and that he had subscribed to a $100 bond.

McCreery's has issued an appeal to householders urging them to interest their maids, cooks, butlers, and chauffeurs in the Liberty Loan.

August Janssen, proprietor of a German restaurant, has subscribed $5,000 to the Liberty Loan.

Representatives of Lithuanian societies and newspapers in the United States held a meeting last night at the headquarters of the Lithuanian National Alliance of America, 307 West Thirtieth Street, for the purpose of arousing greater enthusiasm for the Liberty Loan among the half million Lithuanians in this country. Subscriptions made on blanks from the Rotogravure Section of THE TIMES reported yesterday were:

The Fifth Avenue Bank has sent subscriptions amounting to $5,000,000. The New York Trust Company filed yesterday another subscription of $1,000,000, which brought its total up to $15,000,000.

Millions Turned In.

Since the publication of detailed returns from cities, towns, and villages included in the Second Federal Reserve District—figures which were taken from amounts received by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York up to the close of business on June 7—millions have poured in from all parts of New York State, the twelve northern counties of New Jersey, and Fairfield County, Conn., which comprise the district.

These figures show a gain of $22,582,000. The total at hand is $72,564,000, against $49,982,000 previously published. These subscriptions represent about one-quarter of the full amount allotted to the Second Federal Reserve District outside of New York City. It is demonstrated by the new returns that there were many collection centres that had failed to turn in the amounts then in possession. Because of the publication on Sunday of last Thursday's figures, several protests have been forwarded to the Liberty Loan Committee against the printed accounting. Newspapers throughout the State also have received objections to the publication. It has been complained in many quarters that the figures printed have been an unfair presentation of the activity put forth.

The Liberty Loan Committee makes the claim for the amounts printed that they showed the actual subscriptions that had been turned in to the Federal Reserve Bank, after several requests that the totals be promptly reported and due notice that reports made would be printed. It is certain that the big cities hold amounts far in excess of those printed in the following report. The newspapers in the big towns and the local committees have demonstrated that. But so far as an official count goes, there is nothing in the Federal Reserve Bank to show the full subscriptions.

That the first publication has had the effect of hastening returns is made clear by the ratio of increases. For the Central Division, for instance, there has been an increase of 100 per cent. The counties in Northern New Jersey have come forward with approximately 50 per cent., the Eastern Division shows about 40 per cent., and the others approximately 33 1-3 per cent.

OLD LIBERTY BELL TO PEAL FOR BONDS

URGES WORKERS TO AID

Labor Secretary Issues an Appeal —Treasury Calls for Latest Reports on Subscriptions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—An urgent appeal was made today to all Federal Reserve Banks to report as of tonight all subscriptions for Liberty Loan bonds. The Treasury Department has only the casual reports coming mainly from individual subscribers to add to the tentative footing made on Friday when Secretary McAdoo announced that only $1,800,000,000 of the $2,000,000,000 of the first issue had been taken. It is expected that there will be an announcement tomorrow night of the total amount of subscriptions shown by reports to come in tonight.

Based on present indications there is confident hope of entire success in the campaign to place the loan. A good deal will depend on the figures received in the reports requested today. It is feared that if these figures should show a very near approach to the full amount there may be a suspension of effort on the part of those working for the loan and the banks, and in the cessation of high tension activities there might be a failure to reach the full amount.

It is believed now that there will be all told about 2,000,000 subscribers, which affords a hopeful comparison with other national efforts at placing war loans. It was said at the Treasury Department today that there were 200,000 subscribers to the first British loan, and these came from the wealthy classes. To the last British loan there were 8,000,000 subscribers, and the amounts were small, being largely taken through the postal savings banks.

The delay in getting full final returns is giving Treasury officials no little anxiety as they see the natural tendency for the banks to wait until the last day before making their reports, the funds deposited in payment of first installments in the meantime remaining in their vaults. A matter that is giving some uneasiness is the danger of inaccurate reports of subscriptions from the duplication of individual subscriptions. It has several times ocurred that large subscriptions have been sent directly to the Treasury Department and later have appeared in reports from the Federal Reserve Banks. The tendency to defer to the last moment the reports from the various districts will naturally cause a tremendous pressure when the books are closed on Friday. It is now believed that as all books close at noon, standard time, for all Reserve Districts except the Pacific coast, it will be possible to announce that night the final grand total of subscriptions and the success of the loan.

Old Liberty Bell Will Ring.

One of the patriotic features of the final appeal to the country to support the loan will be the ringing of bells throughout the country at noon on Thursday, Flag Day. The Loan Publicity Bureau today announced that the Liberty Bell in Independence Hall, Philadelphia, would lead off in the national and continent-wide peal of the bells in behalf of the loan. The old bell has not been rung for forty-one years, since the opening of the Philadelphia Exposition in 1876. The Treasury announcement of this event says:

Owing to the crack in the side of the old bell, the Philadelphia authorities are loath even to attempt to ring Old Liberty. Their love of liberty, however, is strong, and to aid in the cause of the war, Philadelphia will on Thursday noon send the clapper of the old bell resoundingly against its cracked sides. Its peals will call America to defend her traditions; to make it possible for America's sons in uniform to fight a successful battle in the trenches. Its ring will be picked up in every city, town, and hamlet, and all America will know that Old Liberty calls again.

It is befitting Old Liberty's tradition that Flag Day should be selected for it to aid in the cause of liberty. Also it is befitting her history that Philadelphia's Mayor, Thomas B. Smith, should act as bellringer and send her call to every nook and corner in the land over which she has stood guard for more than a century.

As the clapper strikes the sides of Old Liberty and her cracked voice peals forth, other bells in every city, town and hamlet in the United States will ring in union and harmony. The Mayors and Commissioners will perform the same office as Mayor Smith.

From the second these bells cease sounding on Thursday Americans will have just twenty-four hours in which to buy Liberty Bonds and put into the hands of their Government the money necessary to send soldiers into the trenches prepared to defeat the enemy.

Appeals to National Workers.

Secretary of Labor Wilson addressed today a personal appeal to the workers of the United States for full support of the Liberty Loan. His message follows:

To the workers of the United States:

Liberty, humanity and progress require that we must win this war. Our institutions and our right to govern ourselves are at stake. He who has the spirit of a free man will make every sacrifice necessary to retain his freedom. He who prefers slavery to sacrifice must not stand in the way of the liberty of others. The Congress of our nation has spoken and selected the men who are to carry the spirit of democracy to the front. The impulse of sacrifice for the common good has filled the registration lists to the limit and stirred the patriotism of those who have been honored by selection.

Others, too, must make sacrifices. These men must be equipped and sustained. Funds must be forthcoming to furnish the food, the firearms, and other supplies for the fighting forces of the nation. The need is immediate. We cannot wait for the slower process of tax gathering. That can come later. The finances to start with must come from the sale of bonds. Two billion dollars' worth have been offered by the Treasury Department as a Liberty Loan. The more freely our people subscribe the more thoroughly our enemies will realize our firm determination to defend our institutions.

The millions who toil can help by buying a bond. It may mean sacrifice, but you have made sacrifices before for a less important cause. If you cannot buy a bond outright, you can make arrangements with your employers or some banker to buy it on the installment plan, or a number of you can club together, each putting in his mite, to buy a bond. Every dollar counts. Let me appeal to you, as you value our free institutions, to make every sacrifice necessary to buy a bond, and do it now.

List of Approved Securities.

A revised list of the classes of approved securities which will be accepted by the Treasury Department as collateral security for Government deposits of funds in connection with the Liberty Loan bond issue has been made. This list includes the approved classes set forth in Treasury Department Circular No. 81 of May 29, 1917, and those announced as approved by Assistant Secretary Crosby yesterday. The list follows:

A—Bonds and certificates of indebtedness of the United States Government of any issue, including bonds of the Liberty Loan and interim certificates for payments therefor; all at par.

B—Bonds issued under the United States Farm Loan act and bonds of the Philippine Islands, Porto Rico, and the District of Columbia; all at par.

C—Bonds of any State of the United States at market value not exceeding par.

D—The 3½ per cent. bonds of the Territory of Hawaii at 90 per cent. of par; and other bonds of said Territory at market value not exceeding par, and bonds of the Manila Railroad Company at 90 per cent. of market value, not exceeding 90 per cent. of par.

E—Dollar bonds and obligations of foreign Governments (and of the dependencies thereof) engaged in war against Germany and issued since July 30, 1914, at 90 per cent. of the market value thereof in the United States, not exceeding 90 per cent. of par.

F—Bonds of any county or city in the United States, which are direct obligations of the county or city as a whole, at 75 per cent. of the market value thereof, not exceeding 75 per cent. of par.

G—Railroad mortgage bonds secured by direct mortgage upon lines of railroads within the United States at 75 per cent. of the market value thereof, not exceeding par; but not including any such bonds which, on May 29, 1917, were at a market price to yield more than 5½ per cent. per annum, if held to maturity, according to standard tables of bond values.

H—Commercial paper which is eligible for rediscount or purchase by Federal Reserve Banks and which has been approved by the Federal Reserve Bank of the district in which the depositary bank is located; at 75 per cent. of par. All such paper must bear the indorsement of the depositary bank.

I—Notes, certificates of indebtedness, and warrants issued by any State of the United States, at 90 per cent. of market value, not exceeding par.

J—Railroad equipment trust obligations, at 75 per cent. of the market value thereof, not exceeding par; but not including any such obligations which on May 29, 1917, were at a market price to yield more than 5½ per cent. per annum, if held to maturity, according to standard tables of bond values.

K—Bonds of electric railway and traction companies, of telephone and telegraph companies, and of electric light, power, and gas companies, secured by direct mortgages upon their physical properties in the United States and listed on some recognized Stock Exchange; taken at 75 per cent. of the market value thereof, not exceeding par; but not including any such bonds which on May 29, 1917, were at a market price to yield more than 5½ per cent. per annum, if held to maturity, according to standard tables of bond values.

At least 25 per cent. in value of the securities deposited by any bank or trust company to secure its deposits must consist of those mentioned in Paragraph A. No State, county, or city bond will be accepted if default has been made in payment of principal or interest during the last ten years. The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the right to call for additional collateral security at any time.

Printing the New Bonds.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing is working day and night in the production of Liberty Loan bonds in accordance with designs approved by Secretary McAdoo. The bonds are being engraved with artistic features and other embellishments in keeping with the purpose for which they are to be issued.

In the engraving of the face of the bond the title "Liberty Loan of 1917" will appear in the upper border, and the denomination of the bond in the lower border, the latter being also in each of the four corners. The face will be printed in black with an overprinting of the denomination, number, seal and dates in a color differing with each denomination and being the complementary color of that in which the back of the bond is to be printed. The vignette of Liberty from the Statue of Liberty Enlightening the World, in New York harbor, designed by Bartholdi, will occupy a place on the right-hand side of the bond, and on the left side there will be a portrait of one of the Presidents which will differ with each denomination.

The denominations of the bonds and the portraits and colors on the face of both the registered and coupon bonds will be as follows: $50, Jefferson, blue; $100, Jackson, blue; $500, Washington, orange; $1,000, Lincoln, carmine; $5,000, Monroe, green; $10,000, Cleveland, blue; $50,000, McKinley, carmine; $100,000, Grant, orange.

The back of the coupon bonds will have the title and denomination in the centre; on the right, the vignette of the Goddess of Freedom, from Crawford's figure on the dome of the United States Capitol; and on the left an ornamental panel or border with an eagle in the centre. These backs will vary in color with each denomination, as follows: $50, brown; $100, orange; $500, light blue; $1,000, green; $5,000, red; $10,000, brown; $50,000, olive, and $100,000, dark blue.

The bonds will be printed on distinctive paper of the Government with silk fibre running through the bond. The bonds will be of the size established for the Government bonds, being approximately 13 inches long and 6 inches wide. While the backs of the coupon bonds will have ornamental engraved work, the backs of the registered bonds will carry a blank form of assignment. Coupon bonds will have attached to them three sheets of interest coupons—that is to say, sixty coupons for interest payments every six months for thirty years.

Secretary of the Interior Lane subscribed today $10,000,000 of Liberty Loan bonds for the account of Indians whose money is in his custody. Most of these Indians live in Oklahoma, and are "incompetents," similar to Jackson Barnett, for whose account $640,000 of Liberty bonds was subscribed yesterday. Most of the funds of these Indians is on deposit either at low rates of interest or in the Treasury Department drawing no interest.

VACATION GIRLS BUY BONDS.

Bank President to Help Members Carry Them.

The Vacation Society had a big Liberty Bond Rally last night at the Metropolitan Life Building. Half a hundred girls bought bonds and brought the money for them. Miss Gertrude Robinson Smith called the meeting to talk upon the bonds, but the girls came prepared to buy. One girl brought the money for three bonds, one for herself and two for her brothers. Those who didn't buy last night pledged themselves to do so before June 15 and to sell at least one bond apiece to some one else.

Mrs. August Belmont urged the girls to do this work for the war, and Willard B. King, President of the Columbia Trust Company, offered to carry the bonds for the girls who could not pay now.

Josephine Daskam Bacon wrote a Vacation Liberty Loan song for the occasion to the tune of "Marching Through Georgia." Here it is:

VACATION LIBERTY LOAN.
(Tune "Marching Through Georgia.")

1.
Now the drums begin to beat, the flags begin to fly,
Now the boys go marching off for Liberty to die.
Now the women wait at home, and this is all their cry:
What can I do for my Country?
Chorus—
Come on! Come on! Your Country looks to you!
Come on! Come on! You've got to see her through,
You can pay her debts for her, and that's what you can do,
Come on, buy a bond for your Country!

Though you cannot fight for her, be sure your dollars can;
Woman have been saving ever since the World began.
So, come on, girls, come on, save your Country!
Chorus—
Come on! Come on! Your Country looks to you, &c.

3.
Every time you buy a bond the soldier's comfort grows,
Food and drink and shoes and guns will come to him he knows,
France and England bow to you—you helped to crush their foes.
So come, strike your blow for your Country!
Chorus—
Come on! Come on! Your Country looks to you, &c.

4.
Every dollar you can lend your Country swears to pay,
She will give it back to you with grateful thanks some day.
Let your bankbook speak for you, and you will hear it say—
Come, pay your debt to your Country!

McADOO PLEADS FOR UNITY.

Tells Pittsburghers Germany Must Be Beaten Quickly.

PITTSBURGH, June 12.—A personal appeal in behalf of the Liberty Loan was made to Pittsburgh today by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo in a series of addresses delivered to business men, bankers, and the general public. The Secretary and W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, in an address at noon to 700 members of the Chamber of Commerce asked the support of business men for the loan. Later in the day Secretary McAdoo spoke before the Pittsburgh Clearing House Association, and tonight a meeting for the general public was held. Mrs. McAdoo, Chairman of the Women's Liberty Loan Committee, joined her husband here.

"Whatever differences there might have been about this war before it started, this is no time to think of them," said Secretary McAdoo, addressing the Chamber of Commerce.

"There is left only one dangerous military autocracy in the world, the autocracy of the German Emperor. Germany must be dejunkerized and democratized if the world is to be made safe. We know what would happen if Germany should be victorious. She would come here and put the iron heel of the conqueror on our shores. There is no telling how long it would take us to expel this enemy. If we could not do it promptly we would have to make the most humiliating terms any great nation ever made. We would have to pay an indemnity that would represent probably half the wealth of America, which is $250,000,000,000, and you would have taxation upon your shoulders to meet that indemnity for perhaps a hundred years to come."

As Mr. McAdoo stopped speaking announcement was made that Pittsburgh had oversubscribed its allotment in the Liberty Loan, $59,000,000, by $4,000,000.

FESTA BOND SALES $500,000.

Carnival of Nations Closes Brilliant Week in Macdougal Alley.

The Alley Festa was closed last night, and it was announced that the sales of Liberty Loan bonds totaled more than $500,000. A carnival, the last feature of the week, attracted prominent members of the social and artistic world, who paraded and danced in old Macdougal Alley.

A limited number of tickets at $2 each were on sale early in the evening, but these were quickly sold, and hundreds sought admission in vain. A thousand visitors watched the pageant with much enthusiasm, as it portrayed the welcoming of Columbia by allied nations.

Ethel Barrymore appeared as Columbia, and Constance Collier as Great Britain, while Mme. Gilles represented France, and Fay Bainter, Japan. Mme. Nazimova was Russia, Charlotte Ives was costumed as Portugal, Cathleen Nesbit appeared as Rumania, and Marguerite Sylvia as Belgium.

Preceding the pageant Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney entertained a group of artists at dinner, her guests including Mr. and Mrs. Robert Henri, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Macmonnies, Mr. and Mrs. William Glackens, Mr. and Mrs. Paul manship, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. George Bellows, Mrs. Muriel Draper, Victor Salvatore, Joe Davidson, and Paul Chalfin.

A feature at the movie theatre, run for the French Heroes Fund, was the first showing of films taken at various times during the festa.

Tonight two hundred invited guests will bid adieu to the alley with a novel dinner. The guests, who will bring their own food, will sit at one large table in the alley, and will pay a dollar each for the privilege. In addition to the al fresco banquet a bar will be provided for the guests, a percentage of which will be devoted to war relief.

DISABLED U-BOAT IN PORT.

The U-52 Is Brought Into Cadiz by a Spanish Destroyer.

CADIZ, Spain, Monday, June 11, (via Paris, June 12.)—The Spanish torpedo-boat No. 6 this morning discovered the German submarine U-52 disabled from gunshots which had struck her engines. The submarine was towed into Cadiz and stripped of her wireless apparatus, so that she could not communicate with vessels of the Central Powers interned in this port.

Repairs to the German submarine will take at least two days, but it is believed she will be interned. The German commander today paid a visit to the Spanish port officials, who later returned the visit.

The submarine is of 450 tons, and carries a crew of 20. It is equipped with two torpedo tubes and two rapid-fire guns.

SEEKS AMERICAN COAL.

Spain Trying to Break Her Trade Agreement with England.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Word has reached Washington that Spain is trying to get around the agreement with the British Government by which she obligated herself to transport Spanish ores and other commodities to England in return for Welsh coal. So as not to be under the necessity of fulfilling her agreement with England, Spain is now understood to be trying to obtain coal from the United States.

As the agreement now stands, Spain requires England to buy oranges to the extent of 20 per cent. of the cargo space of Spanish vessels entering British ports.

Tells France's War Bill.

PARIS, June 12.—The French Chamber of Deputies has already voted 100,000,000 francs in war credit, according to a report made by Raoul Peret, reporter for the Budget Committee of the Chamber of Deputies. This sum includes the credits for the third quarter of 1917 and 7,000,000,000 francs advanced to France's allies.

GEN. PERSHING SEES BRITISH IN TRAINING

SOLDIERS' PARTY SPOILED

Enlisted Men Undergo Inoculation and American Women Invite Convalescents Instead.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, June 12.—Major Gen. John J. Pershing, who is to command American troops in France, took opportunity today to learn something about the latest British fighting methods at first hand. He was taken by army officials to a training camp to watch instruction in trench warfare and afterward was the guest of Lord Derby at luncheon.

The entertainment prepared for the enlisted men with General Pershing at Harrow was spoiled by orders from medical officers. All the men submitted to inoculation against typhus. British wounded were gainers thereby, as the American women's club invited the convalescents in Harrow hospitals to consume the good things provided for the entertainment.

The official Government dinner tonight at Lancaster House was in the nature of a greeting to the representatives of the American people. Colonel John Buchan said: "Officials of the War Office have been most favorably impressed by the Americans sent to us. Their keenness and zeal are wonderful, and no doubt with their high professional attainments Pershing's staff are equal to any general staff in the world."

There were no speeches at the Government dinner, but toasts were drunk to the King and the President.

The members of the contingent which arrived from America yesterday to join General Pershing's staff were found to have brought in their paraphernalia numbers of typewriting machines which had been left behind by those who came over on the Baltic. Notwithstanding general orders to the effect that the visit to England might in a sense be regarded as a holiday, a good deal of work has been accomplished, for General Pershing and departmental heads of his staff realize that every moment is valuable. The fact that a large number of typewriting machines, which were required, had been left behind, was some little handicap to some of the work, but a raid was made on typewriter establishments over here, and enough machines to carry on work were procured.

LONDON, June 12.—Major Gen. John J. Pershing and eighteen members of his staff were the guests of the British Government at a formal dinner tonight in Lancaster House, which is a Government building devoted solely to purposes of state entertainment of distinguished visitors and was last utilized for the dinner of the Imperial Conference a month or more ago. There were thirty other diners, including eight members of the Cabinet.

The Prime Minister, David Lloyd George, sat at the first of six round tables in the sumptuous dining hall, looking out across the green lawn of St. James Park at Buckingham Palace opposite. At the Prime Minister's right sat the American Ambassador, Walter H. Page, and at his left General Pershing. At the same table were Sir Edward Carson, First Lord of the Admiralty; Lord Robert Cecil, Minister of Blockade; Lord Hardinge, Under Secretary of the Foreign Office, and Colonels Anderson and Bethel of General Pershing's staff.

The other tables were presided over by Lord Curzon, Lord President of the Council; Viscount Milner, member of the War Cabinet; the Right Hon. George M. Barnes, Pensions Minister; the Earl of Derby, Secretary for War, and Sir Alfred Mond. Sir Alfred, whose office of Commissioner of Works makes him official host at Government functions, received the guests, of whom Mr. Lloyd George was last to arrive. Vice Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., sat at Sir Alfred's right.

The dinner was not an elaborate affair, the menu conforming strictly to the prescribed war rations. There were no speeches. After dinner groups of guests strolled through the upper floors of the great mansions, where are deposited remarkable collections of relics of old-time London.

Arthur J. Balfour, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, was unable to be present at the dinner. Early in the evening before Major Gen. Pershing left his hotel ex-Premier Asquith called on him. General Pershing came downstairs and greeted Mr. Asquith in the lobby, where they engaged in a five-minute conversation, surrounded by an interested group.

WELCOMES PERSHING'S STAFF.

Paris Temps Says Arrival of Our Forces Will Influence Russia.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 12.—The Temps salutes the arrival of General Pershing, who, says the editorial, was born with the vocation of fighting. After outlining his past military career, the writer says:

"We believe the American forces will surprise every one, most especially the Russians. Petrograd will understand when it sees America so resolved to beat Germany that she is risking her military prestige on the battlefield even before the moment has come for engaging her full forces. The United States is emulating the example of the old-time official who threw a baton into the enemy's line, then vowed he would recover it. The question no longer is whether the Allies will be able to finish the war as they please, but that it is evident the conflict is bound to terminate by a victory of the Allies on the Western front. The Russians are not the only ones who should have their eyes opened by the arrival of Pershing.

"The installation of the American General Staff in France has thrown into still more lurid relief the contrast between the Allies' military and political action. In the political sphere each allied Government continues to be a world apart, and the relations between them continue to evolve along lines which are little changed since the Thirty Years' War. When Germany makes a political offensive like the pretended peace offer of December last how much time was necessary for the Allies to elaborate a reply?

"When an international incident like the Stockholm conference arises how do the allied Governments manifest their solidarity? If a diplomatic manoeuvre against the enemy coalition become possible when and how would it be realized? Yet our enemies form a single unit on the political and military battleground. 'Mittel Europa' is an accomplished fact and manoeuvres under our eyes as a single block. Can we continue to manoeuvre with dispersed ranks? Now that even the American General Staff is on the western front is it conceivable that there should not be a political General Staff of all the Allies?"

HOSPITAL UNIT AT BOULOGNE.

150 Ambulance Drivers and 75 Nurses Reach France.

BOULOGNE, June 12.—Another installment of the vanguard of the American Army has arrived in France in the form of 150 ambulance drivers and 75 nurses.

Preceded by a British military band, they marched through the streets to their quarters, amid the enthusiastic cheers of the population.

ALSATIANS PRAISE RIBOT.

Organization Here Expresses Pleasure at Support of Their Cause.

PARIS, June 12.—Natives of Alsace-Lorraine living in America have sent to the Temps, through the President of their organization, Clement Rueff of New York, an address to Premier Ribot highly eulogizing his stand in behalf of Alsace-Lorraine and assuring him of the united support of Americans formerly residing in their provinces.

"There is no difference," says the address, "between the invaded sections of France recently occupied by the enemy and those occupied nearly half a century ago. Both are integral parts of France and should never be separated. Hundreds of thousands of us from Alsace-Lorraine have preferred to expatriate ourselves in the United States rather than continue under the yoke of barbarians."

TO SEND 1,000 FLIERS A MONTH TO FRANCE

War Department Adopts Extensive Plan to Wrest Air Supremacy from Germany.

MEN READY IN SEPTEMBER

Automobile Factories to Turn Out Machines—Peary Says Aviators Can Beat Submarines.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Government has completed tentative plans to send 1,000 aviators a month to France, and the first big overseas force of airmen will be ready to embark some time in September.

These men will have received preliminary training in technical schools and on aviation fields before they leave the United States, and, in fact, the majority of those who will go with the first contingent are now hard at work on the rudiments of flying. On arriving in France they have a short period of intensive training under French instructors, and will then start for the battle front.

American manufacturers have promised to supply all of the training planes needed by this country and its allies, and thus make it possible for the French and English to devote all of their energies to turning out the fast and powerful battle planes which will be needed to end the question of the supremacy of the air. It is not unlikely that some of the great factories which in the past have been used for the manufacture of automobiles will be turned into airplane plants.

Federal officials have made a thorough investigation of the conditions here and have found an unexpected response. They have received from manufacturers this reply to all of their questions.

"Tell us what you want; tell us how many airplanes the United States and her allies need, and they will be supplied. A country that can turn out hundreds of thousands of automobiles a year will not fail its Government when the demand is made."

Experts from England, France, and the United States are at work with the one purpose in view of a co-ordination of effort that will eliminate Germany from the fighting in the air, a step which will go far toward shortening the war.

Fields Near Completion.

In fact, much more has been accomplished in this direction than has generally been made known. Three aviation fields at Dayton, Ohio; Detroit, Mich., and Champaign, Ill., where the aviators will receive their first taste of practical training, are already more than half completed, and thousands of men are rushing the work. Six or seven other training fields have been authorized. The response on the part of the young men of the country has also been most comforting to the Government officials. Already more than enough, physically fit for air service, have come forward and started their preliminary training, and thousands have filed applications and are awaiting the Government's decision.

It is estimated also that nearly 5,000 of the young men who entered the training camps for reserve officers will be available for service as aviators. The army officers in charge of these camps, it is said, have kept a careful watch of the men in order to determine those who are best fitted for the work.

The program of 1,000 aviators a month is just double the force first considered by the Aircraft Production Board. This is the result of data furnished by members of the visiting French, English and Italian Commissions. It is felt that Germany had been checkmated in the fighting on solid ground. Clear the air of Germans, it was stated, and the longest step toward the successful culmination of the war has been taken.

Reports received here concerning the battle of Messines and the part that the airmen played in bringing victory to the British have added impetus to the steps which have been taken. The officials here feel that the plans which have been drawn up will meet the situation.

It is felt that, with the assistance which America can give soon in winning the supremacy of the air, all of the territory occupied by the armies of the Allies can be protected and observations made for miles behind the German lines. The advantage thus obtained, it is held, is one which no effort which the steadily weakening German Army might make could overcome.

Nine universities in the United States have offered schools for the preliminary training of the men, pending the completion of the training fields. The work on the training fields has also gone ahead with the greatest expedition, and they will be ready to receive the student aviators when the latter arrive. The engines used in airplanes of American, French, English, and Canadian manufacture have been standardized so that it will be possible soon to ship engines manufactured in this country to England and France and use them there to complete the training planes.

Experts from Great Britain and France are at work here also, with American inventors and manufacturers on plans for the manufacture of battle planes so that this country may soon be able to supply the engines for that type of machine as well. Officials in charge of the work here have the utmost confidence in the capacity of American manufacturers to meet the emergency, and are bringing every pressure to bear upon Congress to grant the money which is needed to accomplish the work. They believe that there is nothing impractical in the proposition to place from 10,000 to 20,000 American aviators on the fighting front in France within the next twelve months.

Admiral Peary's Views.

"If this country takes hold of air preparedness, concentrating on it the energy and unhampered work that Admiral von Tirpitz laid in developing the German submarine, we will soon beat the submarine, and I am convinced bring about a speedy, unequivocal decision in this war," said Rear Admiral Robert E. Peary today at a hearing before a Senate sub-committee on aeronautics on a bill to create a Department of Aeronautics, with a member of the Cabinet at its head.

Admiral Peary urged the speedy development of the air service for use as a coast patrol and for fighting submarines. He said that within six months the country would be able to maintain an invulnerable airplane patrol that would give protection of 500 miles out to sea. He looked to the airplane to be the decisive factor in this war, if America speeded up the building of thousands of machines.

Lieut. Col. L. W. B. Rees of the British Flying Corps, an air fighter, wearing the Victoria Cross, impressed upon the committee, the necessity of concentrating the army and navy of service under one head, as is done in England. Colonel Rees expressed the opinion that the Allies had the "superiority" over the Germans both as to handling of the air craft and in personnel.

"Great Britain is coming to the end of her man power," said Colonel Rees. "We may reach the end of it this Autumn. We will need all the aviators we can get."

In speaking of the utility of the seaplane as a factor in fighting the submarine, Admiral Peary said that France and England were beginning to realize its potency.

"In my opinion the seaplane is today the quickest and the cheapest antidote to the submarine menace, assuming it is along our coast," he said. "I believe that if we had today a thousand hydroaeroplanes and aviators along our coast it would increase the efficiency of our coast protection 200 or 300 per cent., and I think that 5,000 of them would be none too many.

"The things we need to consider in air equipment are meeting the submarine menace, the aeroprotection of our coasts, and our coastwise cities, airplane convoys for our transocean ships, and the airplane patrol of our frontiers. The Mexican frontier of ours is about four times as long as the European eastern battlefront; we need thousands of airplanes."

Could Stop Submarines.

"So you believe that if we could immediately send over to the danger zone declared by the German Government a thousand airplanes it would do more than anything to stop the submarine menace?" asked Senator Sheppard, Chairman of the committee.

"I assuredly do," replied Admiral Peary. He referred to a dispatch from Paris on May 5 saying that twelve patrol boats had had engagements with submarines since Feb. 1, while thirteen hydroaeroplanes had engaged in similar encounters.

"That shows what the hydroaeroplanes are doing," the Admiral went on. "The hydroaeroplane is still in its infancy, yet it takes six more submarines than its patrols. In the month of May the French hydroaeroplanes had fourteen engagements with submarines and the patrols twelve."

Senator Sheppard wanted to know if there would be enough aviators available to operate the machines.

"I understand that in the War Department and in the Aero Club of America and in the Aero Coast Patrol Commission the applications today are from 20,000 to 30,000," replied the Admiral. "I have no doubt they could be increased to 50,000 in a short time. That would be more than enough for all our uses."

Senator Kirby asked Admiral Peary if he thought the airplane would in future be of real service except as a fighting machine.

"I think that air power, just the same as sea power in the past, will be of two kinds, military and commercial," said Admiral Peary. "When the war is over we shall take up the commercial phase, the carrying of passengers, of freight, of mails, the patrol of our coasts and of our frontiers. I think the airplane is going to be available also as a municipal fire fighting equipment and purposes of the kind. I think the military phase of it is going to be in the future fully equaled, perhaps surpassed, by the great commercial aspect.

"One great point in the whole matter of an enormous air equipment, it is my mind, that every ounce of energy and every dollar of money put into it while for this immediate military emergency is still not wasted. For when the military emergency ceases our military weapon of the air service can be transformed into a commercial implement."

Admiral Peary traced the development of the airplane since the beginning of the war, when it was used exclusively for scouting.

"Later on it was armed to enable each airplane to repel other airplanes," he went on. "Now they are mounting heavier guns and carrying heavier loads of explosives. There is a type of machine being built for this Government that will carry 4,000 tons of dead weight, exclusive of its own weight. It will carry a driver, two gun operators, two guns and ammunition.

ZEPPELINS HUNT PREY FOR U-BOAT ATTACKS

Scandinavian Shipping in the Gulf of Bothnia Is Hard Hit by German Methods.

STOCKHOLM, June 12, (via London.)—German submarines and light war craft, together with Zeppelins, are continuing their activities in the Gulf of Bothnia. Hardly a day passes without one or more Scandinavian vessels being sunk. The Zeppelins scout regularly along the Swedish coast lines, occasionally coming inside the territorial limits.

A Swedish naval patrol yesterday drove away a Zeppelin to the eastward of Stockholm.

GOTHENBURG, Sweden, June 12, (via London.)—Indignation has been aroused here by statements made before a Magistrate's court by survivors of the Swedish steamer Harold, which was sunk by a German submarine in the North Sea on May 6, the Captain and four of the crew being drowned.

The testimony showed that the submarine shelled the Harold without warning, continuing the shelling after the vessel had stopped and during all the time the crew was launching the boats in a heavy sea. One of the life boats was destroyed by a shell.

CHRISTIANIA, June 12, (via London.)—The Norwegian bark Deveron, of 1,262 tons, has been sunk. Four men were lost, including one Canadian, and twelve men have been landed at Lerwick. The Captain and another man were wounded.

The Dagbladet reports that the Arctic cutter Sverre II. has been sunk. The crew was saved.

WEDDED TO TWO IN ERROR.

Decree Inadvertently Gave Permission to Marry Again.

Through the inadvertent but unprecedented action of Supreme Court Justice Delehanty in granting permission to remarry to the woman plaintiff in a separation suit, Mrs. Anna M. Howard is no the wife of Edward Howard, a vaudeville actor, to whom she was wedded in 1908, and also of Victor Jadowski, who became her husband on May 1 last. Mrs. Howard has had no word from her first husband since about two weeks after her marriage to him, and has not seen him for seven years, and if he fails to appear she will remain the legal wife of Jadowski, but if any evidence is produced that he is still alive the second marriage will be set aside.

The fact that the unusual action of Justice Delehanty had caused embarrassment not only for Mrs. Howard, but for her attorneys, May & Jacobson, became known yesterday, when the lawyers filed an amended decree in the case in which Justice Delehanty had struck out the permission to remarry. Mrs. Howard-Jadowski was advised to apply for the amended decree, which would disturb her present marital status, after Justice Delehanty had sent for her attorney, David May, and had insisted that the plaintiff take this action at once. The original decree, giving permission for Mrs. Howard to remarry, was filed on Nov. 5 last.

SMOOT SEEKS DATA AS TO ARMY RIFLES

His Resolution, Objected To as Rash, Asks if Ammunition Will Fit Allies' Guns.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Smoot offered a resolution today calling upon the Secretary of War, "if not incompatible with the public interest," for information as to the type of rifle adopted for the American Army, and whether the bore and ammunition of the army rifles, machine guns and field artillery are standardized to those of the French and British armies. Senator Poindexter objected to the resolution as asking information that might be useful to the enemy, and under the rules it went over until tomorrow.

Senator Smoot wanted to know if the American Army was being equipped with the Enfield rifle, if use in the British Army, and if so, if the rifles were being chambered to fit the American type of cartridge.

In opposing the resolution, Senator Poindexter said it was risky to be prying into army affairs and bringing to light secrets that would be of avail to the enemy.

"The Senate ought not make a spectacle of itself by dragging army secrets out on the floor," he insisted.

NO one WANTS to be a Slacker

DO YOU know what a "curtain of fire" is? It is when the enemy brings up thousands of pieces of artillery, great cannon firing shells as large as a man's body, one of which exploding among five hundred men could kill them all—other smaller guns firing shrapnel, with millions of bullets scarcely less destructive—hundreds of thousands of shells, all exploding along a certain line, until there is a real wall of explosion, a wall of death to be passed.

And our boys are going in—in where they use curtains of fire as you use matches—going in with high hearts and a laugh—and OUR boys will go THROUGH—some of them.

Brother, you can't go with them. You are too old, or you have too many dependent on you, or you can't pass the examination, or you are needed in your present work to keep the wheels of business moving at home.

But there is something you CAN do, and MUST do, something that every one of us MUST do; and that is subscribe to the Liberty Loan. The nation must have $2,000,000,000, NOW. There are bonds of $50, $100, $500, and upwards. They pay 3½% and are the safest investment that has ever been known. They are a first mortgage on the wealth of the United States, now the greatest wealth of the world. It's like buying a ten dollar mortgage on a million dollar bank building.

It is only common sense to put your money in them—but you must WAKE up to it. The Liberty Loan MUST be subscribed by June 15th. Your subscription is NEEDED NOW.

When our boys abroad are called on to go through a curtain of fire, there will be no hanging back—they'll go IN—in spite of every one's knowing that only some of them will go THROUGH alive. And they'll laugh and sing "There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" just as they did at Santiago, because that's the kind of stuff that's in them.

What kind of stuff is there in us? We must go in NOW. The nation needs our help—very badly. Are we going to hang back? We don't believe anyone would knowingly be a slacker. We'll do our bit if we know about it. And we know about it now, and the call has come—the nation needs us to do our bit today.

What Will We Say?

In a day or two days or three days people will begin to ask you, "Have you subscribed to the Libert Loan yet?"

And a real American with the stuff in him that is American stuff will and can say, "You betcha! Yes, sir! You betcha!"

This is an enormous War Loan issue. Two billions, $2,000,000,000, is needed now—immediately. The banks have subscribed liberally. But the people must take the bulk of this loan. The bank's money must be used, as always, to support merchants, factories, farmers, so that crops can be raised, foodstuffs prepared for market, and all business go on as usual.

We Want Our Jobs, Don't We?

You don't want business depression, we know. You don't want factories closed down, shops closed up, men out of work, old people and little children without enough to eat—the very poor starving. We know you don't, but you haven't realized the danger yet. But we are at war—AT WAR—and dangers go hand in hand with war and cannot be separated from it.

And if you do your part, if you make a real sacrifice and subscribe to as much of the Liberty Loan as you can stagger under, if you rally shoulder to shoulder with the ten million regular Americans who MUST buy these bonds, in a few months' time you will see a further flood tide of prosperity as that $2,000,000,000 is spent ON TOP of our present active business, and this community, and every worker in it, will share in the business victory you have helped to win.

How to Do It.

If you have a bank account, go to your bank and subscribe. Your first payment need be only 2% of the whole and the balance in four payments up to August 30. If you buy a $100 bond your first payment need be only $2.

If you have no bank account go to your employer and subscribe through him. You can buy a $50 bond and pay $2.50 a week to him until all is paid for.

There is no excuse for NOT doing our bit—and every one will know it.

Do your bit NOW. Subscribe to a Liberty Bond before the day is over. And when anyone asks you, show him the receipt from your bank or boss and grin, and say "You betcha, friend! You betcha!" like a regular American who did not wait until the last day or until he was nagged into it, but who VOLUNTEERED—who didn't hang back a minute when his country called.

PRAISED GERMANS IN EDISON'S PLANT

WENT AROUND UNCHECKED

Liberty Accorded to Pro-German Advocate Aroused Residents of the Oranges Who Heard Him.

Residents of the Oranges have been greatly stirred up by the praise of Germany and the attacks on some of our allies which were delivered in a lecture given on Monday of last week at the Edison plant, in connection with the Red Cross and Liberty Loan celebration. What has caused most comment is that the lecturer was allowed to go about apparently unchecked through the Edison plant, where many devices and formulas for use in American military operations are being worked out.

The lecture was delivered in connection with moving pictures taken on the eastern front and along the Isonzo by Captain F. E. Kleinschmidt, a German-American aviator and motion-picture photographer who has seen much of the fighting of the Austrian armies and has accompanied some of their aviators on long flights into enemy territory. The lecturer spoke with a strong German accent, and did not make any attempt to modify his praise of the Germans and his attacks on the methods of the Russian troops.

Mr. Edison was not present at the celebration. One visitor from New York thus described his experience:

"I was invited over at the last moment by a friend," he said. "It was a busy night with me, and I asked my friend if I could not come late and make my way to the Edison Works by myself. 'No, indeed,' he said. 'Get into the Edison plant without an introduction at this time during this war! The place is so carefully guarded that it would be impossible. I can only get in myself by having some one meet me at the station and personally conduct me.'

"As we went in the last films of a reel were being shown, and from the back of the large hall I could see that they were of U-boats. With the end of the reel the bigger part of the crowd left, and we made our way to the front, and the next reel was shown with the announcement at the top of the first picture that they were by Captain Kleinschmidt. The scenes were on the Russian-German war front, the spokesman said, naming the places as the scenes went on. He showed a burning village, the work of the Russians, he explained.

"'The Russians,' he said, 'burn buildings that could do no good to their enemies and which cause great distress to the inhabitants. They cut down every tree and go through every planted field destroying the crops and leaving the place absolutely desolate.' The next scenes showed the Germans pursuing the Russians, the latter not in sight. The Germans were shown marching in close ranks at a double quick, and their cavalry was shown tearing down a road and turning so sharp a corner that occasionally a man was unhorsed.

"'The Germans pursue their enemies,' the speaker went on in his broken English, 'until there is not one left.' I noted as the pictures went on that, notwithstanding Kleinschmidt's account of the devastation of the country, all that was shown following the scene of the burning village was green and fertile with grass and trees. He showed the Germans driving off a herd of splendid-looking cattle.

"He called attention to the fine military appearance of the Germans and asked his audience to notice what a different appearance was made by the Russians. He showed the Russians as a group of men without military formation, as if they were prisoners. He took the audience along with him following the 'enemy,' as he said. He showed the Germans making a pontoon bridge and later crossing a river on a dry dam, and then he said: 'The Russians burn buildings which would do no one any good, and they leave bridges for those who are following them to cross.'

"The reel finished, Captain Kleinschmidt lingered for a few moments, and as the next pictures were highly patriotic—the Edison employes in a Liberty bond parade—he sauntered off unattended, apparently to go wherever he pleased."

Brig. Gen. White Indorses Plan to Set Aside the Week Beginning July 2.

CALL FOR 200 AVIATORS

Cadets Between 21 and 25, When Trained, Will Get Commissions in the British Army.

Plans for an "Allies' Recruiting Week," beginning Monday, July 2, to inspire eligible subjects in this country of Great Britain, France, Russia, and the other allied nations to enlist with their respective colors, were presented yesterday to Brig. Gen. W. A. White, head of the British Recruiting Mission, at 280 Broadway. General White approved of the movement, and the co-operation of many of the prominent war relief committees now at work in the United States was promised to him.

Thus far Great Britain alone has undertaken the task of recruiting its subjects in this country. While the other nations have not established recruiting facilities here, the committee in charge of the Allies' Recruiting Week, with the co-operation of the foreign Consuls in New York, will make such arrangements as will insure the examination of all subjects of the allied nations who are eager to enlist. Through the various relief committees, a plan will be devised whereby the wives and children of men who enlist will be properly cared for.

John Moffat of the Allies' Co-operated Charities will head the Allies' Recruiting Week Committee, and some of the organizations that will participate in the work are the American Ambulance in France, represented by Mrs. Robert Bacon; the American Women's War Relief Fund, John Moffat; the French Tuberculosis War Victims' Fund, Mrs. Maynard; the British War Relief Fund, Major Lewis Livingstone Seaman; Committee of Mercy, Miss Katharine B. Davis; War Relief Committee, Miss Elsa Maxwell, and Charities of the Queen of Belgium, Mrs. Charles H. Marshall and Frederick H. Allen.

Lieutenant Harold B. Denton, in charge of recruiting aviators for the British Government, issued an urgent call yesterday for 200 aviation cadets between the ages of 21 and 25. The applicants must, of course, be British subjects. After being declared acceptable here, they will be sent to the big Canadian flying camp near Toronto, where they will be put through a two months' course of training. Enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps, it was said, offered the only opportunity for British subjects in this country to obtain commissions. In all other branches they are enlisted as privates, the British mission having no authority to bestow commissions. In the Aviation Corps, however, as soon as the cadet completes his training, he becomes an officer. Lieutenant Denton said that no applicant would be considered unless he possessed a college education or its equivalent. The maximum age limit, he said, is made not higher than 25, because experience in the training camps and at the front has proved that men above that age are more likely to lose their nerve when confronted by a perilous situation.

The mission recruited more than 125 British subjects yesterday. There were a score of actors in the list of applicants, among them being Charles E. Bryant, husband of Alla Nazimova; Lionel Atwell, Thomas Holding, William Evans, Horace Sinclair, R. B. Tesseman, Harold Debecker, and S. K. Murray.

Miss Jane Boland Sutherland of 132 West Seventy-ninth Street called at the British recruiting headquarters and volunteered her services and donated her two big touring cars for ambulance work. Miss Sutherland also said she intended to organize a regiment of American women who would go to France and drive their own cars about the firing lines and rescue soldiers wounded in battle.

PARADE TO DRAW RECRUITS.

Army and Navy Men to March in Fifth Avenue on Saturday.

The campaign to add 4,000 men by Saturday to the Marine Corps continued yesterday, with satisfying results. Major Frank Evans, in charge of marine recruiting in New York, received favorable reports from various parts of the country, and said that this city would undoubtedly furnish its 250 men.

To assist the campaign, the Mayor's Committee on National Defense announced yesterday that a recruiting parade would take place on Fifth Avenue on Saturday, in which all branches of the service will be represented. Among the organizations to march will be a battalion of sailors, one of marines, and one of bluejackets. The regular army will be represented by a battalion of infantry and one of coast artillery. The National Guard will be in line, with one company each from the Seventh, Twelfth, Fifteenth, and Sixty-ninth Regiments, supplemented by detachments of cavalry, machine gun and Signal Corps men.

A call for 1,000 teamsters for immediate service was issued yesterday by the Quartermaster Enlisted Reserve Corps, which is recruiting at 1,790 Broadway. To facilitate recruiting in this branch, a new station has been opened in the office of the Endicott-Johnson Company, at 55 Hudson Street, in the heart of the wholesale grocery district. The Quartermaster's Enlisted Reserve also desires to recruit about 75 saddlers, 75 farriers, 100 cooks, and 200 bakers.

Col. Glassford on Retired List.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Colonel William A. Glassford, chief aeronautical officer for the Western Department of the Army, was relieved of duty today by the War Department and placed on the retired list. He was formerly in command of the army aviation school at San Diego.

Want a Pleasant Answer?

You wouldn't be human if you didn't hope for it.

But you wouldn't be wise if you trusted it, either.

Sweat out an advertisement idea and see it through till you get a good clean proof of it. Then ask friends and employees what they think of it—and don't believe a word they say. They are as human as you are, and they usually know you want a pleasant answer.

But if you really want an honest and helpful opinion, you have to discount also the answer of the occasional smart-aleck or keen office-politician who says it's rotten.

What can a poor honest cuss of a truth-seeker with money to spend depend on, then?

Must you come back to your own judgment and bank on that, same as you intended to do all along?

Not necessarily; there are two things you can do first:

You can make those who say the copy is good prove it by telling you just what there is in it that appeals to them—and if they can't do it you had better think it over a little longer.

And you can make those who say it's rotten prove it by telling you 1-2-3 what's wrong with it—or else forget you ever asked them.

'NAVY SPY' CHARGES DRAW TWO INQUIRIES

CALLS ORDNANCE EXPERTS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—At the request of Secretary Daniels, the Senate Naval Committee will begin a thorough investigation tomorrow of the charges made against the Navy Department in an anonymous letter to Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey.

It was learned today that two of the specific charges made by the correspondent of Senator Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, whose disclosure of them resulted in the assertion by Secretary Daniels that there was "either a spy or a traitor" in the navy, related to fuses and inspection officers. The allegation was made that the Ordnance Bureau was using the wrong kind of fuse.

Mr. Daniels has asked that, in addition to the officers who have been at the head of the Ordnance Bureau for the last seven years, also since he has been Secretary, the committee call also the author of the secret charges. The Navy Department is also conducting an inquiry of its own.

Admirals Twining, Strauss, and Earle will testify before the committee.

Senator Frelinghuysen has telegraphed to an address given to him by his correspondent in one of the communications divulging confidential Navy Department information. No response has been received, however, and it was stated that the telegram was not even delivered. Whether the author of the letter resides in Detroit is not known here, and will not be known unless Senator Frelinghuysen is able either to divulge the identity of the person or furnishes all the information in his possession concerning him to the Department of Justice at the request of Secretary Daniels. The Senator said he did not know the identity of the man.

Secretary Daniels's view is understood to be that the author of the charges either is or was in the Government service or that he has a confederate who is in the Government service. The author of the letters is said to have given the filing numbers of documents of a confidential nature, to which no one except a Government employe should have had access. Having such information as he has divulged, it is regarded as likely that he also possesses other information, the character of which cannot be known until the author's identity is discovered.

Secretary Daniels takes the view that a person really desirous of effecting a reform or of righting a wrong would have come to him with the information upon which his criticism or complaint was based. He has not indicated any suspicion that Senator Frelinghuysen's correspondent was moved by motives of revenge or jealousy, or that he was acting spitefully because of possible disappointment concerning contracts or loss of position.

It was stated today that in no instance had any one with a complaint or criticism sought to see Secretary Daniels without having had a hearing. In this connection it was related that recently a common sailor, a Filipino, visited the Secretary's office with a complaint of treatment he had received on a warship, and that the Secretary gave him a half hour of his time. Mr. Daniels then sent for the Captain of the vessel to which the Filipino belonged and the Filipino was satisfied.

NEW MOVE BY WILSON TO PUSH FOOD BILLS

Will Notify Congress Leaders Need of Legislation Is Imperative—Labor to Demand Action.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—President Wilson and the Cabinet again took up the question of Congress's delay in enacting food legislation today, and it is understood that the President will take some step at once to hasten action. He probably will not make a special address to Congress on the subject, but will call in leaders and let them know that the immediate adoption of the bills is necessary.

Representatives of organized labor, through Grant Hamilton of the Legislative Committee of the American Federation of Labor, made known today that they were determined to be a part of agencies, whether Federal, State, county, or municipal, which have anything to do with the administration of laws to handle the food supply problem.

Mr. Hamilton, in a statement issued through the Committee on Public Information, said:

"If the bill as reported meets with the approval of those representing labor, a campaign will be inaugurated through the unions of the American Federation of Labor to secure its early passage, or, more definitely, to try to carry out the wishes of Mr. Hoover in securing legislation by July 1.

"President Wilson is thoroughly in accord with the provisions of the measure, and he urges its immediate passage. The reason that July 1 is selected as the latest date, is the fact that already harvests are being gathered in Texas, and by July the flow of new grain into elevators will be general. It will then be controlled by speculators unless the Government secures legislation providing it with machinery whereby a sufficient amount of grain can be kept in this country for our own use and a price be maintained that will be liberal to the producers and reasonable to consumers.

"While wheat receives the first consideration, there are a number of other staples for which it is necessary the Government exercise its authority in proper distribution as well as in protecting producer and consumer alike against speculators and middlemen.

"At a meeting of labor men Sunday, we were all agreed to the principle that under present conditions it is essential that the Government be given sufficient authority to protect original producers of foodstuffs and also consumers, and that we would be favorable to any legislation that will bring about results. We also agreed to insist, and to propose to make our insistence heard, that labor be represented on all agencies, whether Federal, State, county, or municipal, which have anything whatever to do with the administration of any law passed by Congress to cope with the food supply."

Mr. Hoover expects to have the organization of the food administration complete when Congress passes the control bill. Already he is doing a vast amount of work and every day he is seeing delegations representing various food interests, producer, distributer and consumer. Several men associated with him in Belgian relief are assisting him with details, and it is probable some of them may be retained as volunteer assistants after the administration is organized. Among them are: Dr. Vernon L. Kellogg, Professor of Biology at Stanford University, who was Director of the Brussels office of the relief; Captain J. F. Lucey of Chattanooga, Director of the Rotterdam office; Edgar Rickard, the First Secretary of the commission; W. L. Honsell, Director of the New York office; J. Beaver White, one or the original Directors, and F. C. Walcott of New York, who as a representative of the Rockefeller Foundation made an investigation of Belgian relief work. Another of Mr. Hoover's temporary assistants is President Wilbur of Stanford University.

Paderewski says:

"It is several years since the Pianola was brought to my attention, and having been, if I am not mistaken, the first one to endorse this important invention, I have since watched its development with the utmost interest.

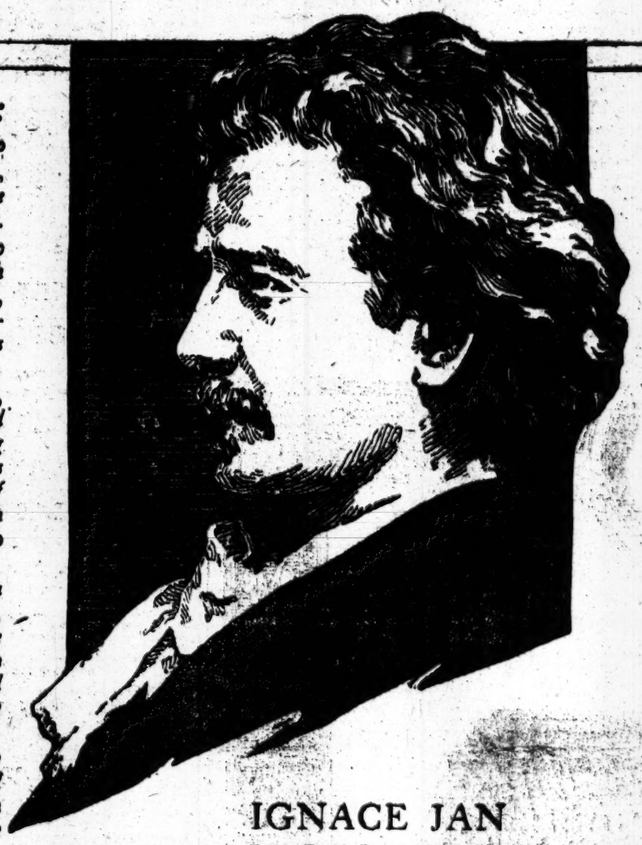
"From the first the wonderful possibilities of a piano technique immediately available to everyone, which should yet be under the control of the performer, appeared to me as the means to make music an accessible art, just as accessible to the great public as literature, sculpture and painting.

"Your first Pianolas, one of which I myself own, contained this possibility in embryo, and it has remained for you, with gradual development during intervening years, to realize it. Your success with the Pianola is therefore well deserved, and I view the growth of your popularity both in America and in Europe, with satisfaction, as verification of my early opinion as to the future of the Pianola.

"I cannot conceive of any reason why the Pianola should not be used in every home. As a pianoforte, when the keyboard is used, it leaves nothing to be desired, while for acquiring a broad musical education for the development of the understanding of good music which modern culture demands, it is undoubtedly the most perfect, and really great medium.

"There have appeared in recent years a great many mechanical devices for piano-playing. I have heard several of them, and though not denying their certain qualities, I have to maintain my former opinion:—The Pianola is still the best, unsurpassable, supreme".

Most cordially yours.



IGNACE JAN PADEREWSKI

The Pianola is a highly perfected player-piano. The comparison begins and ends there—for no other player-piano is, or could be, a Pianola.

The vital difference between the Pianola and the ordinary player-piano lies in the complete and accurate control of effects, and the unlimited freedom of expression which the Pianola gives the player.

Persons who have a natural taste and desire for music but who have never had the opportunity to acquire technical skill as performers, will find that the Pianola satisfies their craving for expressive music. This remarkable instrument puts years of training and study into your fingers in a few days and enables you to create music at will—to weave your personality into the compositions of the great masters and produce any desired musical effect.

YANKEES DOWN LEAGUE LEADERS IN LONG AND HARD FOUGHT GAME

YANKEES JOLT SOX IN DUSKY TWELFTH

Night Falling Fast When Hendryx Drives In Run That Beats Chicago, 4 to 3.

BAKER'S BAT TIES TALLY

Frank Sends Pipp Home Ahead of Him In Last of Ninth and Extends Game Into Extra Innings.

Tim Hendryx broke up a long argument with Eddie Cicotte's knuckle ball at the Polo Grounds yesterday when he belted a single to centre in the dusk-enveloped twelfth inning and provided the necessary impetus to whisk Walter Pipp over the platter with the run which won for the Yankees from the White Sox by a score of 4 to 3. It was no accident, for Timothy had done this selfsame trick before. The jar thus suffered by Chicago took their minds off the pennant for the time being and made them realize that their first task here will be to beat the Yanks.

The White Sox are casting longing eyes at the American League flag. They figure that they can't lose it unless the club gets tangled up in a railroad wreck or something like that. Here is their argument: They say that they are now leading the league, and their best hitters are not batting anywhere up to their normal gait. When these sluggers get going, say the White Sox, the rest of the clubs will not be able to see their heels for dust. That kind of reasoning is all very well in its way, but the Sox failed to figure out how to win a twelve-inning game from the Yanks yesterday.

Up to yesterday Eddie Cicotte had been a big stumbling block in the Yankees' path. He had won eight out of the last nine games he played against them. He still has a great average against the Yanks with eight out of ten. The Yanks didn't hit him often in the early innings yesterday, but when they did hit, the ball sailed over the hills and far away. Among the extra-base thumps were triples by Maisel and Magee, a couple of doubles by Peck and another by Hendryx, to say nothing of a home run clout by John Franklin Baker.

This huge blow by the Trappe Mauler furnished the big moment of the fray. Up to the time that he waved his black bat in the last of the ninth, the Yankees looked for all the world as if they were defeated by a score of 3 to 1.

Baker's Blow Ties Score.

Coming into the last of the ninth, the 8,000 ardent Yankee fans were beginning to think that there was something to these yarns about the White Sox having such a wonderful club. Pipp, the first citizen to face Cicotte in that paragraph, was a patient soul and got a pass. Elmer Miller lofted to Happy Felsch and along came Baker. Manager Bill Donovan stood on the first base coaching line and waving his strong right arm in the direction of the right field grand stand, he shouted: "Put it right over in there, Bake."

Baker showed that he was Wild Bill's most obedient player, for no sooner had the words left Donovan's mouth than Cicotte let sail one of his fastest shoots. Smash went the ball toward right field on a line and settled among the hat waving populace in that section of the stadium. Pipp trotted along home ahead of Baker and the score was tied.

Now the game began to get exciting. The anticipated White Sox victory seemed to fade away and the Yanks began to figure out how they could slay Cicotte's slants. Luckily for Donovan's boys, Slim Love was pitching at this time, and he tossed over left handed benders which were all Greek to the Chicago batters. A double play cut down the Sox in the tenth, and although they jammed the bases to suffocation in the twelfth, Love pitched his way out of the difficulty.

Then came the last of the twelfth. Baker, the home run hope, brought forth a groan from the crowd when he fanned. Peckinpaugh took matters into his own hands and slapped a two-base drive, his second of the day, against the left field stockade. Then Leslie Nunamaker faced Cicotte, the Chicago pitcher was afraid of the savage look in his eye, so he walked him purposely.

Hughey High, who was on the bench yesterday because of Donovan's latest shake-up, then received a glorious opportunity to distinguish himself by being called upon to bat for Love. High failed in the attempt and lifted a high foul to Ray Schalk.

Then Came Hendryx.

With two out and the crowd all on its feet ready to rush to the gates, Tim Hendryx smashed a single straight down through the pitcher's box to centre field, and Peckinpaugh raced for home. Felsch made a bad peg to the plate. Schalk, picking the ball out of the dust, tried to apply it to the sliding Peckinpaugh, but the ball dropped out of his hands. It took the Yanks a long time to do it, but they finished the job up in style.

The Yankees' batting order was pretty well dislocated when they took the field yesterday. Hendryx was up in the lead-off position, while Miller was inserted for High in left and batted in Baker's position, while the home run king dropped down one position under him. The new arrangement worked out well enough for Donovan to try it for a while longer.

George Mogridge was Wild Bill's first pitching choice, and he was so severely punished at the start that he was knocked off the mound in the second inning. After Baker made a wonderful stop of J. Collins's grounder and threw him out at first, Weaver and Eddie Collins both contributed singles. Joe Jackson walloped a three-bagger to centre and sent Weaver and E. Collins home. The Yankees got one of these runs back in the same inning when Hendryx was safe on Risberg's wide toss to first, which pulled Chic Gandil off the bag. Magee skied to Felsch and Fritz Maisel smashed a triple to right centre, which sent Hendryx home a-flying.

The Sox continued to maul Mogridge in the second. Risberg opened with a double and when Schalk rolled to Baker that spry individual tagged Risberg out, going to third. Cicotte singled to right, sending Schalk to third, and Allan Russell took the place of the battle-riddled Mogridge. Russell did well until the fifth, when he got a bit wild and a scratch hit and two hit batsmen filled the bases. He pitched his way out of trouble, however.

Russell was taken out in the seventh to permit the entrance of Slim Caldwell as a pinch hitter. Yesterday didn't happen to be Caldwell's day for making hits, so the substitution was a failure.

The Yankees' chances looked just as slim as Pitcher Love when the last of the ninth happened around, but a pass and Baker's home run changed the complexion of the game completely. The game was attractively studded with kicks from both players and managers on the judgment of Umpire Hildebrand behind the bat. After they all did a lot of talking, Hildebrand did just as he pleased. That's all the good it did.

DODGERS TAKE THE LAST.

Get Even Break In Series, Beating Matty's Men by 2 to 0.

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 12.—The Dodgers got a full measure of revenge today for their previous two defeats at the hands of the Reds, and took the last game of the series, 2 to 0. Six times did Marquard and Cadore allow one or more Cincinnati players to get on with nobody out. In each case the Reds were retired without a run, while the fans ground off some perfectly good teeth in the grand stand.

However, Marquard and Cadore do not deserve all the glory for the Dodgers' victory and an even break on the series. Four sparkling double plays took the fight out of the struggling Reds and put the game where it belonged. The Robin infield worked like a machine, despite an error by Cutshaw at second. The boys did not hit hard, but they didn't have to. They got one run in the first by working the double steal on the Reds, the word having gone around the circuit that it doesn't require much skill to do so when Cincinnati is the opposing club. Singles by Meyers and Cadore accounted for the second run, put over in the eighth.

WILD THROW BEATS MACKS.

Misplay by Witt Lets In Run by Which Tigers Win, 3 to 2.

PHILADELPHIA, June 12.—A wild throw by Witt of Heilman's grounder allowed Young to score the run which decided today's game in Detroit's favor, 3 to 2. Mitchell was very effective except in the third inning, when two hits, a sacrifice, an out, and an error gave Philadelphia two runs. Cobb made two triples in four times at bat.

GIANTS WIN A VERY HILARIOUS SESSION

Cubs Lose After Taming Schupp, Tieing Things Up, and Then Going Clear Nutty.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, June 12.—A wild burlesque on the national pastime was staged today at Weeghman Park. The Cubs lost to the Giants 10 to 6, and if there was anything overlooked in manufacturing these tallies it has yet to be invented. Where there are wild athletes there must be wild umpires, and Billy Klem and Kitty Bransfield are no exceptions. About the only good thing Umpire Klem did, from a North Side viewpoint, was to chase Larry Doyle for arguing too strenuously regarding an overthrow that meant an extra run for the visitors. Larry's going made room for Paddy Driscoll, the Northwestern University football and baseball star.

Just previous to Doyle's going Klem had shooed Manager Mitchell to the clubhouse and Chuck Wortman, utility infielder, followed him. Either the heat or the nutty exhibition by the Cubs affected Klem, for he spent a restless afternoon reversing decisions back and forth with reckless abandon. Bransfield took no part in the squabbles with the Bruins. He had his hands full keeping the Giants in line.

Getting back to the game—if it can be called such—one hysterical session of boots and bounders by the Bruins overcame all the glory they got from coming from behind and tying up a five-run lead handed the Giants in the first and third. Ferdinand Schupp, well known southpaw, who tamed the locals so successfully in the opening game, was knocked from the hill in this wild scramble in a little over four innings. Tesreau finished (Heaven knows how!) for all he had was his glove and a prayer.

Going back to the beginning, Tom Seaton drew the original hurling assignment for the Mitchells, but that's all. He didn't last long enough to entitle him to a place in the box score. Four Giants faced him, Burns, Herzog, Kauff, and Zimmerman. The first two walked and the next pair hit safely. Good-bye, Tom! Hendrix came next, and after permitting Fletcher to hit safely, retired the side on a double play, staying on the job until after the sixth, which was a wild and woolly period. Ruether threw during the last three frames.

In the matter of hits the Giants only topped the Cubs by one, getting an even dozen. But the difference came in the error column, for they finished with a clean record afield, whereas the Cubs kicked four, each particular one having a run of its own in swelling the Gotham run total to ten. Add a wild pitch and a passed ball, a theft of home and the double steal, and one has some inkling of how Roquefort-like the Bruins performed.

With Hendrix doing the twirling, the Giants punished him to raise their lead to five in the third, but the Cubs then began their attack on Schupp, and when the round was over the New York lead was cut to one.

The fifth saw the end of Schupp and the scored tied at 5 all. Ferdie walked Zeider and Wolter as a starter, Doyle's out advancing each a peg. Merkle hit a high roller to short, and Zeider legged it for the plate, arriving safely.

Then Glants Zimmerman pried the sixth round open with a single, only to be killed off in a double play when Fletcher hit to Hendrix. Robertson singled and Holke did the same, Robby going on to third when Mann fumbled the ball, and two were out. The Giants started the double steal, Elliott throwing the ball into centre field, with second base as his mark. Holke kept right on going toward third, and Mann heaved high to Deal, the ball bounding to the stands. The New Yorkers claimed the wild peg went into the Cub bench, which entitled Holke to come on home, and Klem allowed the claim. Exit Doyle for kicking. Rariden walked on top of this, and Zeider helped the muss by booting Tesreau's roller. Burns followed with a single, counting Rariden, and a wild pitch let the pitcher score. Elliott contributed a passed ball to the general mixup, letting Burns reach third. He made the inning complete by stealing home, Elliott letting the ball go through him in his haste to tag the left fielder.

The Cubs got their sixth run in the seventh, when Zeider singled, Driscoll doubled, and Merkle singled.

HOLY CROSS BURIES UNION.

Special to The New York Times.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., June 12.—Holy Cross made it eighteen games won out of twenty-three played by completely outclassing Union on Alexander Field this afternoon before a commencement crowd, 18 to 2.

Goff started in the box for Union and for four innings held the visitors to two hits and a shut-out score. In the fifth, however, the heavy-hitting visitors found the combination, and started an onslaught which ended only with the end of the ninth inning. Heavy hitting demoralized the Garnet outfielders, and flies which might have been outs were misjudged and went for extra-base hits.

Cantey, a freshman, relieved Goff, but he was found easily and couldn't check the scoring. Donnellan, pitching for Holy Cross, allowed only five hits, and he was supported splendidly by his infield, while Wigglesworth, in left field, hauled down apparent extra-base hits by sensational fielding.

FOLLIES OF 1917 IS A FINE SPECTACLE

Visually, Ziegfeld's Summer Revue Has Never Been Surpassed on New York Stage.

ITS WIT NOT BRILLIANT

Production Is Also Not Notable for Novel Features — Rogers, Williams, Cantor, and Brice Excel.

THE FOLLIES OF 1917, a musical revue; book and lyrics by George V. Hobart and Gene Buck; music by Raymond Hubbell, Dave Stamper, Victor Herbert, and Jerome Kern. At the New Amsterdam.
THE PRINCIPALS.—Will Rogers, Bert Williams, Irving Fisher, Allyn King, Fanny Brice, Walter L. Catlett, William C. Fields, Marion and Madeline Fairbanks, Eddie Cantor, Russell Vokes, Don Barclay, Peggy Hopkins, and Tom Richards.

"The Follies of 1917," Mr. Ziegfeld's annual Summer revue, was unfolded last night at the New Amsterdam, and that part of New York that lives and moves and has its being in Broadway and its purlieus filled every seat and every inch of standing room, or, if less fortunate, thronged the lobby to await the verdict—for nothing matters quite so much in Broadway and June as whether or not the "Follies" will do. To the ones waiting without, all of whom were not ticket speculators, the word was carried that the show was quite up to the standard, and that while changes would no doubt be made there was more than enough material to last until 11 o'clock, since the première ran forty minutes beyond that.

The eleventh edition of Mr. Ziegfeld's annual show, which has become as much of an institution in the other large cities of the country as here, is notable more as a spectacle than for any brilliance of wit or any novel feature. Visually, it has never been surpassed in the annals of the local stage, which is equivalent to saying the stage. It was three years ago that this producer discovered the Viennese artist, Joseph Urban, and engaged him to furnish the mise en scène, and ever since then the revue has become more and more an ecstacy to the eye. One would have thought that before this, so prolific an artist must have become barren of ideas, but he seems to fairly exude them still.

A setting of Chinese lacquer that came toward the end when the eye was all but numb to the nuances of color was unbelievably lovely; a glimpse of a city roof, the panorama of lower Manhattan in the background and a fruit-festooned parapet bathed in moonlight on either side of the middle ground, was another striking scene. When the former scene dissolved three sets of crossed ladders of red and gold were disclosed against a black background with half a hundred girls in Chinese costumes climbing up and down in unison, while the rungends became incandescent. Another novel effect followed a flower song in which girls dressed to represent various flowers sprang up through a trap. When the opalescent backdrop of beads that formed the background was lifted the figures of two young Venuses were seen in what seemed to be huge irridescent soap bubbles.

No "Follies" was ever complete without a patriotic finale of some sort, but the latest is the best. After a tableau in which the ride of Paul Revert was represented by a man riding a white horse on a treadmill, the figures of George Washington and Abraham Lincoln appeared. Then a troop of maidens in costumes more artistic than historic drilled with true Ned Wayburn precision before a painted eagle that fairly screamed, while a frock-coated actor representing President Wilson reviewed them.

The orchestra played "The Star-Spangled Banner," an dover the heads of the standing audience a huge American flag that canopied the auditorium was unfolded. A scenic tableau in which, by an optical illusion, a fleet of our battleships seemed to steam through the night up to the very breakwater of the footlights, plowing in sine with their approach, ended the spectacle.

The best comedy of the new entertainment is that furnished by the comedians themselves. Will Rogers spun his rope and his wit synchronously with the dexterity that is his alone. William C. Fields transmuted his billiard table act into a tennis match, in which the balls behaved marvelously. Bert Williams shuffled his feet, rolled his eyes, and got more out of his lines than was in them. Eddie Cantor sang some dubious songs, and took the audience into his confidence in the Tinney manner. Fanny Brice was as funny as last year, which was doing more than her bit. And while the other stars may object, Officer Vokes's dog Don must be included among the most successful mirth creators.

LAMBS' SEAT SALE $20,000.

William Collier, Auctioneer, Sells a Box for Gambol for $1,202.

The auction sale of seats that precedes every Lambs' Gambol was held yesterday afternoon in the Hudson Theatre, and while the premium paid fell below last year's unprecedented aggregate of $30,000, the total was so large that the charge of war panic could not be brought against the theatregoing public. The premiums had not been totaled last night, but it was estimated that they would approximate $20,000. This represents the amount paid in excess of the regular box office prices, which are scaled down from $5 each for orchestra chairs.

Sarah Bernhardt, who was announced to appear at the sale, was advised by her physician, Dr. Felix Marot, that it would be injudicious, and she went to Long Beach.

William Courtleigh, Shepherd of the Lambs, said in opening the auction that it was the duty of every one first to subscribe to the Liberty Loan, and then buy seats for the Gambol. William Collier was the first auctioneer, and he got the highest bid of the afternoon, $1,202 for the first box offered. This was paid by a syndicate of Lambs. The other thirty-five boxes were sold for premiums that ran as high as $200, and among the purchasers were James Elverson, William Farnum, Mrs. William Collier, Morris Gest, Percy Williams, R. H. Burnside, Thomas B. Clark, and Dr. Oscar Leiser. Mrs. Collier paid the highest price for a single seat, $100, for an aisle seat in the orchestra. About half of the seats of the Manhattan Opera House were sold for the first performance, which will take place next Sunday night, and the remainder will be placed on sale at the box office tomorrow. The performance will be repeated Monday afternoon.

Metropolitan NotConcerned in 'Aida'

The Metropolitan Opera Company yesterday issued a statement that it had "no connection whatever with, or responsibility for," the proposed open-air performance of "Aida" recently announced for June 16 in the Stadium of the College of the City of New York. The names of one or two Metropolitan artists, as well as the chorus and ballet, had been mentioned for this opera, and in one instance formally withdrawn. The contract for the performance was in the shape of a lease of the Stadium by Thomas A. Storey, physical director of the college, to the Associated Music Bureaus, at whose office it was said that the performance would probably take place at a later date.

DU PONTS SUE FOR PROFITS.

Action for $253,815 Started Against the Savage Arms Company.

A suit for prospective profits amounting to $253,815 was begun in the Federal District Corrt yesterday by the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. against the Savage Arms Company. The complaint said that on Sept. 2, 1915, a contract was entered into between the two concerns for the purchase by the defendant of 1,050,000 pounds of improved rifle powder at 90 cents a pound, less a discount of 10 per cent.

After a part of the powder had been delivered the defendant company, the complaint said, refused to carry out the contract, and directed that the shipments of powder cease.

STEEL DIVIDEND TO AID RED CROSS

sailors in this country as may be desired by the Surgeon Generals of the army and navy. Also we shall proceed with the purchasing, collection, shipment and storing of such supplies as may be necessary, or even precautionary, to be immediately available.

"If we secure the subscription we shall purchase, equip and man hospital ships. We shall organize and maintain a sanitary engineering corps to be subject to the call of the army or navy. In fact, we should be prepared to meet any and every emergency in connection with the needs of our soldiers and sailors in this country when called upon by the army and the navy. It being understood that our work in this particular is supplemental to that of those departments of our Government.

"How much is this going to cost? No one can tell, because no one as yet knows whether we are to have 500,000 men or 2,000,000 men, or more, mobilized and going forward to the line of battle. The foregoing, you will note, treats only with the military necessities and not with the civilian relief in our own country, to which, important as it is, I make no reference in this statement.

"This same service we propose to render through the Red Cross to American soldiers and sailors abroad, not merely to protect them in health and to maintain them as effective fighting men, but to look after their comfort and happiness while they are on leave. The Red Cross must act as a foster-parent to these young soldiers of America 3,000 miles from their homes.

Mission to Make Survey Abroad.

"Beyond the military and civilian needs of our own people we must undertake a larger humanitarian work to aid our allies. This work the Red Cross has already started by sending a commission to Europe. This commission, headed by Major Grayson M.-P. Murphy, is composed of sociological and medical experts and will work in conjunction with agencies appointed by the French Government. It will make a survey of the situation abroad and will recommend to us in the order of greatest importance the work which America must undertake.

"Tuberculosis and the many new and terrible diseases that have developed from trench warfare, and which are incident to army life, must be combatted. They may be conquered both to preserve our own troops serving abroad and to aid our allies. To the degree in which we are successful in conserving manpower we shall help to win the war.

"The Red Cross does not aim to reconstruct devastated villages, but we do feel that it is a part of America's duty to contribute toward the temporary housing of the thousands of homeless, and to aid and encourage them in re-establishing their lives by such assistance as we can give. We want to help them with implements, with materials, with expert services, with everything that we can that will help to put these valiant peoples back on their feet.

"We are sending our troops to the front to fight, but how long will it be before the American section of the western front will compare in a creditable degree with that of the sections held today by other nations. Pending the arrival of our army in such forces shall we not immediately stretch a hand to encourage and stimulate those who are fighting valiantly for our own, as well as their own?

Russia Needs Help.

"To this point I have had in mind only France. What about Russia with a thousand miles of battle front and with only 6,000 ambulances, as compared with the western battle front 400 miles long with 68,000 ambulances? We should send to Russia thousands of ambulances with their personnel, and with as many doctors and nurses as we can spare from this country. What evidence will have been furnished to Russia that the United States is her ally in this war if she has nothing more substantial than our frequently expressed kindly sentiments? The way to hearten and encourage Russia is for the American Red Cross to extend to her without delay, a practical helping hand. It is my opinion that we of the United States cannot justify ourselves in the eyes of Russia by merely assuring Russia that we are her ally when we are in position to join hearts with her through the medium of a national volunteer organization, even though we cannot at this time join arms with her.

"A representative of the Queen of Rumania called upon us last week asking for aid, and when I requested a list of the most pressing needs of that stricken people the reply was 'anything, everything.' This rather confirmed an official request to us to send at once 100 doctors, the necessary medical supplies to Rumania to arrest an epidemic. We can reach Rumania effectively only through Russia. Can we send substantial aid through stricken Russia to stricken Rumania with none for Russia herself?

"So it is all along the line in the Balkans and in other small countries. Are they to know by personal contact and by succor that we are in this war, and that we recognize that they are fighting our battles, or are they merely to receive information to that effect through the press?

No Time To Be Lost.

"Many have urged that the Red Cross delay the movement for securing a large fund, as the time for giving is most inopportune. My reply has been that it is not more inopportune than the war itself, and that nthing will be opportune until this war is won by us. A particular case of urgency, aside from the general distress, is that our organization must be perfected and our supplies shipped to arrive before Winter shall have closed the ports.

"What is going to be done with $100,000,000?

"Perhaps the foregoing will give some idea of what the War Council plans to do with the money. In addition, the question is asked by some, Why does not the Government do this work? The answer is that in the main, by its very nature, such work cannot be administered by a Government. Due to the recognition of that fact, the Red Cross, under the Geneva charter, became the recognized voluntary international agency of the various countries of the world to be the instrument through which the work should be done. At the request of the American people the Red Cross, by reason of its being a voluntary organization free from the necessary governmental restrictions, can at once operate for the protection and saving of countless lives and in assisting to win this war."

President Wilson has designated June 18 to 25 as Red Cross Week, and the money collecting campaign in New York City will be started at a dinner at the Waldorf on next Monday night. This dinner will be attended, among others, by the thirty team captains and their working units of ten persons each. At the same time that the campaign is on in New York City similar organizations will be canvassing for donations in forty-three of the larger cities of the nation and in more than 900 smaller ones.

Morgan Promises to Help.

J. P. Morgan is one of the team captains in the New York campaign, but did not attend the luncheon because he was busy organizing the plan to have corporations declare special Red Cross dividends. The other team captains, including Mayor Mitchel, who made a speech promising to exert himself to the utmost in behalf of the campaign, were all present. They were:

M. Friedsam, T. A. Gillespie, Daniel Guggenheim, J. Horace Harding, William M. Kingsley, Edgar L. Marston, Edwin P. Maynard, H. G. S. Noble, E. H. Outerbridge, Charles H. Sabin, Jacob H. Schiff, James R. Sheffield, Albert Strauss, W. B. Thompson, F. D. Underwood, F. A. Vanderlip, George J. Whelan, A. H. Wiggin, Mrs. Richard Aldrich, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. James A. Burden, Jr., Miss Alice H. Chittenden, Miss Mabel Choate, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Walter E. Maynard, Mrs. Herbert L. Pratt, Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., and Mrs. Orme Wilson, Jr.

Charles Sumner Ward, General Field Secretary of the campaign, announced that, in addition to the $1,000,000 conditionally pledged by Cleveland H. Dodge, three contributions of $25,000 each had been received. Two of them were in the shape of Liberty Loan bonds. Mr. Ward is to have complete charge of the teams in the field. Each of these teams, he announced, would report at luncheons to be held daily at the Chamber of Commerce.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 12.—A proclamation urging the citizens of the State to assist during the week of June 18 in the effort to raise the emergency fund of $100,000,000 for the War Council of the American Red Cross was issued tonight by Governor Whitman. "The present request of the Red Cross is part of the nation's direct appeal for maintenance of the nation's work by all the citizens of the country," said the Governor in his proclamation. "I bespeak for it a sympathetic and prompt response from every community."

ANARCHISTS GUILTY IN ANTI-DRAFT CASE

the jury at 9:15 o'clock and both refused to comment on it. They will be arraigned before United States District Judge Julius M. Mayer for sentence this morning and may be punished with two years in the penitentiary, a fine of $10,000, or both. These men, both leaders in anarchist circles, are the first offenders under the provisions of the draft law to be convicted in the country.

A score of anarchists and I. W. W. sympathizers were in the courtroom when the jury gave its verdict. Among them were a number of young girls, who did not appear in the least abashed to associate themselves with the Reds' propaganda against the draft law.

Two of the men who were indicted with Kramer and Becker—Louis Sternburg and Joseph Walker—were acquitted. Sternburg was ordered acquitted by Judge Mayer and the jury returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of Walker. Both of these had registered as required by law and evidence was produced that they were dupes of the anarchists. Sternburg cannot speak English, while Walker had seditious documents, which the anarchists were circulating when arrested, thrust upon him by Kramer. It was Kramer who declared that the President's death would be a good thing.

The trial of the anarchists started Monday morning. Harry Weinberger, who stated in court yesterday that he was a no-conscription advocate, and who is a popular speaker at anarchist meetings, appeared for the defendants, while Assistant United States Attorney Harold A. Content had charge of the case for the Government. Several times in the course of the trial Judge Mayer admonished Weinberger to be more careful in his examination of the Government witnesses, who, with only a few exceptions, were soldiers or sailors who had attended the Socialist mass meeting in Madison Square Garden, where Becker and Kramer were arrested while distributing the no-conscription documents prepared by the anarchists.

Both Becker and Kramer when on the stand proudly proclaimed themselves opposed to all governments, the United States included. Kramer assumed the attitude of what a Federal official termed "a make-believe intellectual."

In summing up the case for the defense Weinberger defended the no-conscription movement. He shouted that the draft had been forced upon the unwilling people of the United States, and that the anarchists expressed the real opinion of the great majority on that question.

Weinberger talked nearly an hour and when he stopped he was so hoarse he could hardly make himself heard. In the course of his speech he referred to the teachings of scores of famous persons, from the days of Julius Caesar to the present time, as indorsement of the kind of propaganda the anarchists have been preaching in New York in the last few weeks. Some of the other famous persons he mentioned were Blackstone, Washington, Jefferson, Tom Payne, Daniel O'Connell, and William Lloyd Garrison.

It was after 5 o'clock when Weinberger finished. Mr. Content then presented the Government's case calmly.

At 6:15, the jury retired. For an hour one man, it was stated afterward, held up action, while the other eleven clamored for a quick verdict of guilty in the cases of Kramer and Becker and an acquittal of Walker. At 7:15 Judge Mayer sent out the jurymen to dinner and at 8:15 they went back to their room. Their deliberations were at times so noisy that they could be heard in the third floor corridors of the Federal Building. Finally, at 9:15, the foreman, A. J. Smith, announced that a verdict had been reached.

Clerk Elmer Westervelt called the roll of the jury, and then Mr. Smith read the verdict.

"Your verdict is absolutely just," said Judge Mayer, "and meets my views of this case in every way."

Judge Mayer then told Walker to stand up and gave him a few words of advice. If Walker follows this advice he will not be seen again at Anarchist or any anti-American meetings.

ROUND UP MORE SLACKERS.

Three Caught at Anarchists' Meeting Are Defiant.

The roundup of slackers and other violators of the selective draft law has started in earnest, and about sixty men who failed to register on June 5 were brought to the Federal Building yesterday. Most of these were foreign born and did not realize the seriousness of the offense charged, and were permitted to register with the County Clerk. Included in the list of penitents were all but three of the men who were arrested Monday night by the police at the anarchist meeting in West 114th Street.

These three who are held for the Federal Grand Jury are Philip Levine, 22 years old, of 79 Division Street; Herman Wascow, 21, of 128 Second Avenue, and William Herguth, 27, who refused to give his address. The complainant in each instance was Assistant United States District Attorney Harold A. Content. United States Commissioner Hitchcock held them in $5,000 bail each, which none was able to furnish. The cases will go to the Grand Jury today. All of the prisoners said they did not register because they considered the draft law unconstitutional.

Morris Katz, a tailor, said to be a member of the No-Conscription League, who was arrested on Sunday for failure to register, was also held for the Grand Jury, while John Calhoun Allen, the Kentucky mountaineer, who was arrested Sunday, made such a poor impression on United States Judge Julius M. Mayer, that he was sent to Bellevue to be observed as to his mental condition.

The Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn returned an indictment yesterday against Benjamin Mongo of 670 Hopkinson Avenue, who was arrested on Monday by Marshal James M. Power, charged with having failed to register. Mongo was arraigned before Judge Thomas I. Chatfield in the United States District Court. He still refuses to register and entered a plea of guilty. He was held in $2,000 bail for sentence on June 21. The maximum penalty is one year in prison and compulsory registration. Ten other slackers were rounded up yesterday by men from the Marshal's office. All declared that they were willing to register. They were paroled until June 21.

Federal registration continued yesterday in the library of the City Clerk in the Municipal Building. The various Assembly district headquarters have been closed and so have the branch offices of the City Clerk in the boroughs outside of Manhattan.

"This registration bureau was opened originally for sailors," said Philip Baer, librarian to the City Clerk. But we extended it to visitors in New York and New Yorkers who were going to be out of town. Now we are taking all overdue registrants, for there is no other place in the city where they can register. Our mail is swamped daily by citizens of this city who are out of town and want to register."

Fearing he would be drafted to fight against Germany Charles Biemuller, a baker, attempted to end his life by turning on the gas range in his home, 147 East Eighty-second Street, yesterday morning. He was found unconscious by his wife, who summoned a patrolman. Dr. Willen of Flower Hospital worked over the baker with a pulmotor and revived him.

LIBERTY LOAN NIGHT AT THE TABERNACLE

J. Howard Ardrey Joins with Billy Sunday in Urging 22,000 to Buy Bonds.

It was Liberty Loan night in the big tabernacle last night, and 22,000 persons cheered Billy Sunday's request for all to do their bit by purchasing bonds. He was seconded in his efforts by J. Howar Ardrey, Vice President of the National Bank of Commerce, who made an appeal from the platform. Mr. Ardrey said that this war was the war of the people, and it could only be won by all doing their full duty.

"If your husband won't buy bonds," he told the women, "go to the department stores and have them charged up to his account. Let him pay it on the monthly bill."

The evangelist, who stood beside him nodding approval, stepped to the front of the stand. "I have Liberty bonds," he shouted, and the audience applauded wildly. When Sunday got voice again he continued: "A bank in Chicago loaned me money with which I bought Liberty bonds." There was more applause.

"We don't want the banks to take all this loan," he continued. "We want millions of Americans to take it. I had rather live under the American democratic form of Government than under Prussian militarism. I had rather buy a Liberty bond than pay indemnity to that bunch of pretzels across the sea."

Billy was in fine form last night, his voice was clear, and he took off his coat and finished his talk in his shirt-sleeves. In the end 1,510 came forward to shake his hand, making 2,216 trail hitters for the day. In the audience was a delegation of 4,000 from the Pennsylvania Railroad and another from the American Can Company. The staff band of the Salvation Army helped to "brighten their corners."

"You men can remove your coats if you are warm," was the beginning of Sunday's talk on "The Unpardonable Sin."

After enumerating particular sins which Sunday said were pardonable, he gave it as his opinion that the rejection of God was the oft-disputed unpardonable sin.

"What is this unpardonable sin?" he asked. "To me it is plain and simple. It is constant and continual and final rejection of Jesus Christ as your Saviour. God's offer of mercy and salvation comes to you and you say: 'No,' and you push it aside. I do not know that there is such a thing as the last call to every man or woman. God says that His spirit will not always strive with man, and when a man or woman says, 'No,' as God's spirit strives for the last time, it forever seals your doom."

The evangelist said that he did not put much belief in death-bed confessions. "The death-bed confession," he shouted, "is like drinking the cup of life and offering the dregs to Christ. It is like burning the candle at both ends and then blowing the smoke in the face of Jesus. I don't say that none are genuine. But there is only one on record in the Bible, and that is the first time he ever heard of Christ and he accepted Him.

PLATTSBURG MEN GOING TO BELVOIR

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 12. — In compliance with the recommendation of Major Edgar T. Collins, Senior Instructor of the New York regiment, room has been made at the Belvoir (Va.) Engineers' Training Camp for twenty-four additional student officers from New York. A party of 162 New York students and twelve reserve officers will leave here on a special train for Belvoir Friday to take up specialized study of military engineering. The train will have two companies of Coast Artillery candidates of 100 men each from New York and New England bound for Fortress Monroe, Va., for work with the big guns. Those who choose the coast artillery have an excellent chance of going to France as soon as others of the new national army, for their acquaintance with the large calibre guns will be needed.

Colonel Wolf sent a telegram today to the Adjutant General at Washington requesting action on the question whether the 1,100 field artillery candidates are to go to Syracuse or remain at Plattsburg. The course in field artillery is scheduled to begin June 18, and if instruction is to be given at Syracuse the officers in charge at Plattsburg say they will have scant time to arrange for the transportation of 1,100 more men from the camp. If the field artillery instruction is to be at Plattsburg there is not at present the equipment necessary for the work.

Although nine New York men will be chosen this week for the course in aviation at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, each Saturday additional men will be sent to Boston to take up flying. All the men who applied for the aviation branch of the service must take another physical examination, as the requirements for an aviator are more strict than for the training camps. The men who are chosen for this work will be rated as members of the Plattsburg training camp on detached service.

Eleven men resigned from the camp, giving personal and official reasons, and they received honorable discharges. Three of this number belonged to the New York Regiment.

Target practice for the infantry will begin next Monday, with each regiment occupying the rifle range alternate days. Musketry has been one of Colonel Wolf's specialties, and he has been a member of several national rifle teams.

CONSTANTINE FALLS.

With the abdication of CONSTANTINE the crown falls from the brow of a disgraced sovereign. Greece is freed from his unconstitutional rule, the German Emperor loses a servile henchman of great utility to him, and the Allies, in reaching the solution of a problem that has much perplexed them, for the first time by their efforts capture one of those outposts where German calculation long ago established a keeper upon whose faithful service to the Empire full dependence could be placed. Another German puppet, FERDINAND of Bulgaria, achieved a more complete betrayal of his people, against their interest and inclination, into German hands, while through the death of her King early in the war Rumania escaped the net Germany had cast about her.

The gain of the Allies is as great as from an important victory in the field. They will no longer stand in fear of an enemy in the rear of their forces in Macedonia. They will have access to the food stores of Greece, and they are put in a position where their troops will be a much more serious menace to the Austrian and German lines of communication with Turkey. The landing of French troops in Athens yesterday and the taking over of the administration of food supplies throughout Greece foreshadowed the end of CONSTANTINE'S stubborn resistance and indicated foreknowledge of the event.

VENIZELOS should now come into that place of authority in the Greek Government which his statesmanship, his abilities and the confidence reposed in him by the Hellenes so conspicuously qualify him to fill. ALEXANDER, CONSTANTINE'S second son, to whom the crown descends, if the ex-King's wish be respected, is understood to be a supporter of VENIZELOS, a fact which is of happy augury. It will be a fortunate day for Greece and for the Allies when that popular leader is able to transform his limited and shadowy Provisional Government at Saloniki into an actual, responsible Government of Greece established at Athens, with himself at the head of the Ministry.

This will be dismal news for the Kaiser. His brother-in-law and obedient servant chased from the throne, a country that has materially aided in the execution of his design gone over altogether to the enemy, another foe probably soon to be in the field and at a dangerous point, all these disasters following upon the stinging reverse at Messines and the failure of his intrigues in Russia, are alarming portents of his coming doom. Besides, the indication that the knocking off of crowns is to become a popular pastime in this war is an evil portent for the divine right folk.

ITALY'S FOREIGN MINISTER.

The Italian Parliament meets on June 14. A long and various disagreement between Baron SONNINO, the Minister of Foreign Affairs, and the other Ministers seems to be coming to a head, and a number of the members of Premier BOSELLI'S Cabinet threaten to resign. The ostensible recent reasons of the disaffection, Baron SONNINO'S threat to resign if certain persons recommended by other Ministers were appointed to the Italian War Mission to this country, and his proclamation, made without consultation with the other Ministers, of the independence of Albania under an Italian protectorate, are but cumulative.

That proclamation on his own hook was inconsistent with Cabinet discipline and good manners, and recalls Lord PALMERSTON. Baron SONNINO, in most respects far removed from that jaunty insouciance and insolence, often so successful, of Lord PALMERSTON, is essentially English in temperament. He is, in fact, half English, the son of a Jewish father and an English mother, and that "quite British phlegm," a perhaps mythical British quality traditionally ascribed to British statesmen, before LLOYD GEORGE'S time, by Latin critics, has been attributed to him. Stolid or not, his dryness and of men and skill in political finesse and intrigue Are concerned, make him unpopular in the Italian Chamber.

GIOLITTI knew this when he allowed him to form a Ministry in 1905. It was one of the ablest and most patriotic Ministries Italy has had. It went to work seriously to improve the economic status of South Italy, to convert the national debt, to reorganize the railroads. It was a vigorous reform Ministry, and lived two months, when GIOLITTI put himself back, calmly borrowing whatever of SONNINO'S reform policies seemed to "have votes" in them. SONNINO has been Premier twice. He has all the gifts for the post except the graces and small arts.

Familiar is SONNINO'S career since he became Minister of Foreign Affairs in the Giolitti Cabinet on the death of the Marquis of SAN GIULIANO in the Fall of 1914. His calmness, shrewdness, firmness, clearness of reasoning in the famous "conversations" with Count BERCHTOLD and Baron BURIAN of the Austro-Hungarian Foreign Office, the dignity and the skill of his policy in the Salandra and the present Boselli Cabinet, mark him as a great statesman and diplomatist. Since 1870 the Marchese VISCONTI-VENOSTA is the only Italian diplomatist of his rank. It is to be hoped that Italy is not to be deprived of so valuable a servant.

BUY YOUR BOND TODAY.

Because the outlook today is that the first Liberty bond issue may be oversubscribed, every loyal citizen, if he has not already bought a bond, should hasten to buy one. Loyal citizens cannot afford to miss a chance to serve their country. To keep this a popular loan has been the earnest effort of the Government. The total subscription of $2,000,000,000 should represent the savings of the people freely proffered to meet, in part, the war expenses of the Government. Every man or woman who has bought or contracted to buy a single $50 bond will be entitled to feel that he or she has done something to help the nation in its struggle for the preservation of democratic ideals. Apart from that, it is the soundest possible investment. The bond itself is as good as gold, and the interest will always be paid promptly. If you have bought one bond, when a new issue appears you will more easily see your way clear to buy another.

There is no danger that the bonds will not all be taken up. But there are still plenty of opportunities for individual buyers to invest what they can spare in the national loan. And whatever the outlook may be, no citizen should be permitted to ignore the fact that participation in this loan is his duty. Even at a sacrifice of comfort he should place his name on the honor roll. Nobody will ever regret the purchase of a Liberty bond. Buy a bond, or as many bonds as you can afford to buy, today. Prove your loyalty by a practical illustration of your willingness to bear your fair share of the national burden. You will find in the end that you are helping your own fortunes while contributing your savings to the common cause.

AMERICA AND MITTELEUROPA.

In Germany, wrote Captain MAHAN seven years ago, "is now to be "found the beginning and potentiality of an overshadowing concentrated power." Its aims differed from those of all the nations which had ever before sought to dominate Europe, even those which had so endeavored under the leadership of PHILIP II., LOUIS XIV., and NAPOLEON; "the "prototype of modern Germany is to "be found rather in the Roman Empire." That acute prognosticator was seeking to arouse his countrymen to the fact that they had a close personal interest in what was going on in Europe. The title of his work was "The Interest of America in International Conditions." In describing the growth of this "overshadowing concentrated power" he treated Austria as no longer an independent Power, but "bound to Germany . . . as surely as the moon is bound to "the earth, and with it constituting a "single group in the planetary system."

Last Sunday the world learned of President Wilson's words to Russia: "Government after Government has . . . without open conquest of its "territory been linked together in a "net of intrigue directed against "nothing less than the peace and liberty of the world." MAHAN did not live to see the fulfillment of his predictions. Turkey and Bulgaria have followed Austria into the new Roman Empire. It makes no difference whether their actual incorporation is deferred half a century or not; they are to all practical purposes a part of the new universal empire which Germany is founding, the Empire of Mitteleuropa.

Should that empire be established on a sure foundation as the result of this war, the present territory of Mitteleuropa, great as it is, would be only a nucleus, only a centre around which new conquests would be grouped. After the breathing spell given by a short-sighted peace "without annexations or indemnities," the new world empire could begin reaching out for her real conquests, her world conquests. The lands she covets for her expansion would lie invitingly before her, in Asia, Africa, and America; she would only have to pick and choose where her first aggression should fall, whether in Brazil or Egypt or Texas or Mexico. The other europe—and Mitteleuropa has been already established "without open conquest of its territory"—would be unable to oppose her, thus aggrandized. If those nations cannot break up her scheme now, as the President said, "we may never be able to unite or "show conquering force again in the "great cause of human liberty."

Reduced to its lowest terms, if Germany is not beaten now, the next attack will be in all likelihood an attack by the triumphant Empire of Mitteleuropa upon South America, and it will begin with an assault upon the great obstacle which stands in the way of the conquest of South America. That obstacle is the United States, and in such a battle we would fight for life with everything against us. "The meshes of that intrigue," said the President, meaning the intrigue by which "without open conquest" Germany has annexed Mitteleuropa, "must be broken"; they must be broken if the United States is to live and the Western Hemisphere to remain free. That is what "the "interest of America in international "conditions" has become; that is the meaning for us of Mitteleuropa.

NOT A SPY OR A TRAITOR.

No matter what the source may be of the information which Senator FRELINGHUYSEN imparted to the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs relative to imperfect shells and shell fuses in our navy, it is valuable information if it is true, and it was right that the committee and the American people should have it. It is perfectly natural that Secretary DANIELS should resent the divulging of department secrets by an employé, but it is hazardous to assume that Senator FRELINGHUYSEN'S unknown informant is either a spy or a traitor to his country. To place such facts, if they are facts, before the Senate is not to aid Germany, but to insure the correction of certain abuses which, if uncorrected, would most assuredly aid Germany. The traitors are they who sell imperfect shells to the navy if the imperfection is known or intentional. The inevitable investigation may prove that Navy Department Inspectors have been at fault. Carelessness and incompetence in the navy in wartime are much more serious than the betrayal of navy secrets to United States Senators.

Mr. DANIELS viewed the matter in the wrong light. The Senate wants to know, the American people want to know, who makes the imperfect shells and why they are accepted. This is a perilous moment. Guns for which shells are provided that explode too soon or do not explode at all may cause a naval defeat. We agree with Mr. DANIELS that the files of the Navy Department should be inviolate and that the person who gave the secret information to Mr. FRELINGHUYSEN might have been actuated by personal malice. But if his action leads to a wholesome reform in the methods which permitted these imperfect shells to be given to the gunners of the St. Louis and the Philadelphia, the people will decide that the end has justified the means. The effort to hunt down the anonymous informer should be successful if it is vigorously carried forward. The man should be found, because he ought to be made to tell all he knows, and if he turns out to be only a mischief-maker he ought to be suitably punished. But he is certainly not a German spy, and we doubt if he has traitorous inclinations.

THEY WANT OUR WHEAT.

Neutral Governments in Europe will be informed by the new Food Administration, dispatches from Washington say, that if they wish to get foodstuffs from this country they must supply ships to carry them. This may be equivalent to saying that grain will not be withheld if ships are sent for it. These neutrals want wheat. So do our allies. As Secretary HOUSTON says, "the task of "maintaining their subsistence is at "once a political and moral obligation "and a military necessity."

Last week's crop report shows that we may expect 650,000,000 bushels of new wheat. Probably last year's short crop of 640,000,000 will be exhausted before the harvest. In normal times we need 620,000,000 bushels for ourselves. Unless consumption here is reduced, only about 30,000,000 of the new crop can be exported. Recent estimates say acreage in Canada has been decreased by 8 per cent. Our allies will need more in the year than they have imported in the last twelve months. France, for example, must have nearly twice as much. They will look to this country and Canada for the greater part of the 340,000,000 bushels of wheat and the 300,000,000 bushels of fodder grain which they must buy. Our exports of wheat have been growing rapidly in the last two months. They rose from 810,205,000 in March to 842,560,000 in April. The quantity shipped from the United States and Canada advanced from 4,545,000 bushels in the third week of May to 6,179,000 in the fourth, and 8,447,000 in the first week of June.

It may be impossible to supply the wants of our allies. How can we afford to let European neutrals have wheat, even if they furnish the ships? If some of them had kept for their own use the American wheat and other food which they sold to Germany, they would not need so much now. The wants of our own people and our war partners demand economy, neutral nations which have prolonged the war by supplying food to the people and soldiers and submarine sailors of Germany.

THE CARPENTERS' CASE.

The Supreme Court's decision in the carpenters' case has special local significance, and establishes a point of national importance. An injunction was sought against carpenters who had "conspired" with their employers to keep other carpenters out of jobs, and to exclude from New York materials made by nonunion labor in other parts of the country. The object was to divide the trade between the parties to the agreement by arrangement between labor and capital against other labor and other capital. There were a series of suits and counter-injunction proceedings. The injunction against the strikers and boycotters was met by the union's demand for an injunction against attempts to harass and impoverish it by litigation. This conflict of allegations is incidental to some hundreds of boycotts supported by the Federation of Labor, the Danbury hatters' case being the best known.

The lower courts in the carpenters' case followed the law of the leading case. The Supreme Court does not disturb the law as settled, but decides that private parties have no standing to enforce the Sherman law against unions as matter of public policy. That is the duty of the Attorney General under the Sherman law. The hatters were prosecuted as individuals by an individual who proved individual damage. The difference in the economics and ethics of the cases is not clear. The carpenters were not seeking to advance their interests by efficiency or economy. They sought to improve their conditions of employment by putting their competitors at disadvantage. They alleged it to be a grievance to them that employers should ask them to work upon materials made by other workmen against whom nothing was alleged except that they were not unionists. In such cases they refused to work, fined their members who did work, and called sympathy strikes in support of the secondary boycott. The effect was felt in increased costs through the entire building industry of this city, and in the decrease of trade among producers of nonunion materials throughout the country. The boycott was enforced by the union, which has 200,000 members, and is called the strongest single union.

Authorities disagree whether the Clayton law alters the Sherman law in this respect. President TAFT has said that the substantive law is not altered by the Clayton law. The law of procedure seems to be altered by these words: "Any person, firm, cor- "poration, or association shall be en- "titled to sue for and to have injunc- "tive relief in any court of the United "States having jurisdiction over the "parties against threatened loss or "damage by a violation of the anti- "trust laws." The carpenters have won a tactical advantage which makes it necessary for both them and their opponents to take further steps. The secondary and sympathetic boycott must be established or disestablished. There is no possibility that there should be any doubt left about it.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Exemptions, Right and Wrong.

That an impression the reverse of agreeable has been produced by the fact that a large number—more than a majority—of the men enrolled in preparation for the selective draft have "claimed exemption" from military service is something that cannot be denied. There was no necessity for creating this impression, and it could have been avoided in either of two ways.

One of them, and the simpler, would have been to omit the question from the enrollment blank, or to give the registrars explicit orders not to ask it, instead of merely telling them that they did not need to do so or to insist on an answer if they did. A still better way would have been to issue, before the enrollment was made, a clear and definite statement of just what constituted exemption, when it could be decided by the registrars, and then to demand of the men who came before them not "Do you claim exemption?" but "Are you exempt from military service?" Then the answers made would have brought nothing of reproach, or even of suspicion, on the makers, and the task still to be performed by the Government in selecting men for the new army of so-called conscripts would have been appreciably lightened by obviating the necessity for examining men who, though of military age, are plainly unfitted to be soldiers.

As it is, nothing at all has been accomplished, since none of these "claims to exemption" is conclusive, and the whole ground will have to be covered again. As it is, too, all of these claimants are viewed more or less askance by the non-claimants, and with some excuse, though often unjustly, because, for all anybody knows, any one of them may be a slacker or a coward who wants to keep out of the army and to let other men do the fighting for him.

Exemption in theory is, and in fact ought to be, merely recognition that, for one or another good reason, a man's place is elsewhere than in the military service. So understood, he could declare himself exempt, if he were, and do it without hesitation and without incurring the slightest reproach, for the declaration would have been the performance of a duty and not even possibly an effort at the evasion of duty.

Exhortation Was Not the Object.

Something of an argument could have been made against the issuing of a button or other distinguishing badge to be worn by the buyers of a Liberty Loan bond. It could have been said, for instance, that not in this way could a line be drawn between the patriotic and the unpatriotic, as not everybody, even though he would be exposed to undeserved criticism, while others, by no means as trustworthy, would escape it at little or no cost, simply because their pockets were better lined. To say this, however, would be carrying logic and sensitiveness somewhat further than is quite safe or judicious in the conduct of human affairs.

Contributors to the loan have a right, if they choose, to let other people know that they are assisting the good cause by lending money to the Government, and those who fail so to assist, whether out of indifference or disaffection, can fairly enough be subjected to the slight compulsion that the existence of this token creates. So easy are the terms on which the smallest of the bonds can be bought that the possession of one of them can be achieved by practically everybody who with reason can be expected by anybody to make this particular demonstration of helpfulness and devotion.

It having been decided, however, and on the whole properly, to issue buttons to be worn by the buyers of bonds, the buttons should have borne an inscription plainly indicative of their purpose and accomplishing it. Those that have been given out are strangely irrelevant. They bear, not a statement, or even a hint, that the possessors have bought a bond. Instead, the words on them, "Get Behind the Government," are merely an exhortation, entirely laudable, of course, but without obvious, or even conceivable, relation to the supposed, or rather the avowed, object for which the buttons were prepared and given out.

"I Have Bought a Bond! Have You?" might not have been in the best of taste, but at least it would have differentiated those who to some extent "have done their bit" from those who have as yet hung back, and that, if anything, is what the buttons could have effected.

Explanation Doesn't Justify.

One of THE TIMES correspondents attempted yesterday to defend the way in which the Russian revolutionists are treating the officers and agents of the former Government whom they have been fit to arrest and imprison. He did not succeed at all well, though, of course, he had no difficulty at all in proving—by reminding us of well-known facts—that the revolutionists were not to blame for the faulty construction of the Russian prisons as regards ventilation and sanitation, and that the severities charged against the new régime compared favorably with those habitual under the old one.

All that could be admitted, and still there would be more than excuse for complaining against the men who claim to be representative of modern ideas. It is not enough for them to be no worse than their predecessors—it is not enough for them to be a little better.

Their deposition of the Czar was a most wonderful and admirable achievement. It justified the high expectations that were aroused in every free and democratic country, and those high expectations are cruelly disappointed when the revolutionists perpetrate the very abuses and barbarisms that were the sufficient warrant for their rising against the constituted authorities of their country.

The civilized and advanced world is as eager to praise the new Government as it was prompt to extend to it sympathy and recognition. That it is held to an elevated standard of conduct, and is blamed for falling below that standard, is not a grievance, but a compliment, and so it should be considered by all of Russia's friends.

An Old Wooden Ship.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

After reading the note of E. P. Wheeler I would add to his quotations of longevity of wooden ships the case of the Dashing Wave, built in 1853 at Portsmouth, N. H., and hailing from Boston, in California trade until 1867. In that year she was bound in to this port from San Francisco with a full cargo of wheat, copper ore, and wine, and was sunk in deep water near Southwest Spit, in our lower bay.

I contracted to save ship and cargo, and did it so carefully that the hull was uninjured and she was soon ready for a trip "around the Horn." After many years in lumber trade her rig was reduced and she is now listed as a 1,000-ton barge on Puget Sound. LEWIS LYMAN JONES.

Brooklyn, June 11, 1917.

THE GERMAN SETTLER.

Long, long, have I abided in this land
Where to my steps were drawn
Nor do I lonely stand,
For in a shadowy band
All my old kinsmen gather 'round me from the dawn.

I see across the waters, whence I came,
The morning skies aflame
With burning altars of my fallen gods—
Gods that the priest cast down before another Name—
And, in the deep Hyrcanian forest, gleams
The old false gods, the false new gods, I see;
And in the morning twilight and the eves
I hear the rustle of the whispering leaves
That tell of strange things past and yet to be.

From earth's dark caves and ancient mystery
In this new world I builded me a home.
Past a great sound of wailing have I come,
And leaping forms, and horrid crimson glare,
And burning faggots 'round one stark and dumb,
Whose lips yet moved in prayer.
I have come past all this, yea, past much woe!

. . . . .

Acres on acres, stretching o'er the plain;
And by the waters of the cool bayou
My sweet-breathed kine in slow contentment go
From spreading oak tree and from soaring pine
And starlings sing, and golden-banded bees
Hum in the clover.
Faint in the sunshine, comes a sudden gloom!
And through the sweet perfume
Of roses, and the starry jasmine's bloom,
A whiff of burning, from I know not where,
Comes on some subtle air,

O, kin and kinsmen, rise with might and main
Against old terrors that break forth again.

CONTROL OF EXPORTS VOTED TO PRESIDENT

WILL REGULATE SHIPPING

A Weapon by Which American Products May Be Kept from Reaching Enemy Through Neutral Countries.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Control of exports was given to the Government today when the Senate finally approved the Administration Espionage bill with its embargo clause. The measure, now sent to the President for his signature, puts into the hands of the Executive a weapon by which it is intended to stop supplies from entering Germany through neutral countries.

Passage of the bill removes to a great extent the necessity of the British blockade, since the United States, originator of most of the exports that reach the neutrals, will be in position, with the aid of British machinery established during the three years of the war, to see that the countries are supplied with just enough food and materials for their own needs.

The measure gives another powerful weapon to the President in that it permits him to trade for articles controlled by the Allies which heretofore have been permitted to come to America only in limited quantities. The United States, with an enormous trade balance in its favor and largely independent of the rest of the world for raw supplies, can force release of the supplies it does need by exercising its new power over exports.

Control of Ships and Cargoes.

Control over shipping will result. As administered, the act will require licenses for export cargoes, and under this arrangement the Government can force neutral ships from harbors where they have sought safety from submarine attack into service to transport cargoes wanted by their home countries. American and allied shipping, too, can be required to carry cargoes to the destination the Government considers should be supplied for a proper conduct of the war.

The act probably will be administered by the Department of Commerce, with an advisory board named from the State, War, Navy, and Commerce Departments and the food administration. The State Department will decide questions that involve international policy, and the food administration will have the final word regarding food exports.

Officials say the measure is as essential to a food administration as is the Food Control bill. No matter how heavy foreign purchases the Government by regulating shipments can accomplish as much in this direction as if it controlled purchases outright.

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce will probably handle licensing details. A proclamation to be issued by the President within a few days will outline an organization. Already the bureau has been working on a plan and has notified exporters that a licensing system will be put into effect in the near future. The bureau will have to add to its personnel probably 300 men to handle exports.

Reduction of Long Hauls.

In applying the new law the Government's purpose, aside from preventing supplies from reaching the enemy, will be to conserve all American resources, first, to make America effective in the war; second, to make the Allies effective, and third, to befriend neutrals friendly to the alliance. The power to readjust shipping routes and sources of supply is expected to effect a tremendous saving in tonnage by reducing long hauls. For instance, Spain might not be allowed to get American coal if she could just as well get coal from England.

The enormous mass of figures collected by the Allies in their rationing of Holland and Scandinavia are of course available to this Government, and they will be supplemented by the independent investigations of American Consuls on the spot. It is essential not to allow imports into any country contiguous to Germany which can in any way be reexported or used to release native supplies for Germany.

The neutral nations have expressed much concern over America's possible policy, and three of them—Norway, Sweden and Switzerland—have sent special commissions to this country to present their needs and requirements. They also have developed a mass of statistics as to their foreign trade which they hope will induce this country to be as generous as is consistent with her own needs in the furnishing of supplies.

America's final incorporation into the allied economic strength with the legislation passed today gives the alliance the practical trade domination of the whole world outside the German Empire and its allied countries. The neutrals are practically helpless without allied shipping and coal.

Provisions for newspaper censorship had been struck out of the Espionage bill before final action upon it was taken, and material modifications in other respects had been made. The most important legislation retained gives the President authority to embargo exports.

The law would punish espionage by death or long imprisonment; penalizes interference with foreign commerce; provides for enforcement of neutrality; authorizes seizure of shipments of arms designed for unlawful purposes; fixes penalties for injuring vessels in foreign commerce or disturbance of foreign relations, and imposes new restrictions upon passports. Other provisions are for censorship of mails and extension of the use of search warrants.

Result of Jewish Election in Doubt.

Owing to delay in the counting of ballots which were cast on Sunday, the Executive Committee of the American Jewish Congress was unable yesterday to announce the names of any of the delegates who were elected from New York City to participate in the congress on Jewish rights which will be held in Washington on Sept. 2. At the headquarters of the committee in the Metropolitan Building it was said yesterday that the results of the elections would probably not be known until Thursday evening or Friday.

Bishop Darlington and Lord Aberdeen.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you allow me to add a word of cordial indorsement of the thoughtful and accurate statement of the Rev. John Wade in THE TIMES of today?

Apparently Lord Aberdeen had not fully understood that, although he had been invited to give an address on Ireland, he was also free, and, indeed, was expected, to describe fully the philanthropic work for the maintenance of the anti-tuberculosis campaign (which has already effected a vast amount of good) and the checking of infant mortality in Irish cities.

It was evidently in order to rectify this omission that the Bishop, with generous thoughtfulness, intervened and put a few straight questions regarding the movement. And all who were present must have noticed the alacrity with which Lord Aberdeen responded to the opportunity thus offered, and also the fullness with which the questions were answered. And before the conclusion of the service the Bishop, although he had incidentally indicated his disagreement with the views adumbrated by Lord Aberdeen in regard to Irish political questions, heartily expressed his opinion that the movement which Lord and Lady Aberdeen are advocating should be supported.

I learned afterward that the collection was of substantial amount, and there can be little doubt that it was increased by the part taken by Bishop Darlington.

REASSURES CITIES ON TAXES

State Will Not Cripple Municipalities, Sage Tells Mayors.

BUFFALO, June 12.—At a dinner given here tonight by the citizens of Buffalo for the State conference of mayors and other city officials, Senator Henry M. Sage, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, expressed the belief that the cities need have no fear that the State, in looking for additional sources of revenue, would cripple them. He assured the city officials that the State realizes the necessity of the case, had a distinctly fellow feeling for the cities, and would not intentionally encroach on their preserves.

"For the last few years," said Senator Sage, "the State's policy has been to divide with the cities in every case where both State and city seemed to have a common interest in the source of revenue. There is, however, one instance where I do not believe in the division, viz., the automobiles are paying for a part of the injury which they do the roads. If this is true, all of the money collected from the automobiles should be spent on the roads which they have injured.

"All of this money should go to the State to be spent for the upkeep of the State and county highways, and a small wheel tax should be imposed on all who use the roads with horse drawn vehicles. This is reasonable and just, and would, I believe, remove any real objection to the automobile tax, even if that tax were increased to a point where the users of the highway practically paid the expense of their upkeep.

"As to the State's future sources of revenue, I believe first that each year a direct tax should be imposed only for the purpose of our interest and sinking fund requirements. This would act as a check on the people voting large bond issues whenever they have a chance. With this as a nest egg, our present sources of revenue are sufficient for a time if the new corporation income tax fulfills expectation. For the future, and the very near future, I absolutely believe in an income tax because it is a long step toward the end."

Cornelius F. Burns, Mayor of Troy and President of the conference, presided at the opening session today. Mayor Walter R. Stone of Syracuse submitted the report of the Committee on Food Supply. The committee, he said, had co-operated with the State Department of Education in a vacant lot garden campaign, and reports from all parts of the State showed that in practically every city a vigorous campaign to put vacant land under cultivation was succeeding. To help solve the problems of distribution this committee urged that each city, as soon as practicable, establish a Department of Markets.

FORDHAM TO GRADUATE 262.

Fordham University began its commencement festivities last night when 300 alumni and members of the graduating class were guests of the Faculty at the annual university banquet. The attendance was much smaller than last year because of the number of recent graduates who have entered the army and navy. Many of these at the banquet appeared in uniform. The seniors and those alumni who leave this week for Allentown to train with the Fordham Ambulance Unit were also conspicuous because of their Red Cross arm bands.

All the speakers held up to emulation the example of the work started by the 424 alumni and students who have already enlisted. Aid was asked for the proper equipment of the ambulance corps and a Fordham campaign was started to boom the Liberty Loan.

Among the speakers were Monsignor Mooney, '67, who represented the fifty-year class; Timothy Murray, '92, the spokesman for the twenty-five-year class, and ex-Senator Loring Black, who represented the graduates of 1907. Monsignor Mooney said it was the duty of all college men who had no dependents to help the fight for universal liberty. In his capacity as representative of Cardinal Farley, another member of the class of '67, he said that while all could not shoulder a gun, most of those present could aid in the proper equipping of a soldier by buying bonds.

Addresses were also made by Frank Oliver, '00, Francis X. O'Brien, '04, the Rev. Harding Sterr, editor of America, and the Rev. Joseph A. Mulry, S. J., President of Fordham. Father Mulry said the selective draft would save the United States from the catastrophes that loomed over future generations of Europe.

The class "baby awards" scheduled for last night and the class day processions and athletic activities arranged for today have been abandoned. The only events retained on today's list are the annual memorial mass for deceased alumni, the meeting of the Alumni Society at noon and the formal commencement exercises which will start at 3:30 o'clock.

The class which will graduate today is the biggest in Fordham's history. It numbers 262. Among those who will receive honorary degrees are Sister Mary Pauline, President of the College of St. Elizabeth, who celebrates her fiftieth anniversary in religious work today, and who will be made a Doctor of Literature; Arthur S. Sommers of the Board of Education and Thomas Brogan, Assistant District Attorney of Hudson County, N. J., who will receive the degree of Master of Arts.

VASSAR GRADUATES 237.

President MacCracken, in Address, Scores Attempt to Gag the Press.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 12.—After a baccalaureate devoted to war topics and a class day shorn for economy's sake of its historic daisy chain and resplendent gowns, Vassar College today graduated its 237 seniors with the plainest program ever witnessed in its fifty years. The presentation of the degrees was preceded by an address by President MacCracken, in which he denounced the forces which have been at work to procure a press censorship in America.

"It will be an ill day for a nation," he said, "when restraint upon discussion of broad issues, whether of this war or any other part of national policy, is held to be essential to its military strategy."

Much of the address was devoted to the part which Vassar students and graduates will play in the present war. He expressed the belief that the training for this service already given at Vassar has brought its young women to a high state of efficiency.

Announcement of gifts and scholarships was deferred until the close of the commencement program.

War Commission Will Be Received in New York on June 21.

The Italian War Commission now in this country will come to New York on Thursday, June 21, it was announced yesterday. The commission was to arrive this week, but the date was postponed on account of the illness of the Prince of Udine, head of the commission. The same general plan of entertainment as that which marked the visit of the French and British Commissions will be followed in the case of the Italian Commission.

The members of the party will be received at the City Hall upon their arrival and will be welcomed by Mayor Mitchel and Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, Chairman of the Citizens' Committee. They will then be escorted uptown to their place of quarters. They will dine at the Hotel Plaza and will be presented to Governor Whitman at this dinner. Later there will be a reception for them at the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The second day, Friday, June 22, the Municipal Association will give a luncheon for the visitors at noon. In the afternoon they will take a trip up the Hudson River. At 7:30 o'clock in the evening there will be a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria. On Saturday, June 23, the third day, there will be a parade, a gathering of the Italian national and civic associations and citizens generally at the City College Stadium. The program of entertainment will end with a dinner on Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock to be given by Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler. The commission will leave Saturday afternoon or evening for Washington.

MAYOR OBJECTS TO PAY FOR TRANSFERS

PROFIT IN LOWER FARES

Subway on a 20 Per Cent. Basis, He Says, Is "a Fair Offset" to Any Surface Car Deficiency.

Mayor Mitchel replied yesterday to the letter sent him some time ago by Theodore P. Shonts, President of the New York Railways Company, who presented reasons why the Public Service Commission should grant the request of the company for permission to charge two cents for transfers. The Mayor declared that the applications would be contested unless the companies presented overwhelming reasons why the increased fare should be allowed.

"The analogy cited by you," wrote the Mayor to Mr. Shonts, "between the street railways and the steel companies which have charged higher rates, declared vast dividends, and piled up huge surpluses because the supply of steel has been limited and the public has been compelled to have it at almost any price, it would seem to me is not fortunate. I trust that the petitions of the street railway companies are not based upon the hope that war conditions may be used for their corporate enrichment. You also refer to a contemplated increase in postage rates. If this be done it will not be for the purpose of declaring dividends, but as a form of taxation to assist in defraying the expenses of the war."

The Mayor said that the appeal for higher rates to avoid bankruptcy was in striking contrast to the attitude of the company at the time of its reorganization. Then the Public Service Commission tried without success to induce the company to adopt a financial plan which would be sound and would not represent an overcapitalization. The Mayor asked:

"Why should higher fares now be permitted if your company is, as the commission believes, overcapitalized? If bankruptcy and disintegration come, as you suggest may be possible, will they not be due to abnormal rentals and excessive security issues rather than to low rates of fare?"

The Mayor said that he did not believe an increase in fare would produce a net increase in the company's revenues. A decrease in fare sometimes increased revenues, he said, and referred to the time when the fare on the elevated lines was 10 cents, and how the financial situation of the company owning the lines improved when the fare was reduced to 5 cents.

"With the substantial increase in subway and elevated facilities soon to be realized, he continued, "it is almost certain that many will leave the surface lines if required to pay 40 per cent. more than formerly, even at some personal inconvenience. We have heard no suggestion that during this temporary period of stress the abnormal present profits of the subway be divided with the public. It is recently asserted that the Interborough Company has recently declared a quarterly dividend of 5 per cent., thereby placing the company upon a 20 per cent. annual dividend basis.

"As the stocks of the New York Railways and the Interborough Companies are held by the same company, would it not be quite equitable to regard the excessive earnings of the one as a fair offset to the reported prospective deficiencies of the other? It seems to me that the public ought not to assume the losses if it earns the gains. The whole community, including and not excepting the street railway companies, must bear the burden of the present war crisis. Perhaps this will entail a temporarily reduced income, but it seems to me that the New York Railways Company may fairly be expected to do its bit and carry its share of the burden with the rest of the country."

APPLIES FOR 7-CENT FARE.

New York & North Shore Company Wants to Raise Rate.

The New York & North Shore Traction Company yesterday filed with the Public Service Commission an application for permission to raise its rate of fare from 5 cents to 7 cents. The company operates several trolley lines in Queens and Nassau Counties, the most important being the one that plies between Flushing and Little Neck. It has a similar application pending before the up-State Public Service Commission. Its application declares the five-cent fare to be unjust, unreasonable, and insufficient to yield a fair return on the investment.

An increase of 2 cents in the fare, it said, would enable the company to continue to operate its cars, make proper reservation for its surplus, maintain its standard of equipment and service, and pay interest on its bonds. No dividends, it said, had been paid upon the stock, and none was likely to be paid for an indefinite period.

The application was signed by John G. Moran, Secretary of the company. It said that the company had issued securities amounting to $15,750,000, of which $30,000 are in bonds. For the last two years the gross earnings had decreased, and during the first ten months of the fiscal year of 1916-17 there was a deficit.

HARDSHIP IN DRUG PATENTS.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 12.—The American Association of Pharmaceutical Chemists, in annual convention today, adopted resolutions urging Congress to suspend the patent rights of alien enemies of the United States during the war.

C. W. Dunn of New York, in submitting the report of the Legislation Committee, declared it was essential that the Government be empowered to commission American concerns to manufacture German patented drugs under royalties. The ideas advanced by the association, which provided half the drug output in the United States, are carried in a bill introduced by Senator Pomerene of Ohio.

CITY REGISTRATION GROWS TO 800,000

BLANKS FOR MEN LACKING

Promise to Relieve the Shortage Today—Many Women Enroll in Downtown Stores.

Registration for the State Military Census fell off in this city yesterday. It was estimated last night that between 250,000 and 300,000 persons had enrolled during the day. Revised figures of the enrollment on Monday, the first day of the registration, showed a total of 500,000, instead of 300,000 as estimated Monday night.

The machinery of registration here is still far from running smoothly. At headquarters, 261 Broadway, it was said that the confusion was due to the fact that not enough blanks had arrived from Albany. In two cases reported the places of registration had to be closed because the blanks gave out.

Director E. P. Goodrich said last night that conditions had been remedied. It appears that the quota of 3,000,000 blanks for women was received, but there was a short supply for the men. Of the white cards which both male and female registrants receive after they have made out their blanks only 1,500,000 were received, and there were even fewer of the red printed slips for men denoting availability for service in the State militia. Mr. Goodrich called up the Adjutant General's office at Albany and received permission to have the needed slips printed here.

Even where the blanks were on hand the work of taking the answers to the many questions was a slow proceeding, and in some cases men and women had to wait in line for hours before they could register. So many went to Public School 17 in Richmond that the quarters proved too small and registration was transferred from the school to a parish house across the street. Registration in the Boys High School in Brooklyn and the Jamaica Training School was stopped in the afternoon because the supply of blanks gave out.

Rush to Enroll in Stores.

Large stores authorized to register their customers reported that they were swamped with the rush of women. One reason for this, the census takers said, was the disinclination of women to register near their own homes owing to a belief that information they gave would become the subject of neighborhood gossip. More than one woman said frankly that she did not wish to give her age. On Monday night two women called up registration headquarters and said they were so worried that they could not sleep. When they were questioned it developed that they had seen a man of their acquaintance in their registration place and therefore both had given wrong ages. They were told to go back and correct their blanks.

Calls came inquiring whether persons under the influence of liquor should be allowed to register. It was stated that if they were sober enough to perform the duty of registering they should be permitted to do so, but if they were irresponsible the police should be asked to put them out on the street.

Another frequent query was whether the loss of the certificate of registration or the red slip designating the recipient's enrollment for the State militia entitled the loser to duplicate his registration. It was ruled that no such permission would be granted, but that after the census had been taken persons who lost their cards were to write to the Director of the Census for New York City, stating the facts, and if they had made out blanks they were to receive other cards or slips.

The falling off in registration was said to be due partly to a belief that the enrollment places were crowded and that to wait until a later day meant more comfort and less delay.

Fail to Get Exemption.

On the red tickets enrolling eligibles for militia duty is printed Section 3 of Chapter 41 of the Laws of 1909. Under this section all persons claiming exemption are instructed to file notice with the County Clerk. In consequence of this 2,000 persons went to the office of County Clerk William F. Schneider yesterday and to other County Clerks in proportionate numbers to ask for exemption. They had their pains for nothing, as no application was allowed. As on Monday, the applicants wished to be stricken from the list chiefly on the grounds of physical disability or of having dependents. Those who applied were told that their cases would be acted upon by an Examining Board if they should be called for military duty.

The returns are incomplete and have not been tabulated. The greatest registration reported was in the Twenty-third Assembly District, where, with the figures from eighteen places missing, the total was 12,000. Headquarters for counting the census were opened yesterday at 49 Lafayette Street, and machinery will be set up for tabulating and card indexing the returns from the whole State. The director is Leo H. McCall, purchasing agents of the New York Life Insurance Company, and he is assisted by Elbert D. Murphy, Superintendent of Inquiry and Files of the same company. The work, it is expected, will take three months. Six hundred girls are now at work, and it is expected that within a few days 800 girls will be going over the blanks and tabulating the returns. These girls are volunteer workers who have been furnished by the insurance companies.

In Brooklyn and Queens there was the same delay, due to the shortage of blanks, as in Manhattan. The shortage became so marked in Queens that Walter I. Willis, in charge of registration, said that unless more effort was made to distribute blanks he would refuse to assume responsibility.

The Executive Board of the Women's Peace Party of New York City met yesterday and indorsed a statement urging women to register, but to go on record as objecting to war service, either direct or indirect.

BOARD TO DECIDE EXEMPTIONS

Conditions Will Depend Upon Future Action of President.

ALBANY, June 12.—Exemptions from military service claimed by those who register in the State military census will be determined by a State Board. This is the opinion of Captain G. G. Henry, Director of the State Census. He issued this statement tonight:

"No male between the ages of 18 and 45 years, inclusive, can avoid being enrolled in the State militia if he is a citizen of the United States or has declared intention of becoming a citizen by taking out first papers. Exemptions from military duty have not been cleared up, and will not be until the President's proclamation is issued detailing the classes of men he desires to exempt.

"A new law of May 24 sets certain exemptions, such as judicial and executive officers of the National and State Governments, persons in the military and naval service of the United States, persons employed in the transmission of mail, employes of armories, arsenals and navy yards of the United States, pilots and mariners actually employed in the sea service of any citizen of the United States.

"Persons served with notice of enrollment in the militia who know they are in the prescribed exempt classes may apply to the County Clerk of their county and have 'exempt' written opposite their names. In the last analysis, however, exemption boards will be called upon to determine exemptions."

ENROLL 86,754 CITY EMPLOYES

1,612 Can Be Spared for Service Under First Draft.

Commissioner of Accounts Leonard M. Wallstein announced yesterday the completion of the preliminary census of city employes for military purposes. The returns show that 16 per cent. of the men on city payrolls have had previous military training, 74 per cent. have dependents, and 17 per cent. of those between 21 and 31 years can be spared from the service of the city for military duty. There are 9,733 in the prescribed age group, and of these 1,612 can be spared and 7,488 have dependents.

The group having previous service is divided thus: 2,763 served in the army, 846 in the navy, 2,854 in the National Guard, 1,470 in training camps, and 350 in military schools. Of the women employes 6,844 are between 16 and 50 years and 774 could be spared.

The census shows a total of 58,148 city and county employes in New York City, of whom 50,403 are men and 7,745 are women. These figures are exclusive of the 28,606 employes in the Department of Education, of whom 5,681 are men and 22,925 women. The Department of Education workers would bring the total up to 86,754.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—When the War Department offices closed tonight reports of the registration under the provisions of the Selective Service law had been received from 79 per cent. of the States and showed that the actual registration was 92.6 per cent. of the census estimate. This was accepted as most favorable by the authorities, as it had been shown that in some of the Far Western States, the census figures were unquestionably too high.

The total registration recorded tonight, with tabulations from thirty-nine States, the District of Columbia and the National Parks, was 7,478,678 as against a census estimate of 8,097,311. The percentage of exemptions indicated was about 60. It is believed that the exemption rules which are soon to be announced will roll down that percentage appreciably and that the army officials will have no trouble in obtaining 500,000 or 1,000,000 men from the first call, men who are fit and ready to enter military service at once.

Michigan reported tonight at the head of the honor roll. The census estimate for that State was 328,154, and the tables submitted to Brig. Gen. Crowder showed 372,872 men registered, or 113.6 per cent. This mark was 3 per cent. above Ohio. The exemptions indicated were 183,270, or slightly less than 50 per cent. of the total number registered.

Indiana reported tonight with a registration of 98.1 per cent. of the census figure, and Idaho with 79.1 per cent. South Dakota reported 85.5 per cent. of the census estimate.

The few States yet to be heard from are expected to report within the next forty-eight hours. After that a recapitulation of the situation will be made. It will include those who have registered since June 5.

ALBANY, June 12.—New York's total registration of 1,036,573, according to a telegram sent today by Governor Whitman to Provost Marshal General Crowder, was divided as follows: White, 750,439; colored, 18,954; alien, 236,006; enemy aliens 31,172. The indicated possible exemptions were 737,809. The State's estimated eligibles numbered 1,100,206.

HOUSE ACCEPTS JAMESTOWN SITE

WAR BUDGET'S WAY CLEARED

Senate Expected to Accept Modification—House Action Accelerated by Letter from the President.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Reducing by $200,000 the Senate amendment for the acquisition of the Jamestown Exposition site as a naval base and training station, the House today agreed to the conference report on the $3,281,000,000 war budget, or Urgent Deficiency bill, which had been deadlocked in conference for more than two weeks. It is expected that the Senate will accept, probably tomorrow, the modification of its amendment, and that by the final passage of the bill the War and Navy Departments will be supplied quickly with funds for which they are represented to have been embarrassed during the period of delay.

The Jamestown item has held up the conference report for the last week. The House instructed its conferees to reject the $3,000,000 amendment of the Senate covering the naval base project; the conferees reported a disagreement today. Meanwhile the House Committee on Naval Affairs had worked on a compromise amendment, which was presented when Chairman Fitzgerald of the Appropriations Committee called up the war budget late today.

President Wilson sent to Chairman Padgett of the Naval Committee a letter transmitting a communication from Secretary Daniels and saying that he regarded it as essential that a naval base and training station be established at Hampton Roads at the earliest possible date. This letter was made public upon its receipt today by Mr. Padgett.

Outside Price $1,200,000.

The compromise amendment provides that the amount to be paid for land at the Jamestown Exposition site shall not exceed $1,200,000, instead of $1,400,000, as proposed by the Senate. An additional $1,600,000 is authorized to equip the naval training station and base.

The House agreed to the modified amendment without a roll call. The President is authorized to institute condemnation proceedings, and if the price awarded is not satisfactory to the owners of the property taken over the United States, they may appeal to the courts after the owners have been paid 75 per cent. of the amount awarded. The impression in Congress is that the $200,000 reduction will be accepted by the owners and that the transaction will be closed immediately without condemnation proceedings.

When the House rejected the $5,000,000 appropriation proposed the price was declared to be excessive, and it was also asserted that a naval base at Hampton Roads would be in danger of demolition by an invading fleet. The Secretary of the Navy, however, urged the Jamestown site, one of the arguments being that it could be speedily equipped for use.

Mr. Wilson's Letter.

The President's letter to Mr. Padgett reads:

My Dear Mr. Padgett: I understand that the House will today be considering the proposition of the establishment of a naval base, and I take the liberty of availing myself of this opportunity to ask you to say to the House how essential it seems to me that a naval base and training station should be established, and established at the earliest possible date, at Hampton Roads.

I have considered this matter from a great many points of view and am more and more impressed with the immediate necessity for such a training station. If it cannot be had, and had promptly, the most serious embarrassments will ensue. I sincerely hope that it will be the wish of the House to take the necessary steps for its establishment. Cordially and sincerly yours.

WOODROW WILSON.

In his letter Secretary Daniels said Hampton Roads, the most important strategic point on the Atlantic Coast, was the only place where a naval base of 1,000 acres could be acquired inexpensively. He said the tract was urgently needed so that a training station might be set up to take care of recruits who now are being kept at home because the navy has nowhere to put them.

BRIDE OF HENRY G. LE BOIS.

The marriage of Henry G. Le Bois and Miss Marie Eugenie Bickel, a daughter of Jean Bickel, took place at 5:30 yesterday afternoon in the Church of St. Vincent de Paul in West Twenty-third Street, and the Rev. Father Theodore Wucher, assisted by the Rev. Father McMahon and several other priests officiated.

DRAFT QUOTA TOO HIGH IN ALIEN DISTRICTS

Senator Calder Shows That in Some Places It Will Take Every Citizen of Military Age.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Senator Calder of New York urged in the Senate today that the War Department at once adjust the provision of the Selective Draft act by which the quota to be raised for the army in every part of the country is determined by population instead of by the number of American citizens. Mr. Calder maintained that the system as it would now work out would impose an injustice on citizens of military age in registration districts in which a large part of the population was alien.

"In some communities there are nearly three times as many aliens as there are citizens, and in these districts practically every citizen of military age will have to be taken, owing to the aliens being exempted," he said. "In other districts where there is practically no alien population only a portion of citizens to be taken will be much smaller.

"In San Francisco, thousands of Japanese and Chinese are registered, and they will all be exempt. The War Department will take a large proportion of the citizen population to fill their places. It will be the same in districts in New York where foreign population is concentrated, also in Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis, Philadelphia, Kansas City, and other cities. The way to adjust this will be to draft according to the citizen population everywhere."

Senator Calder submitted these figures to show the number of voting citizens in New York as compared with the draft registration last week:

Enemy Aliens in Jersey Get Respite.

TRENTON, N. J., June 12.—Following the request of Federal Marshal Rollschweiler, United States Attorney General Gregory has extended to June 16 the time for removal of enemy aliens who now live within half a mile of any Government armory, fort, camp, or factory maknig munitions. Recommendations were accepted because of conditions existing in North Jersey, where about 5,000 aliens are living within the proscribed zones and have had no opportunity to move. Marshal Bollschweiler is empowered to issue permits to these Germans, but many of them desire to move outside of war zones.

WOULD TAX PROFITS $250,000,000 A YEAR

SENATOR ANSWERS KITCHIN

Points Out That Upper House Is Putting Strain of War Upon Corporations, Not Consumers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The Senate Finance Committee to-day adopted the British system of taxation on excess corporation war profits as part of the War Revenue bill. This tax is to yield approximately $250,000,000 a year. The calendar years 1911, 1912 and 1913 will be taken as a basis for striking the average of pre-war profits.

The majority of the Finance Committee favors a tax of 16 per cent. upon the excess war profits, the excess to be estimated upon the calendar year 1916. Under the tax as fixed by the House, the yield, it was explained tonight, would be approximately $150,000,000 less than the system favored by the Senate committee. The committee also agreed upon a flat tax exemption of $5,000 in excess war profits.

House Leader Kitchin criticised the Senate committee's work on the War Revenue bill a few days ago as putting the strain of the war tax upon the consumer rather than the corporations. One of the Senate committee members pointed out tonight that the Senate committee had, instead, levied heavy taxes on corporations while reducing the House levy on householders.

One reduction from the House bill that was of manifest advantage to the consumer, the Senator said, was the excision of the 10 per cent. tariff tax. This embraced every imported article. Not only would the House scheme put a 10 per cent. tax on imported goods, it was explained, but it would open the way for an increase in prices by dealers in goods manufactured in this country. The House 10 per cent. tax was calculated to yield $200,000,000. With increases that would come in home-grown products, the Senator said, people would have to pay, in fact, three or four times as much, so that it would entail something like an increase of $1,000,000,000, instead of the tax yield contemplated by the House.

It was further argued by this Senator that the House 10 per cent. tax increase on sugar, which has been struck out by the Finance Committee, would work greater hardship on the consumer than the half-cent-a-pound increase that has been substituted. On cocoa, coffee, and tea the Senate, it was pointed out, had put a low tax, which would bring in $85,000,000, as against the 10 per cent. increase proposed by the House, which would entail not only the tariff tax but an increase in domestic prices.

The Senate Finance Committee will fight for the changes it has made, insisting that in every instance they have been actuated by a desire to distribute the war tax with least pressure upon the man of moderate means.

The committee adopted an amendment to exempt the income on American bonds owned abroad. Heretofore they have had to pay tax. This will exempt all tax on the Liberty bonds.

Provisions giving effect to the committee's previous decision to require income tax information to be at "the source" instead of "collection at the source" were formally adopted. The House rates, except for the additional surtaxes on incomes over $40,000, substantially were retained. They are estimated to raise about $538,600,000. Still pending, however, are proposals, respectively, by Senator La Follette to substitute an entirely new section with materially increased rates on large incomes, and by Senators Penrose and Lodge for further reduction of those in excess of $40,000. Committee sentiment is said to be against the latter.

MME. TERESA CARRENO, FAMOUS PIANIST, DIES

Artist, Who Also Had a Career in Opera, a Victim of Paralysis at 63.

Teresa Carreno, most famous of women pianists, died last night at 7 o'clock in her home, 740 West End Avenue, after an illness of several months, which finally developed into paralysis. She was 63 years old, and was once the teacher of Edward MacDowell.

Mme. Carreno went to Cuba for a professional tour last March, and before her first concert there she became ill with what was supposed to be a trouble of the eyes. She returned to this city, and grew rapidly worse. The funeral will be held on Thursday at 11 o'clock, and the body will be cremated, to be taken to the artist's former home, in Berlin, after the war.

Born in Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 22, 1853, the daughter of a former Minister of Finance of that South American country, Mme. Carreno studied under Louis M. Gottschalk in New York, and later with Mathias in Paris and with Rubinstein. She made her first stage appearance here during the civil war in a benefit concert at the old Academy of Music when she was 9 years old. After touring as a pianist, she also appeared in opera, singing on four days' notice the difficult rôle of the Queen in "Les Huguenots" for Mapleson, and in 1875 in the company of Maurice Strakosch with Brignoli and Tagliapietra. She abandoned opera in 1889.

Known the world over in later years as "the Valkyrie of the pianoforte," Mme. Carreno once conducted an opera troupe on a tour of her native country, and she composed the Venesuelan national anthem.

Her last appearances were made in New York last Winter in recital at Carnegie Hall, and with the Philharmonic Society. Mme. Carreno's husband, Arturo Tagliapietra, was with her when she died. She was four times married, first to Emile Sauret, the violinist; then to Giovanni Tagliapietra, the singer, and in 1892 to Eugen d'Albert, the pianist and composer, from whom she was divorced in 1895.

Five children survive Mme. Carreno, the eldest, Teresita Tagliapietra, a professional pianist, who is now playing in London; a son, Giovanni, who lives in Berlin; a daughter, Hertha, in Stuttgart, and two others, Emelita and Eugenia, who also make their home in Europe. Two were children of d'Albert.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Irregular—Steel Corporation's Next Dividends to Total 4¼%—Loan a Success.

Stocks moved over a narrow range yesterday and closed irregular with net changes at the close generally slightly above Monday's final prices. Trading suffered further contraction, although there was no evidence in brokerage offices of any lessening interest in the market movements. The closing days of the loan campaign have centred attention upon the progress of the Government's big financial undertaking, and with the completion of that in the next two days traders look for a revival of greater activity in stocks.

The striking development in yesterday's financial news was the action of the Directors of the Steel Corporation in going on record after the declaration of a special Red Cross dividend of 1 per cent. in favor of the payment of another quarterly dividend of 1¼ per cent, regular and 5 per cent. extra, the same as was paid at the end of last quarter. This places the stock on an annual basis of 17 per cent., while the earnings are running at the present high rate. The Red Cross dividend will go to such stockholders as elect to take it, but it is confidently hoped that most of them will promptly turn the full amount over to the cause for which it is intended. The statement that the next quarter's dividend will be the same as that declared at the last meeting was made for the express purpose of letting shareholders know that the Red Cross disbursement is in every sense an extra which would not have been made but for the pressing necessity of immediately raising $100,000,000 to be spent for the welfare of the men at the front. It was fitting that the Steel Corporation, as the country's leading industrial company, should lead the way in this excellent cause, and it is the understanding in Wall Street that other big companies which have prospered beyond all expectations in recent months will take similar action in the near future in order that the war council may be early in receipt of large sums, which are urgently required.

A prediction made many months ago was realised yesterday when spot cotton sold at 25 cents a pound. Future contracts also went to new high records in yesterday's exciting session on the New York Cotton Exchange. This price, not seen before since 1871, undoubtedly presages further advances in most articles of wearing apparel. But there is satisfaction in the deduction to be drawn from the advance that shipments abroad are not being seriously restricted by the submarines.

Eleventh-hour subscriptions to the Liberty Loan are coming to hand at a most gratifying rate, and there is every reason to believe that the full amount will be subscribed without making necessary any concerted action on the part of banks and bankers to take up any unsubscribed bonds. The spirit in which New York City has supported this loan is best indicated by the expectation that substantially half the amount allotted to the entire country will be taken in the Second Reserve District. If there had remained any doubt concerning the united front which the citizens are making to insure whole-hearted participation of the United States in the war it would have been dispelled by the response which aliens of all nationalities have made in the last few days to the approaches of bond salesmen.

LONDON, June 12.—The Chancellor's statement concerning the increased cost of the war failed to disturb sentiment. The American department ruled quiet, with prices irregular. Money in increased supply. Discount rates easy.

RATE HEARINGS ENDED.

Commerce Commission Has 18 Days to Consider Freight Rate Increase.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Hearings on the application of the railroads of the country for a 15 per cent. horizontal raise in freight rates were closed today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. After three weeks of testimony and argument the commission has eighteen days to consider the most momentous case in point of railroad finance, ever brought before any tribunal in the country.

A 15 per cent. freight rate advance would mean $800,000,000 annually, according to figures of the shippers, and would affect virtually every big industry in the country. The carriers terials, fuel and supplies, have created an emergency.

Shippers have submitted data designed to show that the earnings of the roads are on an increase, and that the year 1917 will be the best in history, except 1916, which was the peak period of railway earnings, and admitted to be abnormal. They contend that carriers handling two-thirds of the traffic are in prosperous financial condition.

COTTON JUMPS TO TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

HIGHEST PRICE SINCE 1871

Reaction After New Levels Are Reached, but Violent Upturn Gives Net Gain of 48 to 62 Points.

The prediction of some cotton traders that cotton would sell at 25 cents came true yesterday. Spot cotton and contracts for deliveries in July and May touched that figure. This represents a gain of more than $10 a bale in the last two trading days, and an increase of more than $3 a bale in the morning session. Prices paid for cotton yesterday are the highest since 1871.

The market was again active, and after new high levels were reached in the early trading a sharp reaction set in, which carried prices down nearly 60 points from the top. On this break reports of more liberal Southern spot offerings attracted considerable liquidation, and there was also a good deal of short selling by local traders, the latter providing a basis for a violent upturn near the close, which left final prices 48 to 62 points net higher, with the tone of the market very steady.

The market opened firm, at an advance of 21 to 65 points. This was in line with a very strong Liverpool market, where stop orders by short operators and an improved spot demand, with a belief that there would not be enough cotton to go around, caused a good deal of excitement and a sensational advance, the close being 86 to 101 points higher than the previous day. Trading here was very similar to that of the previous day, trade interests absorbing most of the offerings on the early advance. Speculative operations were reduced to a minimum, as commission houses continued their advice against any new business on the part of customers.

Rumors in circulation that the Exchange contemplated closing down or eliminating one or more contracts because of the high prices now prevailing were denied by officials, who said there was no occasion for any such action, as the market was merely reflecting legitimate conditions, such as scarcity of supplies and unfavorable crop reports, while they claimed that the bulk of the recent buying had been by Liverpool houses and domestic manufacturers, to protect themselves against forward sales of goods.

Reports that prices were advancing in the goods market in keeping with the rise in raw material were a factor on the early advance, but the trade buying which has been the prominent recent feature was less in evidence during the day.

Several reports were received here from the South indicating that the advance was bringing out increased spot offerings, and there was some selling here on the afternoon decline attributed to hedging. Such offerings could not have been particularly heavy, however, and there was a renewal of the demand from trade interests on the late rally. Southern spot markets, as officially reported, were 25 to 125 points net higher, most of the markets being 75 to 100 points above Monday's prices, with a fair volume of business at several points.

Exports for the day were 8,575 bales, making 4,980,731 so far this season.

FIGHT FOR CHECK FEES.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Charges that the conferees had exceeded their authority blocked approval in the House today of the Glass bill amending the Federal Reserve act by providing means for the mobilization of reserves in the Federal Reserve Banks through the reduction of reserves required to be held by member banks. The section permitting banks to make collection charges on checks precipitated a fight, which it is expected will be continued Thursday.

When the bill was sent to conference the House conferees were instructed to accept the Hardwick amendment, approved by the Senate, which authorized banks to make "reasonable charges," not to exceed one-tenth of 1 per cent., for the collection of checks and drafts. This amendment was disapproved by the Federal Reserve Board and by Chairman Glass of the House Committee on Banking and Currency. In conference the amendment was changed to provide that the charges should be "determined and regulated by the Federal Board," and there was also added a clause stipulating that "no charges shall be made against the Federal Reserve Banks."

Representative Harrison of Mississippi, contended, when the conference report was brought in today, that the conferees had weakened and practically killed the Hardwick amendment by inserting unauthorized language which was out of harmony with the instructions of the House. Similar charges were made by Representative McFadden of Pennsylvania. Mr. Glass contended that the conference change was within the purview of the authority of the House conferees and that it was essential that the Federal Reserve Board should exercise regulation over the charges made for the collection of checks.

The Hardwick amendment is admittedly in the interest principally of the smaller banks, including non-members of the reserve system, which want fees for the collection of paper handled by them. The fees amount to millions annually. Rural members of the House were largely responsible for the original instructions to the conferees.

Reports Oil Industry Restored.

AMSTERDAM, June 12.—The Wolff Bureau, the official German news bureau, has sent out a telegram from Bucharest saying that the Rumanian oil industry, "despite the ruthless enemy destruction last fall," is rapidly recovering. The telegram says that the production is increasing weekly and fully meeting the needs of the army.

ANNOUNCE STEEL DIVIDEND.

Directors Take Action Several Weeks Ahead of Time.

The United States Steel Corporation yesterday, for the first time in its history, informed stockholders long in advance of the regular date what the next quarterly dividend would be. Following a special meeting of Directors, which was called for the purpose of voting an extra disbursement of 1 per cent. on the common stock to be devoted to the Red Cross Fund of $100,000,000, E. H. Gary, Chairman, announced that the Directors next month would declare the usual 1¼ per cent. on the common and an extra payment of 3 per cent. These dividends are the same as those voted for the current quarter, making the distribution for the two quarters at the annual rate of 17 per cent.

"The Board of Directors adopted a resolution," Mr. Gary said, "that it was the sense of the board that at the regular dividend period on the last Tuesday in July there be declared a dividend of 1¾ per cent. on the preferred stock; a dividend of 1¼ per cent. on the common stock, and an extra dividend of 3 per cent. on the common stock."

While Judge Gary declined to explain why this action was taken so far in advance of the conventional date, the explanation was made obvious by the other development at the meeting. The special Red Cross dividend goes to stockholders to be turned over voluntarily by them to the Red Cross. The Directors acted on the other dividends in order to assure shareowners that by giving the 1 per cent. to the agency of mercy their individual returns from investments in Steel common would not be affected.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Price changes in the wheat market were again of a very feverish nature, but on the whole the undertone was heavy, and final quotations were 1 to 5 points net lower. Cash markets in the Northwest, however, were firm, and in Minneapolis showed net gains for the day of 6¼c to 11¼c. Under prevailing conditions it is practically impossible to make plans for the future, but it is thought that the food bill will not interfere with established market machinery any more than is absolutely necessary to meet the unusual conditions.

CORN.

The corn market was active and feverish. Sentiment was divided, but it was evident that the bull movement was meeting opposition, and final quotations were ¾@2c net lower. Southwestern markets were easier, which was thought to indicate increased offers from the country. In the local cash market No. 2 yellow corn was quoted at $1.84, cost, insurance, and freight, New York.

OATS.

Favorable reports on the new crop, both from Canada and over the West, together with a less active cash demand, caused increased pressure in the oats market, and at the close values were 1¼c to 1¾c net lower. The local cash market was easy; standard quoted at 74@74½c; No. 2 white, 75c; No. 3 white, 73½@74c; No. 4 white, 73@73½c; fancy clipped white, 75@76c; ordinary clipped white, 73½@74½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

The market for hog products was only moderately active, and price changes were narrow. Small receipts at Western points and firmness in the hog position caused a steadier tone, but there were predictions of a larger run of hogs during the balance of the month, and this had a tendency to check buying. Closing quotations showed comparatively little change, except for September pork, which was up 20 points. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 10,000, estimated for Wednesday 22,000; Kansas City received 12,000 and Omaha 1,700.

COTTONSEED OIL.

The cottonseed oil market was again under the conflicting influence of a very strong cotton market on one hand and weakness in competing oils and greases on the other. Final quotations were heavy, ranging from 8 points net lower to 1 point higher. Total sales for the day were 652,900 barrels. Range of prices:

COFFEE.

The coffee market showed continued steadiness yesterday, but trading remained quiet and the fluctuations showed no indication of consequence in the general situation. December contracts sold up to 8.11c, making an advance of 16 points from the previous close, but the market eased off to 8.05c, a decline of 6 points from the top. Final quotations were 4 points lower to 4 points higher. The business included exchanges from July to December at 21 points, and from July to March 38 points, with the total aggregating about 26,000 bags. The local spot market remained quiet and unchanged at 10c for Rio 7s and 10¼c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

It was a dull session in sugar futures, with little interest in the market either way. The opening was irregular, 1 point higher to 3 points lower, and the close showed net losses of 2 to 4 points, with total sales amounting to 6,700 tons. The spot market developed no change, conditions there being dull, with buyers and sellers showing little or no interest in the situation. Range of prices:

Notwithstanding better weather, the demand for refined sugar was light, and prices were unchanged, at 7.50c for fine granulated. The Federal entered the market again, and was accepting orders for city delivery at 7.50c for fine granulated. Raw sugar was dull, with refiners holding out of the market awaiting developments, the only business reported being a sale of 7,000 bags Porto Ricos, July shipment, at 5.77c, cost, insurance, and freight. Cubans shippers continued to hold steady, and asked 6c for the July positions, with a possible buying interest from operators at 1-16c lower. Spot quotations follow: Centrifugal, 5.89c; molasses, 5.01c; cost and freight, 4¼c.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 14,994 packages. The pressure to sell was quite strong again, and, without speculative support, the market made a further sharp decline. Buyers are taking hold slowly at the reduced figures and the feeling is still quite unsettled. This applies to all grades of creamery, both salted and unsalted. Renovated ¼c lower, and there is a little easier feeling on both ladles and packing stock. Creamery, higher than extras, per pound, 39@39¾c; extras, (92 score,) 38¼@38¾c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 37¼@38¼c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 36@37¼c; thirds, 35@36¼c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 40@40½c; extras, 39@39½c; firsts, 38@38½c; seconds, 37@37¾c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 38¼c; good to prime, 36¼@38c; common to fair, 34@36c; renovated, extras, 38c; firsts, 37@37¼c; lower grades, 34@36c; imitation creamery, firsts, 35@36c; ladles, current make, firsts, 34@34½c; seconds, 33½c; lower grades, 32½@33c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 33½c; No. 2, 32½@32c; lower grades, 31@31½c.

EGGS.—Receipts today, 33,653 cases. The market is lower again. Some speculative support developed at the decline early in the morning, but later in the day there was rather less demand and the situation was still unsettled, even at the lower figures quoted. A good deal of stock is being withheld from sale owing to the heavy losses its prompt movement would entail, but there appears to be an ample supply available at current rates to fully supply present requirements. Fancy nearby cars slightly lower, but closed a little steadier. Fresh gathered, extras, per dozen, 34@35c; storage packed, firsts, 32½@33½c; fresh gathered, extra firsts, 32½@33½c; firsts, 31½@32c; seconds, 30@31c; thirds and poorer, 27@29½c; dirties, No. 1, 30½c; No. 2 and poorer, 26@30c; checks, good to choice, dry, 29½c; undergrades, 27@28c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby fancy, hennery whites, fine to fancy, 39½@40c; ordinary to good, 36@39c; gathered whites, fine to fancy, 38@39c; ordinary to good, 35@37½c; gathered browns, fine to fancy, 37@38c; ordinary to good, 34@36c; refrigerator, fancy, 30½@31c; ordinary to good, 29@30c; refrigerator, seconds, 28@29c; refrigerator, thirds, 27@27½c.

We Must Conquer

"The World Must Be Made Safe For Democracy"

"The right is more precious than peace and we shall fight for the things which we have always carried nearest our hearts—for democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments, for the rights and liberties of small nations, for a universal dominion of right by such a concert of free peoples as shall bring peace and safety to all nations and make the world itself at last free."

"To such a task we can dedicate our lives and our fortunes, everything that we are and everything that we have, with the pride of those who know that the day has come when America is privileged to spend her blood and her might for the principles that gave her birth and happiness and the peace which she has treasured."

"For these things we can afford to pour out blood and treasure. For these are the things we have always professed to desire, and unless we pour out blood and treasure now and succeed, we may never be able to unite or show conquering force again in the great cause of human liberty. The day has come to conquer or submit. If the forces of autocracy can divide us they will overcome us; if we stand together, victory is certain and the liberty which victory will secure."

MRS. FITCH AIDS ACTORS.

Mother of Playwright Leaves Fund Part of Her Estate.

The Actors' Fund of America is a large beneficiary under the will of Mrs. Alice M. Fitch, who inherited the estate of her husband, Captain William G. Fitch, U. S. A., retired, and of her son, Clyde Fitch, playwright. Mrs. Fitch, who died at 113 East Fortieth Street, directs her executors to sell all the contents of her town house and of her country place at Greenwich, Conn., and all her interest in the plays written by her son, and to turn the proceeds over to the Actors' Fund.

In memory of William M. Chase, the artist, who painted a portrait of her son, Mrs. Fitch left $2,000 to his son, Robert, "pursuant to the promise made by me when he painted the portrait of my son for Amherst College." Robert Chase also shares in two trust funds of $10,000 each. She gave $2,000 to Eugene Gautier, a French sculptor, "to make the necessary arrangements to have continued the annual memorial masses at Chalone-sur-Marne, for my deceased son on Sept. 4 of each year." She added: "I appreciate the wonderful sentiment of his past thoughtfulness in this connection." Mrs. Fitch left $500 to her son's valet, Jean Courtois, and gave $1,000 to Montrose J. and Dorothy J. Moses "as a slight appreciation of their labor in connection with the memorial edition of the plays of my late son." Mrs. Fitch's bequests to relatives and friends aggregated $128,000.

Santley Now Actor's Legal Name.

Joseph Santley, actor, obtained permission yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum to take Santley as his legal name instead of Mansfield. He said he was only a year old when his father, Thomas Mansfield, died in Salt Lake City, and that his mother subsequently married Eugene Santley, and he had always used that name.

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday.....5 per cent. for the best names
Monday..... " " "

Coal Low Priced, but Scarce.

In spite of the very heavy tonnage being turned out by the anthracite collieries, shipments for May having been the largest on record for any one month in the history of the trade with the exception of March, the local market, says the Coal Trade Journal, shows no signs of easing except in the case of steam sizes. While the actual need for domestic coal for current use has, of course, lost much of its urgency in recent weeks, there has not been a corresponding letup in the demand for stocking purposes. Retail dealers have more than filling orders on their books than they ever had before at this time of the year and many of their customers are pressing for early deliveries. The companies, however, will not increase their tidewater shipments and when the effort is made to buy independent tonnage, local dealers find there is very little to be had. This is put down to the agreement of the operators to sell less coal to middlemen and more to the retail dealers direct. Quotations are lower, but coal is scarcer. The bituminous market is steady with a tendency toward lower levels.

Rubber Prices Weak.

There have been steady shipments of rubber to this market, but the demand has been slack and prices are consequently showing a very weak tone. No prospects are held out for a steadier market as the tendency appears to be in the direction of still lower prices. The following nominal figures were given out yesterday: Crepe and rubber sheets, spot 72 and 73 cents; July 71 cents; Up River fine Para, spot, 73 cents; Up River, coarse, 51 cents; Up River Ball, 49 cents.

Appeals to Both Classes.

It takes a clever furrier to tell the difference between the so-called Summer and Winter furs. The retailer who appeals to the two classes of women, those who do and who do not wear Summer furs, will have one window filled with furs—so-called Winter—and with them a sign for the woman who wears them only in cold weather: "Put your furs in cold storage with us." In an other window are apparently the same kind of furs, selling as so-called Summer furs and for the Summer wearer he has a sign: "Buy your furs now for the seashore and mountains." The foxes of different colors serve for both seasons, but the prettiest and most useful Summer furs, when worn with some reason, outside a big hot city, are the broad scarfs.

Sleeveless Sweaters for Women.

The latest sweaters for women are sleeveless. It is one of the war styles and will last until the war is over. The navy man calls for a sleeveless sweater because it is cold when he is on watch and he must wear as many sweaters as he can get under his leather, fleece-lined coat, and that will be three at least if there are no sleeves. There is no good reason for the sleeveless garment for women, but it is pretty in any bright shade worn over a gown of white or contrasting color. The sleeveless sweater is in other respects like the ordinary garment, medium length, and made in as many different colors as the manufacturer can find yarns.

War Note in Women's Hats.

Hats for women which have the war note are a variant of the military cap. They are artfully made, having the military suggestion, but it is only on close examination that just what the design is can be seen. The hat has the visor effect in front, but the crown is twice as high as the ordinary man's cap. One of these hats, smart and high-priced, is of an olive green, the soft tone of the army uniform. It is trimmed around the crown with two narrow folds of velvet to match and another fold is worn under the chin. Standing up at the front is a loose pompon of the green coque feathers. It is a good Fall style.

Gray Goods Erratic.

The market in gray goods yesterday was erratic owing to the record advances made in cotton during the last two days. There were plenty of bids out for goods, but in most cases sellers refused to enter contracts. For this reason prices during the day were mostly on a nominal basis. Some sales of 39-inch 72-76s were reported at 13 cents. There were also transactions on 38½-inch 60-48s at 9 cents, and on 60-52s, same width, at 9¼ cents. Sales were not large owing to the unsettled condition of the market. Following are the quotations for the day, all nominal figures except in the case of the constructions mentioned above.

Two Sales for One.

Where a salesperson is well acquainted with the goods to be sold there is often the opportunity to get a customer to make a larger purchase than he or she intended. The following example is given by one who ran up against a saleswoman with a knowledge of what she had to sell. It was in the book department of a large retail store, and the customer was after a copy of "Alice in Wonderland." The book was soon placed in the customer's hands, with a question as to whether she had read the parody on the work, "Malice in Cultureland." She had not, and an order was forthcoming in short order for the second book.

Spring Buying on Piece Goods.

The only obstacle in the way of large operations for the Spring 1918 season in the men's wear piece goods trade is the unwillingness of most sellers to accept proferred business. There have been a few sales made for the next season, but the mills are discouraging forward orders wherever there is doubt of profit. The assurance of added wool supplies from Australia has done little to check talk of a future scarcity of goods and record prices. It is thought in the market that the next season will be slow in starting owing to the fact that so many mills are tied up with Government business and will not be ready for the regular trade until much later than usual.

Fall Millinery Forecast.

A forecast of large hats for the early Fall is made in the bulletin of the Retail Millinery Association of America. Models of this design on the poke effect with wide sides 15 to 20 inches across are well spoken of. A summary given of the recent sales indicates that milan satin hats have been leading in popular favor. Among the novelties upon which good results were attained have been tans and tricorne modeled designs.

Silks in Better Demand.

In the silk market yesterday a better feeling was noticeable on all sides. Buyers appear to have become more active, and there was a stronger tone to prices than in some weeks. The buying was of a general character, taking in pricipally taffetas and satins. The plain named material has shown more activity of late, and, while manufacturers do not expect it to take the lead away from taffeta, it is now certain that a large amount of such goods will be required for the coming Fall. Orders for immediate demand also sold in fair sized quantities, and the call for crepes showed no abatement.

HEAR OF NEW SURGERY AIDS.

Makers of Supplies Discuss Trade Progress in War.

Harvey R. Pierce of Philadelphia, in an address yesterday at the second day's session of the convention of the American Medical Trade Association and Wholesale Surgical Trade Association held at the Hotel Astor, described new and interesting devices brought out by the European war. Mr. Pierce, who recently returned from Europe after a tour of some of the Entente Allies' hospitals, devoted most of his talk to ways in which splints and other fracture apparatus were utilized back of the firing lines and at base hospitals. He said he was surprised to find so many titled women in Italy acting as nurses, and that it was extraordinary how efficient they became within a short time. While describing some of the French and Italian Government hospitals as "somewhat crude," Mr. Pierce declared they were doing fine work. He had unstinted praise for the British and American hospitals.

At the morning session of the retailers A. F. Brand of the Kny-Scheerer Company of this city made a plea for the standardization of surgical supplies. E. Stratmann of New York, a native of Germany, appealed to all American citizens, irrespective of birth, to support the Government loyally in the war.

The growth in imports of Japanese-made surgical instruments was discussed. It developed that the Japanese, shut off from their former supplies from Germany at the outbreak of the war, started to manufacture instruments to meet their own requirements and later began to export heavily.

At night 250 members and guests, including women, attended the annual dinner of the associations in the north ballroom of the Astor.

Under Sentence for Larceny, but Must Stand Fresh Trial.

Herbert Reeves, counsel for the Model Building and Loan Association of 2,863 Third Avenue, which collapsed several months ago, who was sentenced in the Kings County Court to from three to six years in Sing Sing for grand larceny, was yesterday ordered turned over to the Sheriff of Bronx County on a writ of habeas corpus by Justice Weeks.

Reeves then was arraigned before Justice Donnelly on an indictment charging the larceny of $5,000. He entered a plea of not guilty, and was sent to the Bronx County Jail.

CENTRAL MUST RENT CITY RIGHTS OF WAY

COMMISSION TO TAKE ACTION

Whole Situation, It Is Predicted, Will Be Cleared Soon on a New Basis.

The situation in reference to the west side improvement was not changed in the slightest degree by the action of the Board of Estimate and the New York Central Railroad Company in dropping the proposed agreement, according to opinions expressed yesterday by officials of the Public Service Commission. The agreement between the Board and company is still in existence, it was said, and it will still form the basis of conferences between the sub-committees of the commission and the board.

That part of the agreement concerning an exchange of real estate between the city and the company will be stricken out because the recently enacted law makes it impossible for the city to cede any of its property rights to the company, but all of the rights of way needed by the company will be given to it on a rental basis. This is the only real difference that will have to be adjusted. One of the Public Service Commissioners, who asked that his name be withheld, made this statement:

"The action of the board and the company in throwing up their hands was childish. It meant nothing except to show that the enactment of the law making the commission partly responsible for the carrying out of the improvement hurt their feelings."

The precise situation, it was explained, is that the railroad will not be able to carry out its desire to procure in fee simple any of the city's property rights, but will have to rent them at a figure to be set by the city. The rental must be readjusted every twenty-five years. It was suggested that the basis of rental would be the same as that on which the company is now paying for its rights in Park Avenue. Then the value of the real estate was appraised, and the rental was one-seventh of 1 per cent. of the valuation.

Asked if the rental would amount to more than a fair return on the value of the property the company had agreed to turn over to the city, one of the Commissioners replied:

"The company's estimate of the value of this property was $8,000,000. Money is earning now, and will continue to earn for a long time, 5 per cent. This would amount to $400,000 a year. It may be that the rentals the city would ask for the valuable rights to the use of its highways would amount to more than this figure, but I greatly doubt it."

William L. Ransom, Chief Counsel of the commission, said that the commission confidently asserts that the new law "will lead to the early completion and joint approval of an advantageous agreement dealing with the west side situation, unless city officials who have said that there will be no agreement under the law resolve on proving themselves correct and regard their reputation for prophecy as more important than the benefits to be derived from a solution of the matter."

In the event that no agreement is reached before Dec. 1, the commission will take over the whole matter and be in sole charge of it. If the company still refused to come to any agreement on a rental basis, it was said, the commission could order it to take its tracks off the grade and run its trains on an elevated structure or through a subway, as the commission decides.

FORECASTS—TODAY AND THURSDAY

KAISER AGENT HIRED BY DEFUNCT BANKERS

CHANGED NAME TO DE PILIS

Government Seeks to Find Real Contents of Packages He Carried to Teuton Countries.

Baronet Frederick de Pilis, who is suing Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. for some $20,000 "salary," is none other than Herr Fritz von Pilis, former employe of the Prussian Government and pro-Teuton propagandist, according to a man who has known him intimately for fifteen years in personal and business relations. Officers of the United States Government are also in possession of evidence that this Austrian changed his name in order to work with Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. in its French connections. According to the District Attorney's office, he is one of the agents of the firm who made fortnightly trips to Europe, taking money and documents to neutral countries for transfer to Vienna and Budapest. What the packages contained besides money is to be investigated.

William H. Griffin of 52 William Street was named by United States Judge Manton yesterday as receiver for Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., and took possession of the offices at 35 Wall Street. The Grand Jury yesterday began its investigation of the affairs of the concern. Evidence was produced to show that the concern headed by William A. Kennedy, now on a ship bound for Spain, had involved many more persons than the Hungarians and Austrians who had intrusted it with money to be delivered to banks in Austria-Hungary. It also developed yesterday that Kennedy, who, in circulars boosting his business, told how he was born in Kent, England, and was educated in Europe, gave in his application for a passport Kentucky as his residence. His father is said to be a civil war veteran. A United States official is authority for the statement that Kennedy may have to face charges of using the mails to defraud.

The discovery that Kennedy's firm for more than a year sent agents fortnightly to Europe, carrying money and documents for transfer to Austria, gave a new and wider turn to the investigation yesterday, which up to that time was of the nature of an inquiry into the alleged larceny by Kennedy of moneys turned over to him for transfer to Europe. The authorities are anxious to know whether the envelopes contained any information the Teuton Governments might have wished to have about the actions of the American Government.

Spread Teuton Propaganda.

The District Attorney's office said yesterday that no inquiry had been made into the activities of de Pilis, or von Pilis, other than that he had been an employe of Kennedy and had been discharged. Investigation by THE TIMES showed that von Pilis came to this country early in 1915 and endeavored to start a very active pro-Austrian propaganda. He enjoyed expressing great contempt for the French. He started the Universal Press Syndicate in the Aeolian Building, but was not successful and turned to other pursuits, having been mixed up in litigation over war orders. According to the information gathered, he changed his name from Fritz von Pilis to Frederick de Pelis in the Summer of 1916. He went to work for Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. in October of 1916.

THE TIMES informant said that he had known von Pilis since 1902, when he was employed by the Colonization Bureau of the Prussian Government to Germanize Poland. There he won the favor of a high official of the North German Lloyd, and in 1904, 1905, 1906, 1907 was in charge of the emigration business of the line at Bremen. In 1907 he went to Berlin, obtained certain concessions in Serbia, and dropped out of sight of his acquaintances until the early part of 1915, when he turned up in New York.

Soon after his arrival here he made tours of the newspaper offices, trying to supply them with the "real facts" from Europe. He supplied "information" about affairs in Italy, which had such a pro-Austrian tinge that he did not get into print.

His job with Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., according to one of those who worked there, was to gather funds from employers of labor to conduct a campaign to prevent emigration from this country to Europe of natives of belligerent countries after the war. In this work he was said to have been assisted by a Mrs. Georgiana Pratt. It was said by a man who should know that Von Pelis's work was not satisfactory to Kennedy, and that he gave Von Pelis a sixty-day notice that his services were no longer required, and that the $500 a month salary would be stopped. Mrs. Pratt is said to have also lost her position. They are both suing Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. for salary claims.

Contract to Rebuild Verdun.

The biggest contract held by the firm was for the rebuilding of Verdun after the war, and the authorities regard it as interesting that a man of Austrian birth and a former employe of the Prussian Government should have been actively interested in a firm doing such work.

In the latter part of 1915 Von Pelis, who was said to have come to this country without large funds, bought a farm in Maitland, Va., and that is the address given by his lawyer, Daniel W. Blumenthal, in the papers in the suit. Von Pelis, or de Pelis, also has an apartment at 22 East Sixty-second Street, where it was said last night he had been out of town for three weeks. Mr. Blumenthal, when asked the whereabouts of his client, said he was traveling in the South.

The District Attorney's office believes that the $300,000 turned over to Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. for commission to Austria was used in paying the running expenses of the firm. Assistant District Attorney John T. Dooling said that the books of the firm showed that in a year $250,000 was transmitted from New York to Vienna and Budapest by the firm.

Mr. Dooling yesterday showed a copy of the contract the firm had for rebuilding Verdun at the close of the war. It was signed for the French by Dr. Victor Pequart, ex-Mayor of Verdun, and Gabriel De La Ruelle, Advocate, as representatives of the Committee for the Re-establishment of the Provinces of the Meuse and the City of Verdun. It was signed for the firm by a man named Falkenberg, the agents of Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., who had a Paris office a t43 Rue de la Chausse d'Antin.

In the papers of the firm were also found promotion agreements with the Pensacola, Mobile & New Orleans Railway, the Southern Plantation Corporation, the Maryland-Georges Creek Coal Company, the Maryland Iron and Steel Company and others, calling for potential profits of $1,500,000. Mr. Dooling expressed the opinion that if Kennedy had been able to go through with what he had undertaken he would have made many millions. The French contract called for an expenditure, estimated at 600,000,000 francs, on which Kennedy's firm was to have received a commission of 7½ per cent.

The District Attorney's office waited all yesterday for a cable message from a Hungarian bank telling whether it had, as claimed for Kennedy, agreed to buy $300,000 worth of stock in the company. If it had Kennedy would be in the position of claiming that the $300,000 which did not reach Austria was to have been offset by this balance. Two bankers, Andre Bandre of Bridgeport, Conn., and Nicholas Risak, appeared before the Grand Jury yesterday and said the money that had been intrusted to Kennedy, Mitchell & Co. for transmission to Kon had not reached its destination. It is upon such items that the District Attorney's office expects to make out a case of larceny against Kennedy. Mr. Dooling expects to hear within a day or two of Kennedy's landing in Spain and expects no trouble in tracing him.

Liabilities Put at $400,000.

A number of additional claims were lodged against the firm yesterday. It was said at the District Attorney's office that the liabilities were about $400,000. As for assets, there were found eleven $1,000 bonds of the Southern Illinois & St. Louis Railroad and stockholders' notes amounting to $4,000. There may be other small assets uncovered, and it may also be found that some of the stockholders are liable.

Mr. Blumenthal, as counsel for the creditors' committee of Kennedy, Mitchel & Co., issued a statement last night in which he embodied a statement said to have been made by Kennedy on Dec. 15, 1916, stating that the firm had sold stock abroad to the amount of $5,000,000. Kennedy's statement listed these items:

Assets	$650,000
Cash subscriptions	350,000
Foreign subscriptions	5,000,000
Foreign subscriptions under contract	500,000
Stock in treasury	3,500,000
Total	$10,000,000

The capital stock was $1,000,000, but was increased to $10,000,000 "to meet foreign needs of co-operation." A part of the Kennedy statement said:

"The company has no debts and no obligations outside its capital stock. Its holdings and cash are kept in such condition as to be converted easily into liquid funds so as to meet every requirement at short notice. It is the purpose and policy of Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., Inc., to serve the world efficiently by making trade, investment, and banking transactions simple for its stockholders and clients so far as authorized by its charter."

Mr. Blumenthal's statement said: "From the present outlook, it appears that all of the available cash assets have been converted and taken from the United States. It is my opinion that William A. Kennedy made his escape from America some weeks ago, taking with him more than $1,000,000 in cash."

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 12.—John Mitchell, Jr., of the firm of Kennedy, Mitchell & Co., Inc., of New York, is the same man who is known in this region as the "financial baron" of the F. Mertens' Sons' apple orchard project. Henry F. Baker, one of the Mertens corporation receivers, said today that Mitchell was wanted by those in charge of the Mertens project, chiefly because he was the only man who could give much needed information relative to the company's finances, and also because he was said to be indebted to the Mertens corporation to a large extent. Mr. Baker believes Mitchell is in Cuba.

DIG FOR CRUGER CLUES.

Fragments of Woman's Garments Found in Cocchi Cellar.

Mrs. Grace Humiston, attorney for the family of Ruth Cruger, the missing Harlem High School girl, obtained a permit from Police Commissioner Woods yesterday to dig in the cellar under the motor cycle shop of Alfredo Cocchi of 542 West 127th Street, who disappeared about the same time Miss Cruger was missed, and has since gone to Italy.

Several hours after laborers had begun to dig an assortment of articles were unearthed. These included a tin sign for an automobile oil, a hand-embroidered corset cover, a fragment of lace fringe of a petticoat, and two bones, which the police believe were the joints of some animal. Five feet under the floor was found a leather glove. All the articles were taken in charge by Detective McGee of the Fourth Branch Bureau, who accompanied Mrs. Humiston to the cellar with J. J. Kron, a private detective employed by the Cruger family.

QUAKE VICTIMS SUFFERING.

Lack of Food and Water in Capital of Salvador—Property Loss Heavy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SAN MIGUEL, Salvador, June 12.—The volcano of San Salvador broke into eruption at 7 P. M. the 7th inst., flowing toward the west and covering with lava the village of Nejapa, Quezaltepeque, and others. This was followed by violent earthquakes which left the capital city, Statecla, Armenca, and other towns near the capital almost totally destroyed.

The inhabitants of the capital and of other destroyed villages are suffering from hunger and thirst and from the inclemency of the weather. They are living in the public squares and the parks and many are trying to leave the place. The supply of drinking water was cut off through the destruction of the waterworks, and the electric light service is out of commission. The telephone and telegraph lines have already been temporarily reconstructed. The valuable farms on the western slope of the volcano were destroyed.

Martial law was declared yesterday, but perfect order reigns. The Government has taken the necessary steps and has put maximum prices upon foodstuffs. Relief committees composed of natives and foreigners are handling the situation.

It is reported that the Government of the United States has offered unconditional assistance. This has produced grateful feeling in the entire country. Telegrams expressing sympathy are arriving from everywhere.

SAN SALVADOR, June 12.—The Government is taking energetic measures to relieve the distress caused by the earthquake. Orders have been given for the construction of temporary dwellings and food is being given gratis to those who cannot pay for it. Committees have been formed in various places to assist the sufferers, and funds are being raised by the foreign colonies.

ACCUSE WOMAN OF SWINDLE

Alleged Victims Say She Promised to Pay 50% a Month.

The District Attorney's office has been asked to investigate the activities of Mrs. Rae Hyman of 300 East Fifty-sixth Street, who is accused by clients of Bernard Sandler, an attorney of 261 Broadway, of swindling them out of their savings after paying several of their number $50 a month for every hundred dollars given to her to invest for them. Assistant District Attorney Aaron J. Colnon did not have an opportunity to interrogate any witnesses yesterday, and it was from Mr. Sandler that the details of the alleged swindle were obtained.

Mr. Sandler said that his attention was called to the case by Mrs. Dora Schiff, a widow with five small children, living in the rear of her small grocery store at 232 East 110th Street. After being introduced to the woman, she said she gave Mrs. Hyman $3,000, her entire savings, and induced four neighbors to take advantage of the opportunity to make money. For several months she and her friends received 50 per cent. a month return on their investment. They never asked Mrs. Hyman how she made the money for them nor received any receipt when they offered their money to her.

When the last month's interest was not forthcoming from Mrs. Hyman and she failed to appear a day or so ago, Mrs. Schiff, according to the attorney, and several other investors went to the office of Edward Grossman, Mrs. Hyman's lawyer, and demanded an explanation.

"I don't know where Mrs. Hyman is," Grossman is reported as saying. "I'm out $38,000 through her, and Leonard Batt, my friend, has lost $10,000 in the same way. I am told she went to Newburg this morning, but I am not sure."

Mr. Sandler said that Mrs. Schiff's story was typical of the statements made by the dozen other alleged victims whom he interviewed during the day.

Uncle Sam Invites You to Visit His National Parks

The Government has done big things this past year in adding to the interest of the National Parks.

Many new trails have been laid out in Glacier so that interesting places heretofore inaccessible may now be visited. Automobiles are universal now in Yellowstone, taking the place of the uncomfortable and slow-going horse stages, a matter for rejoicing by visitors, and the "Cody Road"—eastern exit from the Yellowstone—has been perfected so that its marvelous scenery can be viewed from comfortable automobiles, over glorious Shoshone Canyon. Don't miss the Cody Road!

Let me tell you in detail of the opportunity to visit Glacier, Yellowstone, Cody Road, Rocky Mountain (Estes) Park, Denver and Colorado Springs (with Pike's Peak and Garden of the Gods near by) all on the lines of a single great railroad system—the Burlington Route—the big, prosperous, well-managed railroad of the West. One ticket over one railroad. A glorious trip!

The Hal Twelve

SMOOTH POWER

The Hal-Twelve completely satisfies those who have been accustomed to the best and highest priced cars. And it saves them a neat sum. Due to its wonderful flow of smooth power, hills, sand and dense traffic do not demand the use of either low or second speeds—except in rare instances. Standard equipment, $2600. Wire wheels extra.
